19TH YEAR. NO. 281. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1902—TWELVE PAGES. TWO CENTS.

A NEW POTTERY PLANT TO BE BUILT AT CAMERON

Two East Liverpool Men Are Officers of the Company, Which Is Capitalized at $100,000.

S. E. STRICKLIN WILL SUPERVISE CONSTRUCTION

Active operations upon the construction of the new pottery to be built at Cameron, W. Va., will be commenced next week. Little has been known in this city of the project until today, when an interview was secured from S. E. Stricklin, secretary of the new company.

The concern was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia, and the officers are: President, M. L. Benedum; vice president, Alfred Hard; secretary, S. E. Stricklin; treasurer, A. E. Fox. the latter two of this city. The town of Cameron is 19 miles south of Wheeling, and affords special inducements to an enterprise of this character. S. E. Stricklin was the prime mover in projecting the scheme, and to his efforts is due the fact that the plans have now progressed to the point where work will be commenced at once.

Mr. Stricklin states the pottery will have a four-kiln capacity to begin with and the structure will be so arranged that it can be enlarged at any time to a six-kiln plant, which move the company intends to make within a year. The building will be 400x80, the glost ware rooms and shipping departments three stories high, while the clay shops will be but two. The concern will manufacture semi-porcelain of a high class, and it is now expected that all work will be completed and the plant placed in full operation by June 1, 1903.

The company expects to install in connection with its equipment an electric lighting plant. Every manufacturing concern and business house, together with whatever lights are necessary for the illumination of the town will be supplied by the Cameron China company. The bulk of the stock is owned by Cameron people, and the concern is capitalized at $100,000.

Mr. Stricklin will have full and complete charge of the erection and equipment of the plant, which is a guarantee that the task will be performed in an efficient and business-like manner. One of the first matters which will be taken up by Mr. Stricklin is the sinking of gas and water wells, with which the company expect to supply their own fuel and water.

A switch from the B. & O. main line has already been begun, and will be in readiness to deposit the building materials and machinery upon the ground without delay.

The affairs of the Royal China company, of which Mr. Stricklin has been at the head in this city for several months, will be wound up as soon as possible and the concern dissolved. This will enable the gentleman to devote his entire time to the interests of the new Cameron enterprise.

ITALIAN SHOT BY ACCIDENT

UGLY WOUND IN THE HIP

Caused By the Bullet As the Man Whom It Struck Was Walking Along the Railroad Track—Owner of the Gun Fined.

"I didn't know the gun was loaded," was the laconic reply of Edward Fleming when asked this morning by the mayor how he had come to shoot Dominick John, an Italian, yesterday morning on the railroad track near the old glass house.

The Italian was walking up the track and Fleming in fun pointed a flobert rifle which had been handed him by a boy and pulled the trigger immediately following a report sounded and the foreigner gave a shrill cry of pain. He was removed to his home in Jethro Hollow by the patrol wagon and Dr. Hobbs was summoned. The physician probed for the bullet, which struck the man in the right hip, but was unable to locate it.

Chief Thompson was notified of the shooting last evening and this morning, accompanied by Officer Dawson, made a thorough investigation of the case. The result was that Fleming was arrested and taken before the mayor and a charge of shooting within the city limits was placed against him. To the charge he pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs.

The mayor thinks the shooting purely accidental, and states that Dr Hobbs has given the assurance that the wounded man will soon recover. Fleming promised to go and provide for the Italian through his sickness, and seemed very sorry that he had caused the accident.

HON. W. T. COPE A POPULAR MAN

LEAVES A LARGE ESTATE

Formerly One of Columbiana County's Most Prominent Men—Ohio Representatives at St. Louis Exposition. Royer Act Cases.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, November 28.—Hon. William T. Cope, ex-state treasurer, died at his residence in this city Wednesday night. He was formerly one of the best known men in Columbiana county. He was born near Salineville and spent the greater part of his life in that town. He engaged in the banking business and general mercantile business in Salineville until 1885, when he was elected to represent Columbiana county in the house of representatives. He served two terms. Afterward he went to Cleveland, where he engaged in the coal business. He was state treasurer from 1892 to 1896. Mr. Cope served in the civil war ranking as captain. His business career was marked by success and he leaves a large estate. He was looked upon as the city's most stalwart business men, and his death will be mourned by many. He was a member of the Olivet Presbyterian church, of this city. The funeral will be held Saturday morning from the family home at 222 King avenue. Interment will be at Green Lawn cemetery, this city.

Governor Nash has announced the appointment of the commission which will represent Ohio at the St. Louis exposition. Its personnel follows: W. F. Burdell, Columbus; L. E. Holden Cleveland; Edward Hagenbuck, Urbana; Newell K. Kennon, St. Clairsville; M. K. Gantz, Troy; David H. Moore, Athens. Burdell has been treasurer of the Republican state committee for several terms and is a close friend of the governor; Holden is the editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; Hagenbuck is a member of the house of representatives; Kennan is a lawyer and manufacturer and a son of the late Judge Kennon, of St. Clairsville, who was famous as a jurist; Gantz is an ex-congressman; Moore is a member of the senate and is chairman of the finance committee of that body. The commission has authority to spend $75,000; $35,000 is for a building. Stacy B. Rankin, of South Charlestown, is executive commissioner of the commission.

Attorney General Sheets has been informed that rehearings would be asked for in the cases recently dismissed under the Royer act by the supreme court. The attorneys in these cases contend that the court erred in declaring the retrograde feature to the law to be unconstitutional and cite in support of this a rule established by the court in the case of Curry against Homer, in 1898. The attorneys are to combine and a hard fought legal battle may be looked for.

MISSING STRANGERS MAY HAVE DROWNED

Their Companion Positive That Two Men Were Upset From a Skiff Into the Waters of the Ohio.

NO TRACE OF THEM HAS YET BEEN DISCOVERED

If the story related at police headquarters last evening by J. S. Miller, of California Hollow, who by trade is a roller, but who for several years has engaged quite extensively in the junk business, is true the Ohio river has been made the grave of two more unfortunates. Miller was very positive in his statements, and although he was drunk while unfolding the story and also at the time when he alleges that the drowning occurred, many are inclined to believe him, owing to the peculiar circumstances surrounding.

Elmer Lewis, a roller of Monaca, is one of the missing, while the name of the other is not known to Miller. His home, however, is on Penn avenue, Pittsburg, and he was about 25 years of age, with smooth face and light complexion. No traces of the missing men could be found yesterday or today, notwithstanding a careful search was made of haunts where they would likely be. Distressing cries were reported heard at the time they were reported drowned.

In the presence of a News Review reporter Miller told the following:

"I came down from Monaca Wednesday evening with Daff Call, of this city. We had been up there buying and selling junk. When we got off the train we met Elmer Lewis, of Monaca, and the other men of Pittsburg, and all of us started to get drunk. And if there was ever a gang got drunk we did. The two men from out of town asked me to go down to the river and go over to Chester with them in a skiff. They wanted to see Manager Banfield, of the tin mill, and if possible get a job.

"I consented to go with them and all of us staggered down the hill. I got in the back end of the boat and was so drunk I immediately fell asleep. Until I awoke floundering in the water between the second and third piers of the bridge I was dead to the world. I commenced swimming with all my might and it was so dark that I could see none of my companions. I heard one of them say: 'Oh, for God's sake, some one save me!' All of them, I suppose, went to the bottom then. I pulled off my overcoat and after a desperate struggle swam to shore."

At about 11:30 o'clock Miller was heard by Captain Gus Martindill while he was attempting to climb up on the wharfboat, but before the captain could get down to him he had disappeared, and he states that he went straight home. He left his overcoat on the wharfboat and last evening went with Officer McDermott after it. He said that when he took the overcoat off it contained $63.65, but when

HEARING BEGUN THIS AFTERNOON

George P. McGillivray Faces the Charges Made by His Wife.

MAKING OF COUNTERFEITS

Witness Testifies That She Often Saw Him Making Bogus Nickels And Describes the Process—Crowd At the Hearing.

George P. McGillivray, charged with non-support and making counterfeit money, was arraigned before 'Squire H. P. McCarron this afternoon in the council chamber at the city hall shortly after 2 o'clock.

Attorney George D. Davidson represented the defendant in the case and Attorney Richard G. Thompson, the state.

The court room was well filled with curious spectators and friends of both defendant and Mrs. McGillivray, who filed the charges against her husband.

Mrs. Lydia McGillivray was the first witness for the state called to testify upon the charge of counterfeiting. She said: "I saw him make the moulds and saw him make the nickels. He took a good sound nickel and made the impression. He then melted lead and poured it in the moulds. They came out good nickels. He used different nickels. He said the reason was that he did not want them to all have the same date. He would pour something on them as they would not look like new. He made them in the presence of my sister. He would take them out and come back with good money. I don't know how many he made because I didn's count them."

Cross examined: "I don't know the first date he made them, but it was near the latter part of August. The first night he went out he came back with $1.75 in good money. He told me he was violating the law and he made threats what he would do to me if I told. The mould was a little white one. When he would mould so many it would wear and he would make another one. He showed me many of the nickels."

A PAROLE SOUGHT

BY FRIENDS OF WINNET, NOW IN THE REFORMATORY.

Application Will Be Considered at a Board Meeting in January.

Information from Pittsburg states that application will be made to the parole board of the Ohio state reformatory at Mansfield on January 23, 1903, to parole Robert Winnett, formerly of Duquesne, now confined in that institution on the charge of being an accessory to the death of Ada Jane Moore, who was also a resident of Duquesne.

Winnett was jointly indicted with Dr. W. L. Thompson, of East Liverpool, on the charge and entered a plea of guilty. Winnett has now served the time allotted under which his application will be considered by the board. It is thought that the application will be granted, as it is understood to have the endorsement of the prosecuting attorney and the trial judge. He will be represented before the board by Attorney J. R. McQuade, of Pittsburg.

DEMOLISHED THE WAGON

A Horse Badly Hurt in a Runaway Accident on the Lisbon Road.

A horse driven by Albert Pearce ran away on the Lisbon road Wednesday evening, and besides being severely injured itself, demolished the vehicle to which it was attached. Mr. Pearce was taking orders, and while absent from the outfit the horse took fright. It ran into a fence at the Catholic cemetery, tearing down a section of the palings and becoming entangled in a quantity of barbed wire.

The horse's neck was badly cut by the barbs, and its owner was compelled to obtain the services of a veterinary, who sewed up the wounds.

NO BLAME ATTACHED

No blame was attached to the officers of the car or to the street railway company.

A JOYOUS TIME FOR ODD FELLOWS

Their Entertainment and Reception Attracted a Crowd of 500 Persons.

ALL FINELY ENTERTAINED

Veterans of the Order Gave Interesting Speeches—There Was Music, Feasting And a Superb Program In All Respects.

The Odd Fellows' social and entertainment on Wednesday evening was one of the largest attended and most successful ever attempted by the order. Besides the 60 visitors who came on a special train from New Cumberland there were visitors from Smith's Ferry, Wellsville, Chester and Sebring. Seats were at a premium, but the 500 people present were admirably handled and all well provided for.

The program was in keeping with the balance of the entertainment and was well managed. Besides impromptu addresses by Armour S. Cooper, Supt. Lindsay, Mr. Polland and Hon. J. A. MacKenzie, prosecuting attorney of Hancock county, short addresses were delivered by Attorney Lones and Mr. Lawson, of Wellsville, the latter one of the oldest Odd Fellows in the state, being 54 years a member; Elijah W. Hill and Christian Metsch, of the local order. The latter was initiated into that body in this city 35 years ago when the order was in its infancy.

Miss Mearl Reark and Charles Usler and wife gave most excellent music on the piano and the songs by Miss Anna Dunn and recitations by little Elizabeth E. Clark were much appreciated. Dr. J. Howard Davis kept the audience in a continual roar each time he appeared. Others also helped to make the entertainment one of the best.

Choice refreshments were passed around. After luncheon about an hour was spent in a regular "old time mix-up," where nothing but good fellowship existed. Too much praise cannot be given the general committee for its entertainment, one that every Odd Fellow of the local lodge should be proud.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

ARTISTIC POTTERY.

If we were to reckon up the establishments in which artistic pottery is made in the United States we should find as many as ten enterprises. This does not include painters of pottery or porcelain which has been bought ready-made and fired, says an exchange. A great deal of that sort of work is done; persons who are skillful in the art of painting of flowers and in the intervention of decorative patterns will buy bowls and vases of French porcelain and paint upon these, as upon panel or paper, with pleasing results; but at present we are not considering these in connection with the making of decorative pottery. The other potter is he who makes his vessel complete, with a view to the subsequent decoration, and decorates it afterwards, with a view to its make; holding both processes in his own hands. The complex character of the paste used by some potters, and the tendency in all cases away from the simpler work of old times with natural clay, used nearly as originally found, has caused in America, as in Europe, and, perhaps, in the east, an inclination to find hard pottery, and the reverse. Thus there are among the wares to be named here some which are certainly porcelaineous, and these remind us of the cheaper Chinese wares, "Canton" and "Nanking," those which have been exported for many decades from China to the western lands, and which are certainly of the nature of porcelain, however non-translucent they are and however coarse and commonplace in their make and decoration. Pieces of American make, of very refined treatment, considered works of art, have somewhat the same character of a very hard ware fired at high temperature and capable of enduring almost any extent of table service, while yet they are not certain porcelain in the usual sense of the term.

EXHIBITS WANTED.

United States Consul Frank W. Jackson, of Patras, Greece, in the advance sheets of consular reports for November 5, announces the postponement to April 7, 1903, of the opening of the International Exposition of Industry, Commerce-Art and Hygiene, to be held at Athens, and urges a display of American products, specifically farming and mechanical implements, typewriters, letter and printing presses, engines, currant cleaning machinery, lighting apparatus, lamps, dynamos and electrical appliances, stating that an "American exhibit might induce a like favor for the Louisiana Purchase Exhibition." The comprehensiveness and grandeur of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition tend to obscure recollection of similar enterprises, but is would seem that Consul Jackson's suggestion might be well taken under advisement.

NEW SALESMAN.

After weeks of the busiest time known in the history of the plant the Sevres China company is getting toward the bottom of its order files on decorated ware for the holiday trade. The end is just beginning to come into sight and there is much yet to be done. Manager Cross, of the decorating department, has completed a part of the samples for the spring trade. Frederick Kline, for five years a salesman with the Vodreys, will represent the Sevres next year in the territory east of Pittsburg. He has been at the pottery the past few days familiarizing himself with the lines and expressed himself as highly pleased with them.

GOES TO BARBERTON.

It is reported that Howard Shaffer, of the glost end at the Thompson, will sever his connection with that plant to accept a situation at Barberton. He will leave here for his new location in about 10 days and will move his family and household effects during the holidays.

AMONG THE POTTERS.

Frank Farris, of the glost end at Cartwright's, is reported among the sick.

James Bowles, a dipper at Cartwright's, has been laid up for the past few days with erysipelas.

Alfred Renisher, Bob Cooper, Ernie Wilson and Bob Kirkham, of the Sevres, spent Thanksgiving day hunting near Williamsport.

Charles Kennedy, of the decorating kiln crew at the Sevres, has returned from a brief visit to Pittsburg.

Lawrence Van Fossen has resigned at Harker's and has taken a situation in the glost kiln crew at the Sevres.

Ernest Coleman, of the glost end at the Sevres, has returned to work after being laid off for a week with a carbuncle on his neck.

William Woods, of the glost end at the Sevres, spent Thanksgiving with his brother John at Pleasant Heights, Mrs. Woods being at Toronto visiting relatives.

Charles Pelly, groundlayer at the Sevres, whose continued illness with inflammatory rheumatism has been mentioned in this column, is reported to be much improved.

SEIZED AT CUSTOM HOUSE.

A local dealer in decorating material has disappointed some of the decorators. He had two barrels of material shipped here from England. The goods were seized at the New York custom house on account of alleged undervaluation. The loss to him amounts to about $700.

BADLY INJURED

Miss Sadie Wolf Met With a Mishap While Alighting From a Wagon.

While alighting from a wagon near her home on Lisbon street, Wednesday night, Miss Sadie Wolf fell and was badly injured. The wagon had been driven into the gutter and was standing in a slanting position, so that when Miss Wolf stepped to that side the vehicle tipped over and she was precipitated to the ground with considerable force.

The wagon was broken and Miss Wolf, while not seriously hurt, was severely shaken up.

CROSS SUSTAINED

Charges Against a Well Known Painter Are Found to Be Baseless.

Charges which were made against E. M. Cross, a well known painter before his local No. 165, and which were sustained by it several weeks ago, have been dissolved by the highest authority in the union.

The trouble dates back for several years when Mr. Cross was accused by a local contractor of working under or for less than the scale of the journeymen painters called for. The matter was not taken up at that time nor for more than two years afterward. Meantime Mr. Cross held every responsible position within the gift of the organization, but when he concluded to become a contractor the trouble was revived. At the trial which followed he was convicted and the fact advertised both among the membership and Trades and Labor council. An appeal was taken by Cross, with the result that the following letter was received by him yesterday from W. C. Conick, grand secretary and treasurer of the union.

"As long as you pay union wages, employ union men, and are willing to sign the scale, members of the union must be permitted to work for you."

These matters will be reported to the union and Trades council at its next meeting.

To Be Utilized to Furnish Water Supply to the City of Salem.

Salem, November 28.—Devoid of any publicity whatever the Salem Water Works company has been quietly working for some time to secure an entirely new source of water supply for customers in Salem.

The water works are not at present paying expenses. A test well, drilled on the J. C. Whinery farm to a depth of 140 feet, flows 75,000 gallons every 24 hours, of soft, clear, crystal water. It is thought an abundant supply can be obtained from several similar artesian wells.

EAST END

DAY WAS QUIET

Union Services were well Attended But Balance of Day Was Given Over to Rest And Quiet.

Thanksgiving day was given over to quiet enjoyment and rest by most of the people of the East End. Nearly all the business houses were closed and generally things wore a Sunday aspect. The potteries were running, but with greatly reduced forces about half of the men taking the day.

Rev. D. W. McQuiston, of the Second U. P. church, delivered the union Thanksgiving sermon in the morning to a large congregation. His remarks were from the text "Whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, giving thanks to God, the Father, through Him." The sermon was an excellent one and was listened to attentively. The music was furnished by the choir from the Second Presbyterian church and a male quartet from the choir rendered several beautiful selections.

Rev. Mr. Sharp's Lecture.

There was a large attendance at the Second Presbyterian church last evening to hear the lecture of Rev. Alexander Sharp, of Mingo. The lecture was even better than had been anticipated. Rev. Mr. Sharp is an eloquent speaker and handled his subject matter in such a way as to be instructive and interesting without being tiresome. He talked of the characteristics, mode of life and religious beliefs of the people of the northern South American countries among whom he lived eight years as a missionary. The free will thank offering netted a neat sum.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

Dr. M. W. Taylor spent Thanksgiving day with his parents at Fairview.

H. L. Braydon, of New Castle, is spending the day with friends in the East End.

WENT DOWN IN GALE.

The Steamer Sylvanus J. Macy Springs Leak Off Port Burwell, Ont.

ENTIRE CREW SUPPOSED LOST.

When Last Seen the Macy Was Laboring Heavily in the Sea and Making for Shelter—Carried a Crew of About Eighteen—Partial List.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—In a furious southwest gale on Lake Erie Sunday night the steamer Sylvanus J Macy sprung a leak off Port Burwell, Ont., and plunged to the bottom, probably carrying her entire crew with her. The barge Mabel Wilson, which was being towed by the Macy, broke away from the steamer in the darkness and succeeded in sailing up the lake to Amherstburg, where she arrived yesterday afternoon.

The first news of the disaster was reported by Captain J. J. Anderson of the steamer Albright, which passed up the river early yesterday morning She reported having passed through wreckage Wednesday three miles southwest of Longpoint, consisting of parts of the cabin, life preservers and doors of some vessel. The cabin was painted white, but there were no distinguishing marks to tell what vessel it was from. The arrival of the Wilson, however, leaves no doubt but that the wreckage is from the Macy, as the last seen of that steamer was in the vicinity.

Tow Line Thrown Off.

The Macy, with the Wilson in tow left Buffalo last Saturday with a cargo of coal. When half way up Lake Erie the gale was encountered and when abreast of Port Burwell the tow line of the barge was thrown off by the crew of the Macy, leaving the schooner to shift for herself. When last seen by the crew of the Wilson the Macy was laboring heavily in the sea and was evidently making for shelter. If the crew had time to leave their ship before the plunge to the bottom it is not believed the small boats could have lived long in the terrible sea running. That nothing has been heard of them has convinced the owners that all were lost.

Partial List of Crew.

The Macy was owned by P. J Ralph & Co., of Detroit, and was insured for $16,500. She was one of the older type of wooden steamers. She registered 752 tons. She was built in 1881.

The only names of the crew obtainable at the office of the owners of the Macy are as follows: M. W. Gotham, Richland City, Wis., captain; ——— Gotham, son of captain, mate; F. Gregory, Detroit, first engineer; George Webb, second engineer; John Nugent, Algoma, wheelman.

As the personnel of the crew of the steamer changes at nearly every port visited a complete list is not available in the office. The crew of the Macy probably numbers 18, as that is the number necessary to man a ship of her size.

We told you to prepare yourself for that cold snap. Have you bought your overcoat yet? If not, see our big line of the best in town and save money.

TWELVE PAGES.

NOW THE TIME FOR ACTION.

Congressman Burton, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, in an interview elsewhere quoted, talks discouragingly of the outlook for the early undertaking by congress of the great and much needed work of making a nine-foot channel in the Ohio river from Pittsburg to Cairo. It is an unwelcome surprise to find any congressman from Ohio talking in this strain and the more unwelcome because of the position that Mr. Burton occupies at the head of the committee which has to deal with the matter. However, Mr. Burton says that he would be glad to see the work undertaken, but fears congress cannot be persuaded to undertake it. In our humble opinion, he had far better be engaged in trying to convert representatives who do not appreciate the magnitude and importance of the work than in trying to discourage those who are fully convinced of its importance and necessity. Besides, the arguments advanced by him as likely to influence congress to remain inactive are neither many nor strong. He states that the project would involve an outlay of $60,000,000, and if once begun the friends of other river interests, such as the Mississippi, the Tennessee and the Cumberland, would become clamorous for proportionately liberal appropriations, resulting in a severe drain on the United States treasury.

Now the appropriation of $60,000,000 for government work does not mean that such a sum must be withdrawn from the treasury at once. The most sanguine estimates are that it would take from five to seven years properly to improve the Ohio. Probably ten years would be nearer the mark. What is $6,000,000 a year for a work that will directly benefit 12,000,000 to 14,000,000 people and indirectly prove a godsend and blessing to all America?

As for the Mississippi, whatever improvements it may need, it will be able to float, below Cairo, all the boats that the Ohio can carry there. Improvement of the Ohio would add much to the prosperity of that great portion of the Mississippi valley by increased commerce and enlarged business opportunities. Mississippi river people should be as anxious as anybody for the improvement of the stream that will give the Father of Waters the greater portion of its commerce. As for the smaller streams, like the Cumberland and the Tennessee, they are the waterways of one or two states, and of a comparatively small number of people. Their turn for improvement may and doubtless will come, but it would be folly to delay work on the magnificent Ohio until they receive attention.

Mr. Burton does not see how anything more can be done for the Ohio for some time. But he has not explained why. The nation has never enjoyed a period of greater prosperity than it now has. It has a plethoric treasury and is in excellent shape for beginning the great work. If it awaits a more auspicious time it is likely to wait in vain. What other enlightened nation, with millions at its command for public improvements, if it possessed such a waterway, would have neglected it as the United States has neglected the Ohio? We must utilize our opportunities if we would maintain our commercial supremacy. The time is ripe for action, not for the delay which Mr. Burton encourages. The next speaker of the house will name new committees. If he is alive to the interests of the people of the great Middle West he will name as chairman of the rivers and harbors committee a man who will seek to benefit the commerce and industry of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary M. March.

Mrs. Mary McClelland March, of Calcutta, widow of the late Philip March, died on Wednesday after a lingering illness of several weeks. Mrs. March was born near Darlington, Pa., in 1812. When she was one year old, her parents moved to Calcutta, where she has since lived for the greater part of her life. She was possessed of a singularly happy, contented nature, which gained for her many friends, and was especially loved by the children and young people, many of whom visited her during her last illness. She had a wonderful memory, readily recalling old memories, as well as events of later years. Many interesting facts were supplied by her in the history of Long's Run church, for the recent centennial. She lived a quiet, consistent, Christian life, for seventy-five years. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Gaston and Mrs. Dr. J. Calvin. The funeral will occur from the home of Mrs. Gaston today.

Mrs. Louis Hickman.

Lisbon, November 28.—(Special)—The body of Mrs. Louis Hickman was brought to Leetonia this morning from the hospital, where she died Tuesday. Ehe had been an invalid for a number of years and was nearly blind. The husband was formerly a prominent business man of Leetonia, and with one son survives. She was about 45. Her New Hat.

She said her hat was quite a dream;
A poem, too, I think she called it.
To me it certainly did seem
As if some crazy hand had mauled it.

Had pinched it here and jammed it there
And twisted it in shapes fantastic.
For reasons, though, I did not care
To speak of it in terms sarcastic.

And, after all, I must admit,
It would have been hard to refute her.
The thing was daring—just a bit
Coquettish—and it seemed to suit her.

That is, when perched upon her head.
Below the brim her bright eyes dancing,
It was small wonder that I said
I found it ravishing, entrancing.

I did, too, but I saw it since—
Detached; the shape and color scheme it
Made all my sense æsthetic wince.
A dream? Well, I would hate to dream it!

The fact is, I believe no hat
Could ever dowdy seem or shady;
I like them all—provided that
They just top off that little lady.

Tons of Food For the Atlantic.

Commenting on the tremendous amount of food consumed on the average Atlantic liner nowadays, a writer in the Springfield Republican says: "At 8 comes the monumental breakfast; at 11 the deck steward fills up the comatose figures in the morgue with their beef tea from those thick, obese English cups; at 1 the magnanimous luncheon; at 5 the sleepers assaulted by the deck steward again; at 7 the awesome English dinner; at 9:30 a trifling lunch to ballast you for bed. Besides this barbaric mounds of sandwiches, olives, cheese, crackers, perpetually stare you in the face in the smoking room. Food, food, food; the sight and smell of it pursue the unwilling stomach in every corner of the place; food tasted, wasted, thrown away. There is one port hole on the steerage deck, from the galley apparently, which belches it forth in a continuous stream—half loves of bread, great remnants of meat; we have left a trail of it across the Atlantic. If some one would only estimate the tons of wasted food which are annually thrown into the Atlantic or could calculate how much cheaper these steamship companies could give us our travel if they substituted plain, self respecting fare for this gilded gluttony, it would certainly be interesting and worth while.

The Guillotine and Its Inventor.

One of the most widely disseminated of popular errors is that Dr. Guillotin invented the grim machine which still bears the name. The real inventor of this sinister contrivance was Dr. Louis, a well known medical man and permanent secretary of the Parisian School of Medicine, or Academie de Medicine.

Dr. Guillotin, who died in 1814, energetically but vainly protested against the use of his name in connection with this disagreeable subject—an evidence, if one were wanted, of the great difficulty there is of correcting a popular error. Needless to say that the legend that Dr. Guillotin was among the victims of his friend's ingenious and merciful instrument of destruction is wholly apocryphal. He died at a good old age and in his bed, surrounded by his children, who, however, obtained permission to change their name.

Outward Show In Italy.

All over Italy social life is characterized by a great love of outward show. Here is an anecdote which Mr. Luigi Villari relates in "Italian Life In Town and Country" to illustrate this national feeling:

An American gentleman who was spending the winter in Naples had taken a flat in a palazzo, the first floor of which was occupied by a noble family in somewhat reduced circumstances. He noticed to his surprise that every day he met a servant going up or down the stairs carrying a pair of carriage doors. At last the mystery was explained. The said noble family shared a carriage with some other people, but each had its own doors with the family coat of arms, to make their friends believe that they both had carriages.

Moqui Village Criers.

Among the picturesque features of life in the Moqui villages are the town criers, who take the place of the daily newspapers in civilized communities. There are two of these functionaries, one representing the "hostiles" and the other the "friendlies," the opposing political parties in the Tusayan villages. Twice a day these officials ascend to the housetops and, wrapped in their scarlet blankets, their figures outlined against the clear blue sky, call out in long drawn, resonant tones whatever announcement or record of town happenings may be in order.

WELLSVILLE

A Pretty Wedding at a Wellsville Home on Wednesday Evening.

A very pretty wedding occurred Wednesday evening in the West End at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hiner, on Eighteenth street, when Miss Emma Hiner, daughter of Mr. and L. Hiner, and Thomas J. Kinsey, a well known business man of this city, were united at 5 o'clock by Rev. C. L. V. McKee, of the Second Presbyterian church. A number of friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present.

Among those present from out of the city were Miss Edyth Edgar, George and Conley Patterson, of Augusta, O.; Mrs. L. Roling, Mrs. W. J. Hiner and son Gordon, Mrs. Frank Hiner, Mrs. Mary McIntyre and Charles Jennings, of Cleveland; Abraham Haines, of Minerva; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stevenson, of East Liverpool; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Goss, of New Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hiner and Arthur Hiner, of Chester, W. Va.

Score Was 5 to 0.

Five to nothing was the result of a short, but hotly contested foot ball game played yesterday between the Beaver Tigers, of Beaver, Pa., and the Bruno Athletic club foot ball team of Wellsville. The result was in the Brunos' favor. The Beaver boys did not arrive on the field until after the electric lights had been turned on and it was almost impossible to see the ball two or three yards away. A ten-minute half was played, however. After four quick rushes a touchdown was made by the Brunos, making the score 5 to 0. At this point the Beaver team refused to play longer in the darkness.

Arrests in the City.

J. B. Feeley, a railroad man, was arrested Wednesday, charged by Mrs. Thomas Hamilton with owing her board and room rent. He was arrested when about to leave the city and settled both bills. THANKSGIVING DAY IN THE CHURCHES

Union Services at the First M. E. Church Drew a Large Congregation.

COLLECTION FOR HOSPITAL

Netted $46—An Excellent Sermon By Rev. J. W. Gorrell on the Origin And Significance of the Great National Holiday.

The Thanksgiving union services held yesterday morning at the First M. E. church were very impressive, and a large audience, in which all the city churches were represented, thronged the church to hear an eloquent sermon by Rev. J. W. Gorrell.

Rev. M. B. Pratt, pastor of the church, made fitting remarks about the hospital work, and requested that the congregation give liberally to a collection for the work. The collection amounted to $46. A number of the local ministers were seated near the pulpit. They were Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church; Rev. Dr. David Jones, of the M. P. church; Rev. J. W. Gorrell, of the Christian church; Rev. Dr. Taggart, of the United Presbyterian church and Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt, of the First M. E. church.

Following the opening hymn, Rev. David Jones made a fervent prayer, after which the president's proclamation was read by Rev. J. G. Reinartz. The scriptural lesson was read by Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart, after which Rev. J. W. Gorrell preached a sermon appropriate to the day. He spoke in part as follows:

"In the early days of the Plymouth colony there had been much sickness, suffering and distress, and when this passed away the pious people of that colony set aside a day in which to thank Almighty God.

"During the civil war Abraham Lincoln, when the arms of the union prevailed, called the people together in order that they might thank God for their success.

"We are happy to meet in one house of worship today to render thanks and praise to Almighty God for His many blessings of the past year. We are thankful for our national peace and prosperity. We have abundant crops harvested for the winter,, and we are thankful that no scourge either national or local has visited our land to blight its happiness. We are also thankful for the moral and religious improvement of our people. The world is improving, growing better all the time. More people are followers of Christ than ever before.

"The purpose of existence is the bringing of our natures into perfect accord with the laws of nature and of God. An education is the harmonization of all our faculties. This is not accomplished without a contest or trial. This contest is going on in every community and every nation; right contending with wrong, passion and lust against reason.

"Let us thank God for our moral and spiritual development. Man is a unit. Make him so strong that he cannot be coerced, so moral that he will not wrong and his freedom is secure. Educate the man and you cannot enslave him. You cannot enslave an educated people. We have greater men today than ever lived in any age. Alexander seemed great because there were few great men.

"We are thankful for the advance made in education. Our nation went to the aid of oppressed Cuba. The nations of Europe said that it was a war of conquest, on the part of the United States. But not so, for Cuba is free—a gift from America. No nation ever accomplished such an unselfish deed. We are thankful that our nation and our flag is leading the nations of the world in freeing the oppressed."

MAN, CHAPERON AND MAID

E. Anna S. Richardson

"You are entirely too young and attractive to chaperon Ruth," observed Mrs Cuscadden surveying her companion with a critical glance. "But she fairly has victories when I suggest her going home with me. And really the dear child has seen nothing of Paris, and she wants another week or so in London. If you could, my dear Leslie"—

Mrs. Leslie Burns instantly replied that she could and she would—with pleasure. So it happened that Mrs. Rogers Cuscadden sailed alone for New York to settle some vexed questions regarding the new house. Her parting warning to Mrs. Burns was:

"Now remember, Leslie, no international entanglements for Ruth. You know how Mr. Rogers feels on the subject. Besides I want to bring her out this season heart whole. A love affair is always a handicap for a debutante."

Never did chaperon use more graceful tact in executing her trust. Without making enemies she warded off the many admirers attracted to the vivacious young heiress until George Hackett appeared on the scene, dropping from some unheard of point in the orient. Well bred, well groomed, well tailored, breezy and alert, he was diplomacy proof.

Attaching himself to their party of two, he proved distressingly convenient and desirable. He knew his Paris by heart and steered his countrywomen from boredom with a skillful hand. Ruth boldly espoused his cause and informed Mrs. Burns that she was having a much jollier time since Mr. Hackett's arrival, whereupon Mrs. Burns read her charge the first long lecture of their companionship. Not that it would do any good, she argued, for how could any heart whole girl withstand George Hackett?

When the stay in Paris drew to a close, Mrs. Burns heard with dismay that Mr. Hackett was accompanying them as far as London. And London was but Paris repeated. Mr. Hackett knew just what points of interest Ruth would enjoy and what she should avoid. He was more useful than Baedeker and infinitely better company.

But when the day for sailing from Southampton was set and Mrs. Burns learned that the ubiquitous Mr. Hackett had taken passage on the same boat despair filled her soul. To the experienced chaperon no episode is more heavily charged with danger than an ocean voyage. At first she had been as rude as her gentle nature would permit, but the more chilly her reception the more assiduously would he devote himself to Ruth. If she occasionally relented and treated him with gracious tolerance, Mr. Hackett showed eager appreciation of her favor and waxed brilliant.

She was thinking it all over tonight as she sat alone on the deck. In less than twenty-four hours, the captain had said, they would be in New York harbor. Then must come the accounting to Mrs. Cuscadden. No doubt at this very moment, under the cover of coon songs in the saloon, Mr. Hackett was whispering into the ears of Ruth those tender words which he should not be permitted to whisper.

The traitorous chaperon felt a sudden twitching at her heartstrings. Should she defy fate in the form of Mrs. Cuscadden? For herself it would mean but a broken friendship; for George Hackett it meant happiness for life. Strangely enough she did not seem to consider Ruth's happiness. She was thinking only of her girlhood, when Hackett's friendship had been such a very dear thing; when she would have given him—promised him—anything he might ask, but he had not asked.

The coon singer had finished, and the softer strains of a popular waltz floated out on the night air. A great wave of tenderness swept over Leslie Burns. Why should she stand between the man she had loved and the happiness he now craved?

Alas for the confiding, complacent Mrs. Cuscadden and her maternal plans!

Mrs. Burns drew her cape more closely and shivered slightly. A shadow fell across the bar of light streaming from the gangway. A voice clear, but not loud, broke the silence brooding on the deck.

"May I have my cigar out here with you, Mrs. Burns?" Then as he dropped into the chair at her side: "What a bore one's traveling companions become directly land is sighted! I don't blame you for getting off to yourself."

"Oh, it wasn't that exactly," murmured Mrs. Burns. Then, with the air of trying to fill in an awkward pause, she added: "But there is a subtle joy in feeling that tomorrow night we shall see the New York harbor lights gleaming. There's no place in the world just like New York to us."

"Shall you stop in town?" queried Hackett.

"Just a day or so. I've a week promised to Mrs. Davenport at Tuxedo."

"Glad to hear that. I shall be in Tuxedo next week. Harry's taken a box down there for the rest of the season."

"But the Cuscaddens will be at the hot springs until their new place is finished." The remark sounded strangely flat to Mrs. Burns, and instantly she wished she had not given vent to her thought. Again she covered an awkward pause. "Dear me, I wonder where Ruth is this very minute."

"When I saw her last, dancing with young Ransome. A harmless youth, I assure you," he added whimsically as Mrs. Burns made a motion to rise. "Don't go, please, until— I have something I must tell you before we land."

It was coming. The guilty chaperon closed her eyes figuratively and prepared to take the plunge. She would pledge her aid and give it.

"Leslie"—

She started. Five years had passed since she had heard that name from his lips. Vaguely she wished he had commenced some other way.

"Do you remember when father sent me abroad? I was fresh from college, not much more than a boy. I knew little of life—women least of all. My experiences abroad with fellows I liked first bewildered and then fascinated me, and when father wrote I might make another year of it I was wild with delight.

"But you remember I wrote to you regularly. I supposed you understood. When I read of your coming out, I was tremendously proud. I think I ordered lilies of the valley for you by cable. I remember, too, thinking that when you'd had a season of that sort of thing and I'd finished my jaunt we'd settle down and be—very happy. I never dreamed that you were waiting for me to say so. I thought so clever a girl as you could read between the lines of my letters, and somehow I wanted to hear a certain little word from your own lips."

The woman at his side started to speak, but he waved her aside. The crimson glow of his cigar had turned to gray ashes, but he still clutched it between his fingers.

"The letter announcing your engagement reached me in Madrid. I've never been in the God forsaken hole since. When I reached America, you and your husband had gone abroad. For a year I tried life on the street, but I could not stand for it. Then I tried shooting lions in Africa and tigers in India. That went better than fleecing lambs in Wall street. I was visiting with a mighty good fellow on Curzon's staff when I heard—quite by accident—that you were—free. Two days later I turned my face westward. I did not intend to stop in Paris—but you were there. I thought—great heavens, how I hoped—you'd be glad to see me, but you were not. And, Leslie," his tone was actually commanding, "I want to know why."

The woman had been listening with bowed head, but with a strangely happy light gleaming in her eyes. Hesitatingly, incoherently, she explained her conduct in Paris, in London and aboard ship. Before she finished Hackett, possessing himself of both her hands, exclaimed:

"And you really thought it was that child! Oh, Leslie, Leslie, couldn't you read the truth in my eyes?"

Mrs. Burns suddenly recalled her duties as chaperon. She withdrew her hands from his masterful grasp.

"How could I look you in the eye when I knew I was unfaithful to the trust imposed on me by Mrs. Cuscadden?"

The old piquant humor rang in her voice. She had risen. From the saloon came the tintinnabulation of light music. The deck was free from promenaders. They were alone for the first time in five years.

* * * * * * * *

"Oh, what will Mrs. Cuscadden say?" Hackett bent over her to gather up her wraps.

"I really don't see that she has anything to do with out little affair, provided you return her daughter heart whole and free from international entanglements," he answered joyously.

A shadow fell across the bar of light, then another, and the figure of a girl was silhouetted against the brilliant interior of the ship.

"Mrs. Burns, where are you? We're to have a good old fashioned Virginia reel to celebrate our last night on board. Do hurry up! We have a partner waiting for you!"

Then as Hackett's dark figure suddenly loomed up behind Mrs. Burns he glanced mischievously at Ruth and exclaimed, with a happy ring of ownership in his voice:

"Won't I do for her partner? I rather think this dance is mine!"

PATRIOTIC SERMON

Thanksgiving Services at St. Stephen's Church of An Impressive Character.

Both services at St. Stephen's church yesterday were interesting and well attended. Holy communion was held in the chapel at 7:30, and was followed at 10 o'clock by a full choral service. Special music was a feature of this meeting, an anthem entitled "Summer Ended, Harvest Gone," being especially enjoyed.

Rev. Edwin Weary took for his text "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation." He touched upon the standing of nations, saying they were measured almost invariably from a worldly standpoint, thas is from a financial or industrial standpoint. The speaker mentioned that, without righteousness, no nation could long maintain its lofty standard. It had proven out in many instances which the rector cited where the people of nations long since bereft of their power had placed worldliness before unrighteousness. President Roosevelt was paid a high tribute, being characterized by the rector as a God fearing man who ruled his people in a righteous manner.

The address was closed by recalling the many blessings which the people had enjoyed during the past year, and for which they should be truly grateful.

REALM OF SPORTS

EASILY BEAT ROCHESTER

The West End Rovers Played a Superb Game, Hardy Again Proving the Star.

SCORE 16 TO 0 AT FINISH

All the Rovers Put Up a First-Class Article of Football—Visitors Unable to Keep Their End—Other Football Games.

The West End Rovers maintained their reputations as mud horses yesterday by easily defeating the Rochester team at West End park. The gridiron was even worse than last Saturday and to make it more uncomfortable for the players and spectators, a heavy snow fell during most of the game. Hardy was again the bright and particular star. His work at fullback won for him the admiration and plaudits of even the opposing players, who finally found out that he was never down until there was weight enough on top to prevent him moving. He was as hard to hold as an eel and as strong as a lion. McDevitt also played a pretty game, and J. Hester was there with the goods. In fact all the Rovers put up a first-class article of foot ball.

The Rovers won the toss and Captain McAvoy decided to defend the west goal. List kicked off for Rochester to Jones, who returned the ball five yards. Hardy bucked cented for five yards. F. Coleman made five yards around the left end. Jones made five yards through center on a tackle-back formation. On the next play Robbins fumbled and J. Coleman fell on the ball. Hardy fumbled, but J. Hester secured the ball. It was almost impossible to hold the pigskin, owing to the slime that coated it. Rochester's ball on downs. They failed to make the necessary gain and it was the Rovers' ball again. Hardy hurdled the line for 20 yards and went through center for five more on the next play. The next two downs netted three yards. J. Coleman made three yards around the left end. Hardy and McDevitt bucked center on the next two downs for three yards each. The Rovers were hitting the Rochester line at will. Hardy on a tackles-back made six yards through center and the ball was on Rochester's five-yard line. Rochester braced up and held for one down. Hardy hit center for three years. Hardy was boosted through center for a touchdown. He failed to kick goal. List kicked off to Stillwell, who returned the ball 10 yards. Hardy gained four yards on two tackles-back formations. The ball was fumbled on the next play, but was recovered by Robbins, who gained three yeards. McDevitt made five yards through center. J. Coleman was held for no gain and Malone, who tackled him, was hurt and took the time limit. McDevitt made a pretty gain of 10 yards. Hardy made three yards through center. Arb went around the left end for three yards. Jones made five more through center. F. Coleman was injured and went out of the game. Stillwell went to left and Frazer went in as right tackle. Arb lost three yards in a play around the left end. Hardy made five yards around the right end. Rochesters' ball on downs. The Rovers held them on the next two downs and they punted for 15 yards. The punt was fumbled and Rochester secured the ball again. List made three yards through center. The half ended with this play with the ball in the center of the field. Score, Rovers 5, Rochester 0.

McAvoy succeeded Robbins at quarter and F. Coleman resumed his place at left end in the second half. McAvoy kicked off to Crane on Rochesters' 30-yard line. He fumbled and Arb fell on the ball. Rochester held them on two downs and the ball was fumbled on the third, List securing it. List made eight yards through center Rochester's most creditable play of the game. Rochester was held for downs. The Rovers' fumbled on the next two plays, but McAvoy and Amos recovered the ball. J. Hester made five through center. Hardy made eight yards on the next three downs. J. Hester made five through center. Jones made three through center and the ball was on Rochesters' 10-yard line. On a wedge play Hardy went through center for another touchdown. He was tackled, but dragged two of the Rochester men over the line. J. Hester kicked goal.

Black kicked to Hardy, who fumbled. Jones secured the ball and made 10 yards. Hardy hit center for three yards and on the next two downs made 13 yards. The Rovers worked a scroll formation for a gain of 15 yards, Stillwell carrying the ball. They were held for no gain on a similar play. Hardy hurdled the line for five yards. Hardy went around the left end for five yards and McDevitt made eight yards through center. Stillwell gained three yards on another scroll formation. Hardy made an end run for five yards and the ball was on Rochesters' three-yard line. Hardy placed the ball one foot from the goal line on the next touchdown. Hardy went through center for the third touchdown J. Hester failed to kick goal, the ball hitting the cross bar. Score, Rovers 16, Rochester 0.

HOME TEAM WON

Basket Ball Victory Rested With the Y. M. C. A. in Last Evening's Contest.

A big crowd witnessed a good game of basketball at the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A., last evening when the first team of the local association played the first team of the Y. M. C. A., of New Brighton. The visitors were heavier than the local boys but their knowledge of the game much below par. In the first half both teams played evenly, the score at the beginning of the second being 9 to 9. But before the second was fairly started the h ome team made a great spurt and soon had the score and game well in their hands. The final score was 27 to 13. The lineups were as follows:

East Liverpool—F. Allison, r. f.; Bloor, l. f.; Powell, c.; T. Watkins, r. c.; F. Chadwick, l. g.

RESULT A TIE

Large Crowd Witnessed the East Liverpool-Swissvale Association Game.

A large crowd was in attendance at the association foot ball game yesterday afternoon between the Rovers of this city and the Swissvale team.

The game was one of the best ever seen in this city, and though both clubs played a strong article of ball, the best they could do was to tie—2 to 2. From beginning to end the contest was exciting and hard fought.

Hall, for the Rovers, played the game of his life, and at many points was loudly cheered. His playing was extraordinary, while that of Gillespie and Clark, for Swissvile, fell little short of equaling it. The Rovers' goals were scored by Davis and Scarrett, while H. Foster and Clark had the honor of sending the ball across the goal for the Swissvale team.

Much more interest was shown in the contest than is manifested ordinarily, since the entnusiasts argued the result of this game would go a long way toward determining the championship of the two states. As the game resulted in a tie another game will be played the latter part of this month between these same teams. The game will probably be played at Swissvale's grounds. The teams lined up in the following order:

H. Foster, lineman for Rovers and Clark for Swissvale. Dick Phillips acted as referee. The Rovers have arranged for a game at Rock Springs park December 6 with the Crabtree, Pa., club, and next Saturday will play a practice game with the Laughlin No. 2 team at the park.

NEITHER SIDE SCORED

Stubbornly Fought Game Between Local And Steubenville High School Teams.

The most exciting game of foot ball ever witnessed in Steubenville was that between the East Liverpool high school rugby team and the club representing the Steubenville high school. The game was played on the Pleasant Heights grounds yesterday afternoon and was witnessed by a very large crowd. Neither team was able to score, and the game was hard fought from beginning to end.

Lewis, the colored fullback for Steubenville, played a brilliant game, distinguishing himself in many ways, while Mountford, right half for East Liverpool, made several phenomenal gains for his team. The return game will be played in two weeks at West End park.

OAKLAND A. C. BEATEN

In a Contest at Sebring Which Was Played Under Great Difficulty.

The Oakland A. C. returned from Sebring last night, where they were defeated in a hotly contested game with the Rugby team of that town yesterday afternoon. The score was 11 to 0, but it is said the result would have been far different had the Oakland lineup been of the usual strength. Morrow, one of the best men in the team, was off and there were several others who were either incapacitated or clear out of the game.

The contest was played under great difficulties on account of the bad condition of the ground, but nearly the whole town was out to witness the game, which was interesting in spite of the uneven score.

Tigers Defeated.

Victors Did Not Appear.

The members of the C. F. Armour football team were surprised and disgusted when they appeared upon the Rock Springs grounds at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and found that not a single man who went to make up the line for the Victor A. C. had put in an appearance. They waited in vain until 11.30 and then came to this side of the river carrying their fiercest looks, and vowing never again to make an agreement with so unreliable an aggregation. The management of the C. F. Armour's assert the only reason for the failure of their opponents to put in an appearance lies in the fact that the Victors were fearful they would be ignominiously defeated.

Won Three Turkeys.

Earl Clark secured the two turkeys offered as a prize at the Pleasure Palace, making a score of 19 out of a possible 25. Mr. Clark also secured the turkey at the Imperial bowling alley, breaking the alley record of 255 to 257.

Score 10 to 5.

Two football teams named Thompson's hill and Thompson's lane played yesterday afternoon, the game being won by the latter club by a score of 10 to 5.

Northsiders Beaten.

The Hill Top Rovers defeated the Northside rugby team yesterday afternoon by a score of 21 to 15.

Sporting Topics

Willie Slater's Handball Playing—Cornell and Henley Regatta.

The handball season is now at its height and players of the game will be interested in learning something about a lad in Brooklyn, Willie Slater, who who is picked by experts to be a coming champion in the professional world. He is now amateur champion of Brooklyn.

Willie Slater is only sixteen years old, but at handball he hasn't a peer in America among the amateurs.

He lives in Degraw street, Brooklyn, with his parents and inherited his taste and aptitude for the game from his father. The latter is an expert player himself and has been for years a patron of Phil Casey's famous handball court on Degraw street, not far from his home.

Willie used to go to Casey's with his father and watch him tackle the veterans until by and by he took a hand in the game himself. Attracted by the lad's ability and unusual aptitude, Casey taught him all the tricks of the game until the pupil excelled his master, and Casey is now ready to match him against any player of his age in America for any amount.

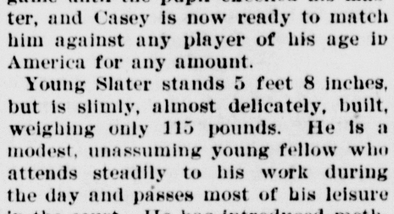

Young Slater stands 5 feet 8 inches, but is slimly, almost delicately, built, weighing only 115 pounds. He is a modest, unassuming young fellow who attends steadily to his work during the day and passes most of his leisure in the court. He has introduced methods of his own in the game which combine strength with delicacy and make his playing peculiarly spectacular.

Unless something occurs which will change the minds of the members of the Athletic council, Cornell university will next summer send a crew to participate in the Henley regatta on the Thames river. At a meeting of the council recently held at Ithaca, N. Y., the project of sending a crew abroad was presented and received a favorable vote.

Since the sweeping victory of the Cornell crews on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., last June the sentiment among all Cornell admirers has been strongly in favor of sending a crew to Henley. So much pressure was brought to bear that the Athletic council took a vote to get the sentiment of the members. The exact wording of the resolution on which the vote was taken is refused for publication.

Considerable opposition to the plan was shown by several of the faculty members, but the undergraduate sentiment was strongly in favor and finally prevailed.

Details are yet to be arranged. It is likely, however, that J. P. Frenzel, Jr., whose election as captain of the crew for 1903 was ratified, will be captain also of the Henley crew.

Many horsemen will remember the stallion Alvin, that looked more like a heavy harness horse, yet trotted to a record of 2:11 and was exported to Russia. A son of his recently won the big Futurity stake for trotters in Russia, the value of which was $12,000 and the time made 2:25¾, which ties the Russian record for five-year-olds. Another son of Alvin by the name of Armand was second in this stake.

Gambetta Wilkes, 2:19¾, has over 100 standard performers to his credit, but Alice Carr, 2:09¼, is his first and only 2:10 trotter.

The Windsor race track in Canada is now out of the northern racing circuit. The lessees, Sam Wagner, R. C. Chambers and J. Walker, found it impossible to make a pecuniary success of a meeting there under the prevailing conditions, and decided to give up their holdings.

The first call of Highland park on dates was one thing which tended to the failure of the track at the little Canadian city.

The lessees of the track have their eyes on another track, and it is very likely that Grosse Point, Mich., will be the future headquarters of the Windsor Jockey club.

A NEGRO KILLED BY STREET CAR

William Scott, While Lying on the Track in Chester, Was Run Over.

WAS BADLY INTOXICATED

When He Left This City And Is Thought to Have Fallen And Stunned Himself — Testimony Brought Out at the Inquest.

Mangled and crushed so terribly that recognition of him was almost impossible the dead body of William Scott, a negro, aged 40, was taken from the street car track of the Rock Springs line, near Dunn's corner on Carolina avenue Wednesday night, a few minutes past 10 o'clock.

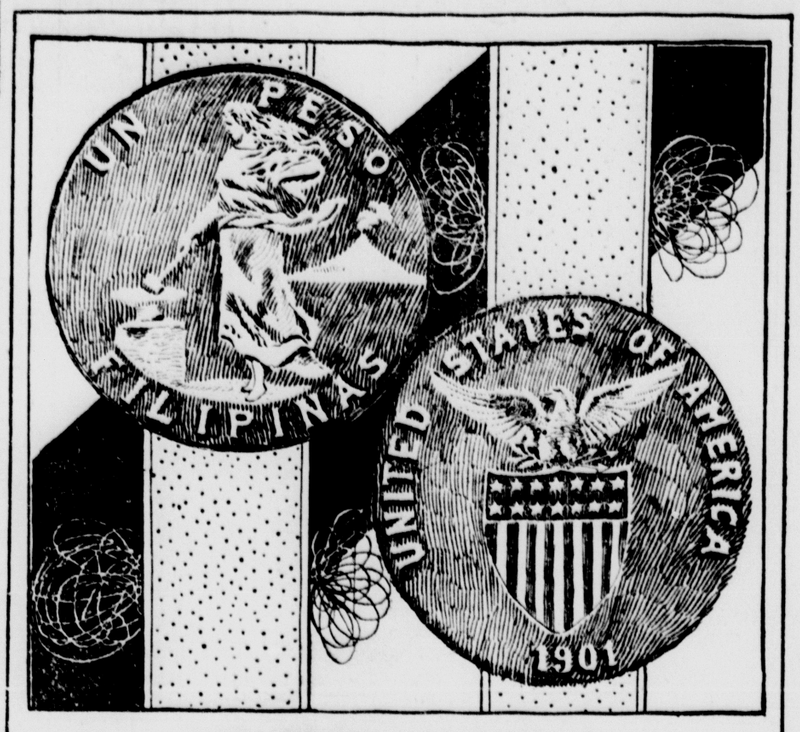

From testimony offered by witnesses before the coroner's jury yesterday afternoon the unfortunate man met his death through the effects of an overindulgence in intoxicating liquors. He had for several months been in the employ of Contractor Coates on street railway work, and only a few days ago the man received his pay and came over to this city Wednesday night and began drinking. At about 9:45 he was helped on a Southside car. At Dunn's corner he got off the car and was seen by several in company with another man, who was carrying a basket on his arm. Those who saw him in company with the stranger remember of noticing Scott's drunken condition. Apparently he was not seen after that until taken from the track dead.

Car No. 15, in charge of Conductor Hogue and Motorman Theodore Williams, killed the man. Williams did not see him lying on the track and did not know that his car had struck him until he felt an unusual motion. Turning off the power he alighted and saw the form between the wheels of the first truck. Word was sent to the car barn and jack screws and other appliances brought to raise the car. The body was taken to the barn. Between 12 and 1 o'clock it was removed to the undertaking establishment of Burns & McQuilkin and yesterday afternoon was again taken to the West Virginia side, where in Coroner Johnston's office before a jury composed of Attorney George D. Ingram, Alex Hineman, J. S. D. Mercer, John Bulman, Ephraim Johnston and George Arner an inquest was held.

The following witnesses were examined by the coroner: J. G. McGuire James A. Flood, James McKinnon Frank Hogue, Theo Williams and Alex Alexander. It is the general supposition that Scott in his stupefied condition in trying to cross the track fell and struck his head against a rail When the body was examined it was found that he had three gashes in his head, any one of which might have proved fatal, and his right arm was almost severed. His right leg was broken in several places and indications were that he had been badly injured internally. Upon his clothes were found about $5 in money, but no other valuables.

Many people in this city and Chester knew the man. He made many acquaintances. It will be remembered that he is one of the gang that was arrested a few weeks since for a misdemeanor on a street car which was crossing the bridge. Contractor Coates states that he was an excellent workman, and the verdict of all is that he was his own worst enemy.

It is not known definitely what disposition will be made of the remains, but they will lie at the undertaker's until tomorrow at least, awaiting word from relatives or friends, and if none put in an appearance it is likely that burial will be made in Chester.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL

May Lead to Organizing a Church at McKinley Chapel, Pleasant Heights.

With the service of last night the evangelical meetings which have been in progress at the McKinley avenue union chapel, closed. The revival has been remarkably successful, about twenty-five persons having professed conversion.

Rev. A. A. Steele, who has had charge of the meetings, has endeared himself to the people of that community, and a move is now on foot to form a regular church organization. Those who attend this chapel are members of the several churches throughout the city, and if the church is organized, Rev. Mr. Steele will be asked to take charge.

MUSICIANS' UNION

COLORED PEOPLE OF THIS CITY HAVE FORMED ONE.

A Charter Secured, And the Organization Starts With 21 Members.

Twenty-one colored musicians of this city have secured a charter from the American Federation of Musicians, and all its members, including orchestras, mandolin clubs, and a brass band will now be entitled to recognition from unionists throughout this section.

The new union is designated as local No. 253, (colored,) and is the second of the same character in existance here, the other having a very large membership and being composed of white players.

Several months ago a colored band sought patronage on several occasions, and upon being refused on account of their not being members of the union, they at once made application for affiliation with the union here. This was refused, and steps were at once taken to procure a charter of their own. The effort was successful and the charter has arrived. The scale of prices adopted is the same which has prevailed here for some time. However, this will likely be changed between now and the first of the year, as a committee is now at work upon a new one to govern the white organization, and will, it is said, become operative January 1.

COLD WATER THROWN

By Congressman Burton on the Project for Early Improvement of the Ohio.

Washington, November 28.—"While I believe that the Ohio river should have a navigable channel of nine feet from Pittsburg to Cairo," said Representative Burton, of Ohio, chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors, "I do not believe that the United States government will undertake such a project within the next few years. To provide such a channel as far as Cincinnati would mean an outlay to the government of not less than $40,000,000 and to carry on the work to Cairo would necessitate an additional expenditure of $60,000,000.

"Besides if we were to provide such a large sum of money for the Ohio river, other river interests, such as the Mississippi, Tennessee and Cumberland, would expect similar treatment at the hands of congress. If a river and harbor bill made provision for such a large amount as would be needed for the Ohio river, Uncle Sam's treasury would receive a very severe draining and there is no telling what limit would be reached when the other projects throughout the country were provided for.

"For these reasons I do not see how anything can be undertaken for some time to come looking to a nine-foot channel in the Ohio river from Pittsburg to Cairo, although such a work would undoubtedly prove of the greatest benefit to the commerce of the river."

STEAM FERRY BOAT RUNS NO LONGER

The Emily Not Allowed to Ply Between Congo and Wellsville.

A FLAT RUNS IN ITS PLACE

Circuit Court Reverses the Hancock County Court And Declares the Operation of the Steamboat By Capt. Goucher to Be Illegal.

As a result of the decision of the county court of Hancock county in the case of Johnston against Goucher by which Goucher was given permission to operate a steam ferry between Wellsville and Congo being reversed by the circuit court, the well equipped and up-to-date boat, Emily, is no longer plying between the two points, and in its stead a miserable little flat is carrying the people and teams to and fro.

The circuit court in handing down its decision declared the operation of the steam ferry by Captain Goucher illegal, and among many other provisions ordered the owners of the craft to pay Johnston wharfage and damage from the time that the boat was started in its trade last spring.

Attorney Ingram, who has been working arduously for months on the case in behalf of Johnston, was much elated yesterday over the decision in his client's favor and stated that there will be more doing before the matter is dropped. He said that steps would immediately be taken toward entering a damage suit against Captain Goucher, and felt that as the court had ordered Goucher to pay damages that no difficulty will be confronted in acquiring any reasonable sum asked.

Although not definitely known, it is said that Captain Goucher intends to appeal the case. He has had in his employ Attorneys P. M. Smith and Charles Boyd, of Wellsville; Donehoo and Marshall, of New Cumberland, and several others.

The case originated with Goucher using the landing on the West Virginia shore without applying to Johnston, who alleges that it is his property, for the privilege. Johnston claimed that Goucher had no legal right to make use of the landing and charged trespassing. On the other hand Goucher took the stand that the landing is the property of the railroad and decided to fight any objection that might be raised.

To the people of Wellsville and even East Liverpool, as well as those living in Congo and back several miles in Hancock county, a ferry boat such as the Emily was not only a great convenience, but also a benefit from a pecuniary standpoint and the decision of the circuit court met with general disapproval. The flat now in use cannot transport the trade to satisfaction and in numerous ways all surrounding localities will be affected.

Flowing 60 Barrels an Hour.

Butler, Pa., Nov. 28.—The Middletown Fourth Sand oil field yesterday developed the best well which has as yet been struck here. It is owned by the Devonion Oil company, which controls all the territory in the immediate vicinity, and is flowing at the rate of 60 barrels an hour. It is located on the A. W. Starr farm and is 800 feet west of the well brought in by the same company on the Starr farm about two months ago, which started off at 300 barrels a day.

Opening of Congress

Many Matters to Be Considered During the Short Session ∴ ∴ ∴

WHILE the opening of the second session of the Fifty-seventh congress on Dec. 1 will lack most of the spectacular interest that marks the assembling of a new congress, yet the convening of the nation's lawmakers is an event that attracts wide public attention, fraught as it is with import to the peoples who acknowledge the sway of Uncle Sam.

Where once our dominion was confined to the North American continent, it now extends beyond the seas, and to distant Asiatic isles as well as those near our Atlantic shores the results of the deliberations of the United States congress possess a deep significance.

With the opening of the coming session congress enters regularly upon its one hundred and sixteenth year. Many possibly believe that the date of its inception is from 1774, when was held in Philadelphia what is known as the "first American congress." This congress, however, must not be confused with the congress of 1787, held also in Philadelphia, for it is from the latter we date the birth of our continuous legislative life as a nation, although the first congress under the constitution was not organized until March, 1789.

The first Continental congress made the Declaration of Independence a possibility. The second sustained the principles of that declaration and brought order out of years of chaos and uncertainty. September, 1787, then, was the beginning of the congress of today, although it was not until some months later that this became by the signature of the various state representatives an accomplished fact.

From a mere handful of men the house of representatives alone has grown to a membership of 357, and this has been further increased by the new apportionment, so that when a year from next December the Fifty-eighth congress assembles 386 representatives will answer to the roll call of the clerk of the house.

With the growth of the country in population, wealth and territory the work to be done by congress has enormously increased. This has been notably so in the last decade and especially in the last five years. The vast extension of our foreign interests, the enormous development of our foreign trade and the momentous political and economic complications which have arisen as a result of the war with Spain have introduced for the consideration of our legislators a wilderness of problems whose competent consideration demands the knowledge of an expert.

The greater part of the real work of congress is done in committees. In the senate fifty members are each on seven different committees and fourteen are on eight committees. The members of a committee are supposed to be specialists on particular subjects besides having a fairly comprehensive knowledge of any and all subjects which may come before the senate from all other committees. Senator Cullom is chairman of the committee on foreign relations. That would seem to be enough for the occupation of one man's time, even if he were wholly free from all questions of pensions, patronage and local interests. But it is not. He must serve on interstate commerce, appropriations, relations with Canada and relations with Cuba, and, when he has properly attended to all these, he can take a few hours to think about additional accommodations for the library of congress.

The short session of congress is always one of hurry. Beginning the first Monday in December, it ends by law on March 4. Out of this the holiday vacation is taken, so but two and a half months are left for work.

The appropriation bills must of necessity be passed, for without money even Uncle Sam cannot keep the wheels of government turning. Then there are new measures of great importance to be considered at the coming session. Perhaps the most important new matter will be the consideration of antitrust legislation. President Roosevelt is expected to make strong recommendations to this effect. It is thought not unlikely that an amendment of the Sherman antitrust law on the lines suggested by Attorney General Knox may receive the approval of congress.

The judiciary committees will have charge of trust legislation. Senator Hoar is chairman of the senate committee. The chairmanship of the house judiciary committee is vacant by reason of Representative Ray's appointment to the federal bench in New York. His mantle will undoubtedly fall to Representative Jenkins of Wisconsin.

The measure to protect the president has already passed both houses, but so far apart in its provisions that it must again be dealt with before it can be agreed on. The contest over Cuban reciprocity which generated so much warmth during the first session will again come up. There is doubt of the fight being renewed in the ways and means committees. The prospects are that the matter will be considered in the form of a treaty, in which event it will be discussed behind closed doors.

One of the most interesting measures before this session is the ship subsidy bill. It is predicted that a strong effort will be made to get it through the house, it having already passed the senate.

These are but a few of the matters that will keep our lawmakers busy during the scant three months of the short session. The men on whom the heaviest work will devolve, however, are the chairmen of the appropriations committees of both houses, who will have charge of the big supply bills—Messrs. Allison in the senate and Cannon in the house.

Other chairmen of senate committees who will have charge of appropriations are Proctor for agriculture, Stewart for Indians, Hawley for the military, Hale for naval affairs, Gallinger for pensions and Mason for postoffices.

Many of those who will take part in the deliberations of the coming session will not return to our national legislative halls as members of the Fifty-eighth congress. Some will never go back, while others by a turn of the political wheel may again be chosen to represent a constituency at Washington. The most notable of those who will be missed from the next house are Eugene F. Loud, who for twelve years has represented the Fifth California district, and Speaker David B. Henderson of Iowa. On March 4 next Mr. Henderson will have completed his twentieth year in congress and his second term as speaker. He retires voluntarily.

But while men come and go congress will continue uninterrupted on its way, guiding and assisting Uncle Sam on his pathway of destiny.

Revolutionary Disturbances.

San Domingo, Republic of Santo Dominga, Nov. 28.—The political situation in Santo Domingo has been complicated by revolutionary disturbances which have broken out in the north of the republic. The government has taken severe measures to suppress the movement. Many arrests have already been made. General Wes Gil and J. D. Bichardo, a former minister, are prisoners here. Quiet prevails in this city, but business is stagnant. Minister Powell had another interview Wednesday with the Dominican minister of foreign affairs, arranging the claims of the improvement company, and insisted on a settlement without any further delay.

General Nord Massing Army.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 28.—Letters received here from Haiti say there is still considerable excitement in that republic, especially at Gonavies, where General Alexis Nord, the Haitian war minister, is massing a large army with the intention of declaring himself president. It is added that he already has 10,000 men under his command and expects to advance on Port-au-Prince within a fortnight.

The constabulary, on s side, has suffered no casualties.

Raided Counterfeiting Den.

Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 28.—Secret Service Agent Shaw raided a counterfeiting plant on Monte Sano yesterday and arrested M. V. Evans, an alleged counterfeiter. Many bogus dimes, half dollars and dollars were confiscated. They are made so well that only experts can determine their character. The full outfit of counterfeiting tools was found.

NO REVISION OF TARIFF.

Nor Is There Likely to Be Any Extra Session of Congress.

Washington, Nov. 28.—There will be no tariff revision before the next presidential election. There will be no extra session of congress.

Leaders of the Republican party have conceded to the president legislation to better regulate trusts for the purpose of evading a reopening of the tariff question "in the time of the country's greatest prosperity."

Every member of congress who has seen the president this week has attempted to impress upon him the necessity of leaving the tariff alone for the present. He has listened to their views with interest, and following, he considers, a party mandate, will not go beyond a recommendation for a tariff revision.

Two Linemen Badly Injured.

New Castle, Pa., Nov. 28.—Linemen Harry Hutchinson and Harry Agan employed by the New Castle Traction company, were badly injured yesterday in a runaway caused by a live wire. The North Highland avenue trolley broke and they were sent to repair it. A part of the live trolley dropped on the team hitched to the repair wagon. The horses ran, upsetting the tower wagon and throwing the linemen out. Hutchinson's back was badly injured, the spine being affected, and Agan had his ankle broken.

Union Service.

Springfield, O., Nov. 28.—An unusual service was held yesterday in which the members of the First Congragational church joined Ohev Seducah congregation, the fashionable Jewish church of the city. The union service was the result of a destructive fire, by which the congregational church was burned. Among all the offers of places in which to worship until a building could be erected, that of the Hebrew church, being most satisfactory, was accepted. Both congregations read responsively from the Hebrew prayer book and sang from the Congregational hymnal.

Unusual Decision.

Ottumwa, Ia., Nov. 28.—For the first time since the Dred-Scott decision, it is said, a United States circuit court has refused to follow a decision of a state supreme court. The case is that of the Water Supply company, of Ottumwa, against the city of Ottumwa. The plaintiffs sought to prevent the building of a municipal water plant and carried the case to the United States circuit court at St Louis. That tribunal decides that Ottumwa has reached the legal limit of indebtedness, notwithstanding the fact that the state supreme court of Iowa decided that a levy for this purpose would not be a part of the constitutional indebtedness of the city.

Burglars' Bold Attempt.

Dayton, Pa., Nov. 28.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the First National bank here last night. Reid Marshall, director of the bank, discovered the robbers at work and fired five charges at them from a double-barreled shotgun. The robbers escaped, but left a trail of blood behind them.

Repaired and Proceeded.

New York, Nov. 28.—The Allan State Line steamer Sardinian, which sailed yesterday for Glasgow, was obliged to return and anchor off Tompkinsville, S. I., owing to her machinery being deranged. She repaired and proceeded today.

OUR NATIVE TREES

... By ...

THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Ph. D.,
Professor of Botany, Iowa State University.

VIII.—Forestry and Reforestation.

THE value of the forest in itself and in its relation to the welfare of humanity in general has doubtless long attracted the attention of thoughtful men. Records of the fact are not wanting even in the ancient classics. It is even claimed for the old time Jews that they had forest regulations. In western Europe, however, for a long time men and trees seem to have stood in the position of natural rivals. In times of peace as the population waxed the forest retreated. When by decimation and continuous war the people perished, the forests resumed their earlier sway and covered the abandoned fields and homes of men. Indeed, as affording opportunity for the chase forests were by the rulers of the earth sometimes more highly esteemed than peoples and towns. All earlier government regulations preserved or established forests simply as a covert for the wild beasts. For whatever of native forests exists in England and western Europe generally we are doubtless indebted to the hunting instinct strongly developed in the hearts of the old time kings and princes. The Norman kings of England, as every schoolboy knows, were notorious for activity in this sport. Sherwood forest is probably part of the prehistoric woods of Britain preserved for purposes of the chase through all the centuries. New forest was new by order of William the Norman. A cultivated country became a royal hunting ground and, in fact, remained so down to the year 1857. The very royalty of the woods, however, operated at length to their disadvantage. They shared the fortunes of monarchy and flourished or decayed with the strength or feebleness of succeeding kings. A powerful monarch protected his property; a weaker sovereign lost it. Thus the celebrated ordinance of 1689, elaborated by Colbert and Louis XIV., was expected to correct abuses that during the supremacy of weaker sovereigns had almost ruined the royal domain. Of course, the overthrow of monarchy under these conditions jeopardized the very existence of the forest. Accordingly we are not surprised that the Puritan revolution in England left a greatly reduced wooded area in that country, and across the channel the notorious French revolution vented its rage especially on the royal forests, on groves, on parks of castles, chateaux, wherever a privileged class had up to that time been the conservators of large estates and widespreading wooded regions.

However, all this is happily now long past. All men are wiser. Not only are forests now preserved and cared for in nearly all the principal countries of Europe, but their value is rightly esteemed by everybody. Whether the property of king or people, no one nowadays would think of their destruction or obliteration.

Forests in Europe, as of yore, are largely the property of the government, republic, kingdom or empire, but they are no longer regarded as instruments of oppression. France has now one of the most complete systems of forest management in the world and has in later years accomplished wonders in restoring her provinces to the fortunate condition of earlier times. Since the establishment at Naples of a school of forestry in 1827 the application of genuine scientific treatment in the whole forest problem has been in France more varied and extensive than anything else in the world. Germany, as we shall see, has a much larger organization, but the problem in the fatherland was much less complex. In general we may say that in France the whole forest question is in review. For instance, France has undertaken the reforestation of her mountains. The movement began in 1862 by the passage of laws making large appropriations for this purpose. In the accomplishment of the work something like $10,000,000 has since been expended, and the task is only about half completed. Eight million acres of tillable land were threatened with destruction, and to avert the impending calamity it was necessary to plant with trees more than 800,000 acres of mountain side. In Gascony a hundred years ago the whole region between the Gironde and the Adore was swept by the west wind coming in from the Atlantic. Vast sand dunes extended for miles and miles along the western coast of France and were slowly burying the tillable and habitable land moving inward at about the rate of sixteen feet per year. Those dunes have been covered with a forest of pines and are today the seat of an industry, a forest industry, giving employment to thousands of people. One cannot but admire the energy with which such adverse conditions are overcome. The Frenchman is staggered by no difficulty. Nothing is impracticable with him. If by the blunders of the past the mountains are coming down upon him, he forthwith sets out to rehabilitate the mountains and bind the sources of the river; if the sands tossed up by the waves threaten him with entombment he plants the dunes with appropriate vegetation and makes of them not a windbreak only of interior fields, but a breakwater to the encroachments of the ocean. Does the mistral plague his southern provinces, vex his orchards and blight his olive yards, he plants forests across the path of the north wind and so restores the old time conditions of moisture and climate. If in all these matters men of the next century are wiser and more fortunate than we, it will in a large measure be owing to the farreaching experimentations now in progress on the mountains and in the river valleys of France.

In Germany systematic investigation of some of these problems began a little earlier than in France, and to Germany, as it seems, belongs the credit of establishing the first schools of arboriculture in the world. Several such schools were set up in the Harz mountains in 1772. Today a chair of forestry is found in almost every university in the German empire, and more than 4,500 men are engaged in the administration of the German forests. There were a few years since twenty German periodicals devoted to forestry interests only. In addition to all this, there are separate schools for forestry where nothing else is attempted but the preparation of candidates for administrative work among the woods and trees. About ten years of such preparatory service are required, five in study, five in practice work.

German foresters of course have their own problems. Some are of great moment, but the author knows of none at present as farreaching as are some of those cited in France. The Germans had more to start with. Today it is the chief duty of the German forest administration to maintain the forests as they now stand. Nevertheless it is the ultimate policy of the German government to bring under other forms of culture all lands susceptible of such treatment, not reducing the wooded area indeed, but gradually shifting it so that eventually only such lands will be occupied with trees as are practically valuable for no other crop. And yet the extent of the forest is not to be diminished. Of course in such management there will always be respect to climatic and erosional possibilities. Every forest in Germany is accurately mapped. In the working plans of those in charge of any wood every tree is noted and recorded. Think of 7,000,000 acres of woodland cared for with exactitude such as that! Small wonder that the forests of Germany are a source of constant and considerable revenue to the imperial government. In 1895 the cost of administration in the German forest is stated at $1.32 per acre, the income at $2.63. On 7,000,000 acres this will be quite a considerable item in the kaiser's budget.

No American who has not witnessed it can form any conception of what it is to see a forest in order. To walk in the shadow of great trees by self appointed paths, to see beeches and oaks and firs and pines luxuriating at their best and yet all perfect, each supporting but none destroying the other, none fallen, none distorted or dying and, best of all, none consumed with fire, is an experience like to that of an artist in a splendid painted hall. The writer once saw an oak two or three feet in diameter felled in the forest by the Rhine. The tree was taken down piecemeal. Not a sapling was injured in its fall. There was no stump. The sawyers cut a little below the surface of the ground. From the scene of action a temporary iron tramway was laid to the regular avenue of exit, and so the logs were safely and quickly moved out of sight. When all was done, there was left on the ground not a chip, not so much as a twig. The stump itself, if such it may be called, was buried in the soil and so left to decay.

The German method of treatment is different from that practiced in some other countries—England, for instance. In England the natural forest is all cut at once, the grounds then reset or replanted with seed. In Germany the object seems to be to keep the forest as such always in practically the same condition. The removal and constant renewal of native trees are scarcely at all noticeable.

The woods are mixed in character, and replanting goes on all the time, chiefly from nurseries.

In Austria the forestry methods are largely those of Germany; in Switzerland they are those of France. Forest denudation has already in many places almost ruined the Swiss mountains and has covered the fertile valleys with glacial debris. The French method of experiment is exactly in line with the Swiss necessity. Italy is attempting something of the same sort. Her mountains and streams everywhere show the results of thousands of years of mismanagement. Her forestry school is at Milton's Vallombrosa, a locality in beauty fortunately still worthy of the poet's praise. But the progress of economic reform in Italy is still discouragingly slow.

The illustrations we have cited have brought to us some conception of modern forestry, may even enable us perchance to frame a definition of the word. Forestry is really a branch of agriculture, field culture in the broader acceptation of the term. Yet forestry is something more than a single crop of aboreous plants. Forestry, as we understand it, is a science which concerns itself with world culture, an art which teaches the proper use of the earth as an abode for civilized and enlightened men. The forester is something more than woodman, and forestry is something more than the care of the woods. Forestry is applied knowledge. It is the practical application of all that we know of botany, geology, meteorology. Besides this, it is a branch of economics and concerns what we call social science. It includes all these things. No greater problem today exists in either philanthropy or science.

TRIFLING WITH YOUR HEALTH

Is like Playing with a loaded Gun. If you have Kidney Trouble attend to it at once.

It is easy to tell whether your Kidneys or bladder are diseased. Take a bottle or glass tumbler and fill it with urine. If there is a sediment—a powder-like substance—after standing a day and night, if it is pale or discolored, ropy or stringy, there is something wrong with the Kidneys. Other sure signs of disease are a desire to urinate often, pain in the back, or if your urine stains linen.

There is no question that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best and surest medicine in the world for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Chronic Constipation, and the sicknesses peculiar to women. It quickly relieves and cures inability to hold urine and the necessity of getting up a number of times during the night, and puts an end to the scalding pain when passing urine.

The Rev. Henry P. Miller, pastor Baptist Church, Spartenburg, S. C., writes:

"For years I suffered with Kidney, liver and heart troubles, swimming in the head, dull headache and numbness of the limbs. Physicians prescribed for me and I took different medicines, but none of them did me any good. But Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cured me in about two weeks."

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose.

CUBA STATES TERMS.

If Treaty Concedes 25 Per Cent Tariff Cut Palma Will Sign It.

Havana, Nov. 28.—If the Cuban reciprocity treaty, as now proposed concedes a 25 per cent reduction in tariff duties, there is a strong probability of its acceptance by President Palma and the Cuban senate. Secretary of State Saldo and Secretary of the Treasury Montes, the commission on the part of the Cuban government to negotiate the treaty, submitted five objections. Three of these are conceded by the United States. The fourth relates to Porto Rican coffee and, it is thought, can be conceded by the United States without difficulty.

This leaves only the question of the amount of the reduction in the United States tariff. If the proposed 20 per cent is increased to 25 per cent President Palma likely will send the treaty to the senate for ratification.

A Timely Suggestion.

"Now that winter with its bad weather is with us I would advise every family to provide themselves against sudden attacks of coughs and colds by keeping at hand a good cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which is the best among the many preparations for these ailments that I have on my shelves," says Mr. L. C. Neaville, the well known and popular druggist of Pittsboro, Ind. "I recommend this remedy and guarantee it to be without an equal for coughs and colds, also as a preventitive and cure for croup." Buy it now. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

EXPLAINS POSITION.

The President Makes Clear His Attitude on Appointments of Colored Men.

ABILITY, NOT COLOR, CONSIDERED

Bays the Door of Hope and Opportunity Shall Not Be Shut Upon Any Worthy Man Purely Upon the Grounds of Race or Color.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The president has sent the following communication to a citizen of Charleston, S. C.:

White House,
Washington, Nov. 26, 1902.

My Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of Nov. 10 and of one from Mr. ————, under date of Nov. 11, in reference to the appointment of Dr. Crum as collector of the port of Charleston. In your letter you make certain specific charges against Dr. Crum, tending to show his unfitness in several respects for the office sought. These charges are entitled to the utmost consideration from me and I shall go over them carefully before taking any action. After making these charges you add as a further reason for opposition to him that he is a colored man, and after reciting the misdeeds that followed carpet-bag rule and negro domination in South Carolina, you say that "We have sworn never again to submit to the rule of the African, and such an appointment as that of Dr. Crum to any such office forces us to protest unanimously against this insult to the white blood," and you add that you understood me to say that I would never force a negro on such a community as yours. Mr. ———— puts the objection of color first, saying:

Concerned and Pained.

"First, he is a colored man, and that of itself ought to bar him from the office." In view of these last statements I think I ought to make clear to you why I am concerned and pained by your making them and what my attitude is as regards all such appointments: How any one could have gained the idea that I had said I would not appoint reputable and upright colored men to office when objection was made wholly to them on account of their color, I confess I am wholly unable to understand. At the time of my visit to Charleston last spring I had made and since that time I have made a number of such appointments from several states in which there is a considerable colored population. For example, I made one such appointment in Mississippi and another in Alabama, shortly before my visit to Charleston. I had at that time appointed two colored men as judicial magistrates in the District of Columbia. I have recently announced another such appointment for New Orleans and have just made one from Pennsylvania. The great majority of my appointments in every state have been of white men. North and south alike it has been my sedulous endeavor to appoint only men of high character and good capacity, whether white or black. But it has been my consistent policy in every state where their numbers warranted it to recognize colored men of good repute and standing in making appointments to office. These appointments of colored men have in no state made more than a small proportion of the total number of appointments. I am unable to see how I can legitimately be asked to make an exception for South Carolina. In South Carolina, to the four most important positions in the state, I have appointed three men and continued in office a fourth, all of them white men—three of them originally gold Democrats—two of them, as I am informed, the sons of Confederate soldiers. I have been informed by the citizens of Charleston whom I know that these four men represent a high grade of public service.

Will Not Appoint Unfit Men.

I do not intend to appoint any unfit man to office. So far as I legitimately can I shall always endeavor to pay regard to the wishes and feelings of the people of each locality, but I cannot consent to take the position that the door of hope—the door of opportunity—is to be shut upon any man, no matter how worthy, purely upon the grounds of race or color. Such an attitude would, according to my convictions, be fundamentally wrong. If, as you hold, the great bulk of the colored people are not yet fit in point of character and influence to hold such positions, it seems to me that it is worth while putting a premium upon the effort among them to achieve the character and standing which will fit them.

The question of "negro domination" does not enter into the matter at all. It might as well be answered that when I was governor of New York I sought to bring about negro domination in that state because I appointed two colored men of good character and standing to responsible positions—one of them to a position paying a salary twice as large as that paid in the office now under consideration—one of them as a director of the Buffalo exposition. The question raised by you and Mr. ———— in the statements which I refer is simply whether it is to be declared that under no circumstances shall any man of color, no matter how upright and honest, no matter how good a citizen, no matter how fair in his dealings with all his fellows, be permitted to hold any office under our government. I certainly cannot assume such an attitude, and you must permit me to say that in my view it is an attitude no man should assume, whether he looks at it from the standpoint of the true interest of the white man of the south or of the colored men of the south, not to speak of any other section of the Union. It seems to me that it is a good thing from every standpoint to let the colored man know that if he shows in marked degree the qualities of good citizenship—the qualities which in a white man

Without any regard as to what my decision may be on the merits of this particular applicant for this particular place, I feel that I ought to let you know clearly my attitude on the far broader question raised by you and Mr. ————, an attitude from which I have not varied during my term of office.

Faithfully yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

THE BRAKE FAILED TO WORK.

Trolley Car Overturns and Kills a Boy and Injures a Score of Other Persons.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—One boy was instantly killed and a score of other persons were injured by a car of the Philadelphia and Lehigh Valley Traction company overturning as it was rounding a curve yesterday at Hatfield, about 27 miles north of this city. The dead boy was Wallace Crouthummel, of Hatfield, aged 14 years. The most seriously injured are Joseph Detweiler, aged 19 years, of Souderton, who is internally injured and may die, and John Esser, of Souderton, the motorman, who had three ribs broken.

There were 70 passengers on the car, among them the Perkasie high school foot ball eleven, which was on its way to play at Lansdale. In rounding a curve the brake failed to work and the car made the turn so swiftly that the body of the car was snapped from its trucks and fell on its side. Crouthummel, who was standing on the rear platform, was thrown heavily to the ground, breaking his neck and causing almost instant death. Excepting Detweiler and Esser, the other passengers escaped serious injury, although some of them were severely bruised. The members of the football team were not injured.

THE CUBAN RIOTS.

Arrest of Editor Ordered on Charges of Sedition.

Havana, Nov. 28.—Two of the men who were injured Wednesday evening on a street car by shots fired from neighboring houses died yesterday. There have been no further disturbances. The mayor has ordered the police to arrest all the occupants of the houses from which the shots may have been fired at the car Wednesday.

The special judge in charge of the rioting cases has ordered the arrest of Arnauto Cervantes, the editor of the Reconcentrado, on charges of sedition.

Endeavors are being made to settle the differences between the cigar makers and their employers. It was rumored last night that another general strike will be declared should these endeavors fail, though it is stated that not all the unions would join in the movement.

WORK OF LA SOUFRIERE.

A Raging, Steaming Torrent Flowed from Volcano.

Kingston, St. Vincent, Nov. 28.—Wednesday's eruption of La Soufriere occurred at the head of the dry river, Rabacca, where huge quantities of volcanic deposits had blocked the water course since the eruptions last May in spite of the subsequent heavy rainfall. After the eruption a raging, steaming torrent flowed from the base of La Soufriere and swept down the Rabacca, completing the destruction of the sugar works there. Sand at the same time fell on Georgetown and other places.

Two Italians Shot.

Monessen, Pa., Nov. 28.—Fifteen Italians were celebrating Thanksgiving at Webster, east of here, yesterday, by drinking. After being ejected from a hotel one of them pulled a 38 caliber revolver and began firing. Five shots were fired, two of which took effect among the Italians, one of whom was mortally wounded by being shot through the stomach. Another was shot through the shoulder.

What to do Until the Doctor Arrives.

"One of my children was taken with cramp colic and suffered severely," says S. B. Elzee, of Monett, Mo. "I telephoned for a doctor, then gave a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and a few minutes later a second dose. Before the doctor came the child was relieved." The ambassador referred to the cordiality of his reception at Lividia as another evidence of the sincere friendship entertained by Russia for the United States.

Emperor William said that while it was a pleasure to make the presentation, he did so on the recommendation of Chancellor Von Buelow and Foreign Secretary Von Richthofen. His majesty added that as a personal remembrance he was having a porcelain vase made at the royal works here for Mr. White.

19TH YEAR. NO. 281. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1902—TWELVE PAGES. TWO CENTS.

A NEW POTTERY PLANT TO BE BUILT AT CAMERON

Two East Liverpool Men Are Officers of the Company, Which Is Capitalized at $100,000.

S. E. STRICKLIN WILL SUPERVISE CONSTRUCTION

Active operations upon the construction of the new pottery to be built at Cameron, W. Va., will be commenced next week. Little has been known in this city of the project until today, when an interview was secured from S. E. Stricklin, secretary of the new company.

The concern was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia, and the officers are: President, M. L. Benedum; vice president, Alfred Hard; secretary, S. E. Stricklin; treasurer, A. E. Fox, the latter two of this city. The town of Cameron is 19 miles south of Wheeling, and affords special inducements to an enterprise of this character. S. E. Stricklin was the prime mover in projecting the scheme, and to his efforts is due the fact that the plans have now progressed to the point where work will be commenced at once.

Mr. Stricklin states the pottery will have a four-kiln capacity to begin with and the structure will be so arranged that it can be enlarged at any time to a six-kiln plant, which move the company intends to make within a year. The building will be 400x80, the glost ware rooms and shipping departments three stories high, while the clay shops will be but two. The concern will manufacture semi-porcelain of a high class, and it is now expected that all work will be completed and the plant placed in full operation by June 1, 1903.

The company expects to install in connection with its equipment an electric lighting plant. Every manufacturing concern and business house, together with whatever lights are necessary for the illumination of the town will be supplied by the Cameron China company. The bulk of the stock is owned by Cameron people, and the concern is capitalized at $100,000.

Mr. Stricklin will have full and complete charge of the erection and equipment of the plant, which is a guarantee that the task will be performed in an efficient and business-like manner. One of the first matters which will be taken up by Mr. Stricklin is the sinking of gas and water wells, with which the company expect to supply their own fuel and water.

A switch from the B. & O. main line has already been begun, and will be in readiness to deposit the building materials and machinery upon the ground without delay.

The affairs of the Royal China company, of which Mr. Stricklin has been at the head in this city for several months, will be wound up as soon as possible and the concern dissolved. This will enable the gentleman to devote his entire time to the interests of the new Cameron enterprise.

ITALIAN SHOT BY ACCIDENT

Flobert Rifle Used and the Shooter Says He Didn't Know 'Twas Loaded.

UGLY WOUND IN THE HIP

Caused By the Bullet As the Man Whom It Struck Was Walking Along the Railroad Track—Owner of the Gun Fined.

"I didn't know the gun was loaded," was the laconic reply of Edward Fleming when asked this morning by the mayor how he had come to shoot Dominick John, an Italian, yesterday morning on the railroad track near the old glass house.

The Italian was walking up the track and Fleming in fun pointed a flobert rifle which had been handed him by a boy and pulled the trigger immediately following a report sounded and the foreigner gave a shrill cry of pain. He was removed to his home in Jethro Hollow by the patrol wagon and Dr. Hobbs was summoned. The physician probed for the bullet, which struck the man in the right hip, but was unable to locate it.

Chief Thompson was notified of the shooting last evening and this morning, accompanied by Officer Dawson, made a thorough investigation of the case. The result was that Fleming was arrested and taken before the mayor and a charge of shooting with in the city limits was placed against him. To the charge he pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs.

The mayor thinks the shooting purely accidental, and states that Dr Hobbs has given the assurance that the wounded man will soon recover. Fleming promised to go and provide for the Italian through his sickness, and seemed very sorry that he had caused the accident.

Formerly One of Columbiana County's Most Prominent Men—Ohio Representatives at St. Louis Exposition. Royer Act Cases.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, November 28.—Hon. William T. Cope, ex-state treasurer, died at his residence in this city Wednesday night. He was formerly one of the best known men in Columbiana county. He was born near Salineville and spent the greater part of his life in that town. He engaged in the banking business and general mercantile business in Salineville until 1885, when he was elected to represent Columbiana county in the house of representatives. He served two terms. Afterward he went to Cleveland, where he engaged in the coal business. He was state treasurer from 1892 to 1896. Mr. Cope served in the civil war, ranking as captain. His business career was marked by success and he leaves alarge estate. He was looked upon as the city's most stalwart business men, and his death will be mourned by many. He was a member of the Olivet Presbyterian church, of this city. The funeral will be held Saturday morning from the family home at 222 King avenue. Interment will be at Green Lawn cemetery, this city.

Governor Nash has announced the appointment of the commission which will represent Ohio at the St. Louis exposition. Its personnel follows: W. F. Burdell, Columbus; L. E. Holden Cleveland; Edward Hagenbuck, Urbana; Newell K. Kennon, St. Clairsville; M. K. Gantz, Troy; David H. Moore, Athens. Burdell has been treasurer of the Republican state committee for several terms and is a close friend of the governor; Holden is the editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; Hagenbuck is a member of the house of representatives; Kennan is a lawyer and manufacturer and a son of the late Judge Kennon, of St. Clairsville, who was famous as a jurist; Gantz is an ex-congressman; Moore is a member of the senate and is chairman of the finance committee of that body. The commission has authority to spend $75,000; $35,000 is for a building. Stacy B. Rankin, of South Charlestown, is executive commissioner of the commission.

Attorney General Sheets has been informed that rehearings would be asked for in the cases recently dismissed under the Royer act by the supreme court. The attorneys in these cases contend that the court erred in declaring the retrograde feature to the law to be unconstitutional and cite in support of this a rule established by the court in the case of Curry against Homer, in 1898. The attorneys are to combine and a hard fought legal battle may be looked for.

MISSING STRANGERS MAY HAVE DROWNED

Their Companion Positive That Two Men Were Upset From a Skiff Into the Waters of the Ohio.

NO TRACE OF THEM HAS YET BEEN DISCOVERED

If the story related at police headquarters last evening by J. S. Miller, of California Hollow, who by trade is a roller, but who for several years has engaged quite extensively in the junk business, is true the Ohio river has been made the grave of two more unfortunates. Miller was very positive in his statements, and although he was drunk while unfolding the story and also at the time when he alleges that the drowning occurred, many are inclined to believe him, owing to the peculiar circumstances surrounding.

Elmer Lewis, a roller of Monaca, is one of the missing, while the name of the other is not known to Miller. His home, however, is on Penn avenue, Pittsburg, and he was about 25 years of age, with smooth face and light complexion. No traces of the missing men could be found yesterday or today, notwithstanding a careful search was made of haunts where they would likely be. Distressing cries were reported heard at the time they were reported drowned.

In the presence of a News Review reporter Miller told the following:

"I came down from Monaca Wednesday evening with Daff Call, of this city. We had been up there buying and selling junk. When we got off the train we met Elmer Lewis, of Monaca, and the other men of Pittsburg, and all of us started to get drunk. And if there was ever a gang got drunk we did. The two men from out of town asked me to go down to the river and go over to Chester with them in a skiff. They wanted to see Manager Banfield, of the tin mill, and if possible get a job.

"I consented to go with them and all of us staggered down the hill. I got in the back end of the boat and was so drunk I immediately fell asleep. Until I awoke floundering in the water between the second and third piers of the bridge I was dead to the world. I commenced swimming with all my might and it was so dark that I could see none of my companions. I heard one of them say: 'Oh, for God's sake, some one save me!' All of them, I suppose, went to the bottom then. I pulled off my overcoat and after a desperate struggle swam to shore."

At about 11:30 o'clock Miller was heard by Captain Gus Martindill while he was attempting to climb up on the wharfboat, but before the captain could get down to him he had disappeared, and he states that he went straight home. He left his overcoat on the wharfboat and last evening went with Officer McDermott after it. He said that when he took the overcoat off it contained $63.65, but when

George P. McGillivray Faces the Charges Made by His Wife.

MAKING OF COUNTERFEITS

Witness Testifies That She Often Saw Him Making Bogus Nickels And Describes the Process—Crowd At the Hearing.

George P. McGillivray, charged with non-support and making counterfeit money, was arraigned before 'Squire H. P. McCarron this afternoon in the council chamber at the city hall shortly after 2 o'clock.

Attorney George D. Davidson represented the defendant in the case and Attorney Richard G. Thompson, the state.

The court room was well filled with curious spectators and friends of both defendant and Mrs. McGillivray, who filed the charges against her husband.

Mrs. Lydia McGillivray was the first witness for the state called to testify upon the charge of counterfeiting. She said: "I saw him make the moulds and saw him make the nickels. He took a good sound nickel and made the impression. He then melted lead and poured it in the moulds. They came out good nickels. He used different nickels. He said the reason was that he did not want them to all have the same date. He would pour something on them as they would not look like new. He made them in the presence of my sister. He would take them out and come back with good money. I don't know how many he made because I didn's count them."

Cross examined: "I don't know the first date he made them, but it was near the latter part of August. The first night he went out he came back with $1.75 in good money. He told me he was violating the law and he made threats what he would do to me if I told. The mould was a little white one. When he would mould so many it would wear and he would make another one. He showed me many of the nickels."

A PAROLE SOUGHT

BY FRIENDS OF WINNET, NOW IN THE REFORMATORY.

Application Will Be Considered at a Board Meeting in January.

Information from Pittsburg states that application will be made to the parole board of the Ohio state reformatory at Mansfield on January 23, 1903, to parole Robert Winnett, formerly of Duquesne, now confined in that institution on the charge of being an accessory to the death of Ada Jane Moore, who was also a resident of Duquesne.

Winnett was jointly indicted with Dr. W. L. Thompson, of East Liverpool, on the charge and entered a plea of guilty. Winnett has now served the time allotted under which his application will be considered by the board. It is thought that the application will be granted, as it is understood to have the endorsement of the prosecuting attorney and the trial judge. He will be represented before the board by Attorney J. R. McQuade, of Pittsburg.

A JOYOUS TIME FOR ODD FELLOWS

Their Entertainment and Reception Attracted a Crowd of 500 Persons.

Veterans of the Order Gave Interesting Speeches—There Was Music, Feasting And a Superb Program In All Respects.

The Odd Fellows' social and entertainment on Wednesday evening was one of the largest attended and most successful ever attempted by the order. Besides the 60 visitors who came on a special train from New Cumberland there were visitors from Smith's Ferry, Wellsville, Chester and Sebring. Seats were at a premium, but the 500 people present were admirably handled and all well provided for.

The program was in keeping with the balance of the entertainment and was well managed. Besides impromptu addresses by Armour S. Cooper, Supt. Lindsay, Mr. Polland and Hon. J. A. MacKenzie, prosecuting attorney of Hancock county, short addresses were delivered by Attorney Lones and Mr. Lawson, of Wellsville, the latter one of the oldest Odd Fellows in the state, being 54 years a member; Elijah W. Hill and Christian Metsch, of the local order. The latter was initiated into that body in this city 35 years ago when the order was in its infancy.

Miss Mearl Reark and Charles Usler and wife gave most excellent music on the piano and the songs by Miss Anna Dunn and recitations by little Elizabeth E. Clark were much appreciated. Dr. J. Howard Davis kept the audience in a continual roar each time he appeared. Others also helped to make the entertainment one of the best.

Choice refreshments were passed around. After luncheon about an hour was spent in a regular "old time mix-up," where nothing but good fellowship existed. Too much praise cannot be given the general committee for its entertainment, one that every Odd Fellow of the local lodge should be proud.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

ARTISTIC POTTERY.

If we were to reckon up the establishments in which artistic pottery is made in the United States we should find as many as ten enterprises. This does not include painters of pottery or porcelain which has been bought ready-made and fired, says an exchange. A great deal of that sort of work is done; persons who are skillful in the art of painting of flowers and in the intervention of decorative patterns will buy bowls and vases of French porcelain and paint upon these, as upon panel or paper, with pleasing results; but at present we are not considering these in connection with the making of decorative pottery. The other potter is he who makes his vessel complete, with a view to the subsequent decoration, and decorates it afterwards, with a view to its make; holding both processes in his own hands. The complex character of the paste used by some potters, and the tendency in all cases away from the simpler work of old times with natural clay, used nearly as originally found, has caused in America, as in Europe, and, perhaps, in the east, an inclination to find hard pottery, and the reverse. Thus there are among the wares to be named here some which are certainly porcelaineous, and these remind us of the cheaper Chinese wares, "Canton" and "Nanking," those which have been exported for many decades from China to the western lands, and which are certainly of the nature of porcelain, however non-translucent they are and however coarse and commonplace in their make and decoration. Pieces of American make, of very refined treatment, considered works of art, have somewhat the same character of a very hard ware fired at high temperature and capable of enduring almost any extent of table service, while yet they are not certain porcelain in the usual sense of the term.

EXHIBITS WANTED.

United States Consul Frank W. Jackson, of Patras, Greece, in the advance sheets of consular reports for November 5, announces the postponement to April 7, 1903, of the opening of the International Exposition of Industry, Commerce-Art and Hygiene, to be held at Athens, and urges a display of American products, specifically farming and mechanical implements, typewriters, letter and printing presses, engines, currant cleaning machinery, lighting apparatus, lamps, dynamos and electrical appliances, stating that an "American exhibit might induce a like favor for the Louisiana Purchase Exhibition." The comprehensiveness and grandeur of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition tend to obscure recollection of similar enterprises, but is would seem that Consul Jackson's suggestion might be well taken under advisement.

NEW SALESMAN.

After weeks of the busiest time known in the history of the plant the Sevres China company is getting toward the bottom of its order files on decorated ware for the holiday trade. The end is just beginning to come into sight and there is much yet to be done. Manager Cross, of the decorating department, has completed a part of the samples for the spring trade. Frederick Kline, for five years a salesman with the Vodreys, will represent the Sevres next year in the territory east of Pittsburg. He has been at the pottery the past few days familiarizing himself with the lines and expressed himself as highly pleased with them.

GOES TO BARBERTON.

It is reported that Howard Shaffer, of the glost end at the Thompson, will sever his connection with that plant to accept a situation at Barberton. He will leave here for his new location in about 10 days and will move his family and household effects during the holidays.

AMONG THE POTTERS.

Frank Farris, of the glost end at Cartwright's, is reported among the sick.

James Bowles, a dipper at Cartwright's, has been laid up for the past few days with erysipelas.

Alfred Renisher, Bob Cooper, Ernie Wilson and Bob Kirkham, of the Sevres, spent Thanksgiving day hunting near Williamsport.

Charles Kennedy, of the decorating kiln crew at the Sevres, has returned from a brief visit to Pittsburg.

Lawrence Van Fossen has resigned at Harker's and has taken a situation in the glost kiln crew at the Sevres.

Ernest Coleman, of the glost end at the Sevres, has returned to work after being laid off for a week with a carbuncle on his neck.

William Woods, of the glost end at the Sevres, spent Thanksgiving with his brother John at Pleasant Heights, Mrs. Woods being at Toronto visiting relatives.

Charles Pelly, groundlayer at the Sevres, whose continued illness with inflammatory rheumatism has been mentioned in this column, is reported to be much improved.

SEIZED AT CUSTOM HOUSE.

A local dealer in decorating material has disappointed some of the decorators. He had two barrels of material shipped here from England. The goods were seized at the New York custom house on account of alleged undervaluation. The loss to him amounts to abount $700.

BADLY INJURED

Miss Sadie Wolf Met With a Mishap While Alighting From a Wagon.

While alighting from a wagon near her home on Lisbon street, Wednesday night, Miss Sadie Wolf fell and was badly injured. The wagon had been driven into the gutter and was standing in a slanting position, so that when Miss Wolf stepped to that side the vehicle tipped over and she was precipitated to the ground with considerable force.

The wagon was broken and Miss Wolf, while not seriously hurt, was severely shaken up.

CROSS SUSTAINED

Charges Against a Well Known Painter Are Found to Be Baseless.

Charges which were made against E. M. Cross, a well known painter before his local No. 165, and which were sustained by it several weeks ago, have been dissolved by the highest authority in the union.

The trouble dates back for several years when Mr. Cross was accused by a local contractor of working under or for less than the scale of the journeymen painters called for. The matter was not taken up at that time nor for more than two years afterward. Meantime Mr. Cross held every responsible position within the gift of the organization, but when he concluded to become a contractor the trouble was revived. At the trial which followed he was convicted and the fact advertised both among the membership and Trades and Labor council. An appeal was taken by Cross, with the result that the following letter was received by him yesterday from W. C. Conick, grand secretary and treasurer of the union.

"As long as you pay union wages, employ union men, and are willing to sign the scale, members of the union must be permitted to work for you."

These matters will be reported to the union and Trades council at its next meeting.

ARTESIAN WELLS

To Be Utilized to Furnish Water Supply to the City of Salem.

Salem, November 28.—Devoid of any publicity whatever the Salem Water Works company has been quietly working for some time to secure an entirely new source of water supply for customers in Salem.

The water works are not at present paying expenses. A test well, drilled on the J. C. Whinery farm to a depth of 140 feet, flows 75,000 gallons every 24 hours, of soft, clear, crystal water. It is thought an abundant supply can be obtained from several similar artesian wells.

EAST END

DAY WAS QUIET

Union Services were well Attended But Balance of Day Was Given Over to Rest And Quiet.

Thanksgiving day was given over to quiet enjoyment and rest by most of the people of the East End. Nearly all the business houses were closed and generally things wore a Sunday aspect. The potteries were running, but with greatly reduced forces about half of the men taking the day.

Rev. D. W. McQuiston, of the Second U. P. church, delivered the union Thanksgiving sermon in the morning to a large congregation. His remarks were from the text "Whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, giving thanks to God, the Father, through Him." The sermon was an excellent one and was listened to attentively. The music was furnished by the choir from the Second Presbyterian church and a male quartet from the choir rendered several beautiful selections.

Rev. Mr. Sharp's Lecture.

There was a large attendance at the Second Presbyterian church last evening to hear the lecture of Rev. Alexander Sharp, of Mingo. The lecture was even better than had been anticipated. Rev. Mr. Sharp is an eloquent speaker and handled his subject matter in such a way as to be instructive and interesting without being tiresome. He talked of the characteristics, mode of life and religious beliefs of the people of the northern South American countries among whom he lived eight years as a missionary. The free will thank offering netted a neat sum.

WENT DOWN IN GALE.

The Steamer Sylvanus J. Macy Springs Leak Off Port Burwell, Ont.

ENTIRE CREW SUPPOSED LOST.

When Last Seen the Macy Was Laboring Heavily in the Sea and Making for Shelter—Carried a Crew of About Eighteen—Partial List.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—In a furious southwest gale on Lake Erie Sunday night the steamer Sylvanus J Macy sprung a leak off Port Burwell, Ont., and plunged to the bottom, probably carrying her entire crew with her. The barge Mabel Wilson, which was being towed by the Macy, broke away from the steamer in the darkness and succeeded in sailing up the lake to Amherstburg, where she arrived yesterday afternoon.

The first news of the disaster was reported by Captain J. J. Anderson of the steamer Albright, which passed up the river early yesterday morning She reported having passed through wreckage Wednesday three miles southwest of Longpoint, consisting of parts of the cabin, life preservers and doors of some vessel. The cabin was painted white, but there were no distinguishing marks to tell what vessel it was from. The arrival of the Wilson, however, leaves no doubt but that the wreckage is from the Macy, as the last seen of that steamer was in the vicinity.

Tow Line Thrown Off.

The Macy, with the Wilson in tow left Buffalo last Saturday with a cargo of coal. When half way up Lake Erie the gale was encountered and when abreast of Port Burwell the tow line of the barge was thrown off by the crew of the Macy, leaving the schooner to shift for herself. When last seen by the crew of the Wilson the Macy was laboring heavily in the sea and was evidently making for shelter. If the crew had time to leave their ship before the plunge to the bottom it is not believed the small boats could have lived long in the terrible sea running. That nothing has been heard of them has convinced the owners that all were lost.

Partial List of Crew.

The Macy was owned by P. J Ralph & Co., of Detroit, and was insured for $16,500. She was one of the older type of wooden steamers. She registered 752 tons. She was built in 1881.

The only names of the crew obtainable at the office of the owners of the Macy are as follows: M. W. Gotham, Richland City, Wis., captain; ——— Gotham, son of captain, mate; F. Gregory, Detroit, first engineer; George Webb, second engineer; John Nugent, Algoma, wheelman.

As the personnel of the crew of the steamer changes at nearly every port visited a complete list is not available in the office. The crew of the Macy probably numbers 18, as that is the number necessary to man a ship of her size.

We told you to prepare yourself for that cold snap. Have you bought your overcoat yet? If not, see our big line of the best in town and save money.

TWELVE PAGES.

NOW THE TIME FOR ACTION.

Congressman Burton, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, in an interview elsewhere quoted, talks discouragingly of the outlook for the early undertaking by congress of the great and much needed work of making a nine-foot channel in the Ohio river from Pittsburg to Cairo. It is an unwelcome surprise to find any congressman from Ohio talking in this strain and the more unwelcome because of the position that Mr. Burton occupies at the head of the committee which has to deal with the matter. However, Mr. Burton says that he would be glad to see the work undertaken, but fears congress cannot be persuaded to undertake it. In our humble opinion, he had far better be engaged in trying to convert representatives who do not appreciate the magnitude and importance of the work than in trying to discourage those who are fully convinced of its importance and necessity. Besides, the arguments advanced by him as likely to influence congress to remain inactive are neither many nor strong. He states that the project would involve an outlay of $60,000,000, and if once begun the friends of other river interests, such as the Mississippi, the Tennessee and the Cumberland, would become clamorous for proportionately liberal appropriations, resulting in a severe drain on the United States treasury.

Now the appropriation of $60,000,000 for government work does not mean that such a sum must be withdrawn from the treasury at once. The most sanguine estimates are that it would take from five to seven years properly to improve the Ohio. Probably ten years would be nearer the mark. What is $6,000,000 a year for a work that will directly benefit 12,000,000 to 14,000,000 people and indirectly prove a godsend and blessing to all America?

As for the Mississippi, whatever improvements it may need, it will be able to float, below Cairo, all the boats that the Ohio can carry there. Improvement of the Ohio would add much to the prosperity of that great portion of the Mississippi valley by increased commerce and enlarged business opportunities. Mississippi river people should be as anxious as anybody for the improvement of the stream that will give the Father of Waters the greater portion of its commerce. As for the smaller streams, like the Cumberland and the Tennessee, they are the waterways of one or two states, and of a comparatively small number of people. Their turn for improvement may and doubtless will come, but it would be folly to delay work on the magnificent Ohio until they receive attention.

Mr. Burton does not see how anything more can be done for the Ohio for some time. But he has not explained why. The nation has never enjoyed a period of greater prosperity than it now has. It has a plethoric treasury and is in excellent shape for beginning the great work. If it awaits a more auspicious time it is likely to wait in vain. What other enlightened nation, with millions at its command for public improvements, if it possessed such a waterway, would have neglected it as the United States has neglected the Ohio? We must utilize our opportunities if we would maintain our commercial supremacy. The time is ripe for action, not for the delay which Mr. Burton encourages. The next speaker of the house will name new committees. If he is alive to the interests of the people of the great Middle West he will name as chairman of the rivers and harbors committee a man who will seek to benefit the commerce and industry of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary M. March.

Mrs. Mary McClelland March, of Calcutta, widow of the late Philip March, died on Wednesday after a lingering illness of several weeks. Mrs. March was born near Darlington, Pa., in 1812. When she was one year old, her parents moved to Calcutta, where she has since lived for the greater part of her life. She was possessed of a singularly happy, contented nature, which gained for her many friends, and was especially loved by the children and young people, many of whom visited her during her last illness. She had a wonderful memory, readily recalling old memories, as well as events of later years. Many interesting facts were supplied by her in the history of Long's Run church, for the recent centennial. She lived a quiet, consistent, Christian life, for seventy-five years. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Gaston and Mrs. Dr. J. Calvin. The funeral will occur from the home of Mrs. Gaston today.

Her New Hat.

She said her hat was quite a dream;
A poem, too, I think she called it.
To me it certainly did seem
As if some crazy hand had mauled it.

Had pinched it here and jammed it there
And twisted it in shapes fantastic.
For reasons, though, I did not care
To speak of it in terms sarcastic.

And, after all, I must admit,
It would have been hard to refute her.
The thing was daring—just a bit
Coquettish—and it seemed to suit her.

That is, when perched upon her head.
Below the brim her bright eyes dancing,
It was small wonder that I said
I found it ravishing, entrancing.

I did, too, but I saw it since—
Detached; the shape and color scheme it
Made all my sense æsthetic wince.
A dream? Well, I would hate to dream it!

The fact is, I believe no hat
Could ever dowdy seem or shady;
I like them all—provided that
They just top off that little lady.

Tons of Food For the Atlantic.

Commenting on the tremendous amount of food consumed on the average Atlantic liner nowadays, a writer in the Springfield Republican says: "At 8 comes the monumental breakfast; at 11 the deck steward fills up the comatose figures in the morgue with their beef tea from those thick, obese English cups; at 1 the magnanimous luncheon; at 5 the sleepers assaulted by the deck steward again; at 7 the awesome English dinner; at 9:30 a trifling lunch to ballast you for bed. Besides this barbaric mounds of sandwiches, olives, cheese, crackers, perpetually stare you in the face in the smoking room. Food, food, food; the sight and smell of it pursue the unwilling stomach in every corner of the place; food tasted, wasted, thrown away. There is one port hole on the steerage deck, from the galley apparently, which belches it forth in a continuous stream—half loves of bread, great remnants of meat; we have left a trail of it across the Atlantic. If some one would only estimate the tons of wasted food which are annually thrown into the Atlantic or could calculate how much cheaper these steamship companies could give us our travel if they substituted plain, self respecting fare for this gilded gluttony, it would certainly be interesting and worth while.

The Guillotine and Its Inventor.

One of the most widely disseminated of popular errors is that Dr. Guillotin invented the grim machine which still bears the name. The real inventor of this sinister contrivance was Dr. Louis, a well known medical man and permanent secretary of the Parisian School of Medicine, or Academie de Medicine.

Dr. Guillotin, who died in 1814, energetically but vainly protested against the use of his name in connection with this disagreeable subject—an evidence, if one were wanted, of the great difficulty there is of correcting a popular error. Needless to say that the legend that Dr. Guillotin was among the victims of his friend's ingenious and merciful instrument of destruction is wholly apocryphal. He died at a good old age and in his bed, surrounded by his children, who, however, obtained permission to change their name.

Outward Show In Italy.

All over Italy social life is characterized by a great love of outward show. Here is an anecdote which Mr. Luigi Villari relates in "Italian Life In Town and Country" to illustrate this national feeling:

An American gentleman who was spending the winter in Naples had taken a flat in a palazzo, the first floor of which was occupied by a noble family in somewhat reduced circumstances. He noticed to his surprise that every day he met a servant going up or down the stairs carrying a pair of carriage doors. At last the mystery was explained. The said noble family shared a carriage with some other people, but each had its own doors with the family coat of arms, to make their friends believe that they both had carriages.

Moqui Village Criers.

Among the picturesque features of life in the Moqui villages are the town criers, who take the place of the daily newspapers in civilized communities. There are two of these functionaries, one representing the "hostiles" and the other the "friendlies," the opposing political parties in the Tusayan villages. Twice a day these officials ascend to the housetops and, wrapped in their scarlet blankets, their figures outlined against the clear blue sky, call out in long drawn, resonant tones whatever announcement or record of town happenings may be in order.

WELLSVILLE

A Pretty Wedding at a Wellsville Home on Wednesday Evening.

A very pretty wedding occurred Wednesday evening in the West End at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hiner, on Eigthteenth street, when Miss Emma Hiner, daughter of Mr. and L. Hiner, and Thomas J. Kinsey, a well known business man of this city, were united at 5 o'clock by Rev. C. L. V. McKee, of the Second Presbyterian church. A number of friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present.

Among those present from out of the city were Miss Edyth Edgar, George and Conley Patterson, of Augusta, O.; Mrs. L. Roling, Mrs. W. J. Hiner and son Gordon, Mrs. Frank Hiner, Mrs. Mary McIntyre and Charles Jennings, of Cleveland; Abraham Haines, of Minerva; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stevenson, of East Liverpool; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Goss, of New Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hiner and Arthur Hiner, of Chester, W. Va.

Score Was 5 to 0.

Five to nothing was the result of a short, but hotly contested foot ball game played yesterday between the Beaver Tigers, of Beaver, Pa., and the Bruno Athletic club foot ball team of Wellsville. The result was in the Brunos' favor. The Beaver boys did not arrive on the field until after the electric lights had been turned on and it was almost impossible to see the ball two or three yards away. A ten-minute half was played, however. After four quick rushes a touchdown was made by the Brunos, making the score 5 to 0. At this point the Beaver team refused to play longer in the darkness.

Arrests in the City.

J. B. Feeley, a railroad man, was arrested Wednesday, charged by Mrs. Thomas Hamilton with owing her board and room rent. He was arrested when about to leave the city and settled both bills. James Russell was held for a hearing Saturday charged with interfering with an officer. M. Jacobs, a West End boy, was arrested on a charge of stealing $4 from the till of Jacob Nagle and will have a hearing tomorrow evening.

Collection Taken for the Poor.

The evangelical churches of this city held a union Thanksgiving service in the United Presbyterian church at 10 a. m. yesterday. Rev. Charles E. Clark, of the First M. E. church, preached a very eloquent Thanksgiving sermon. A collection was taken for the poor after the service and a large sum was realized.

O'Toole-Button.

Miss Catharine O'Toole, of this city, and Cornelius Button, of East Liverpool, were very quietly married at the Immaculate Conception church early yesterday morning by Rev. Daniel B. Crotty, pastor. They went to Cleveland for their honeymoon and they expect to reside in East Liverpool.

Butler-Marriott.

Miss Blanche Butler, of Wellsville, and Robert Marriott were married at the home of the bride in Wellsville yesterday in the presence of a few friends and relatives. In the afternoon they left for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will reside.

THANKSGIVING DAY IN THE CHURCHES

Union Services at the First M. E. Church Drew a Large Congregation.

Netted $46—An Excellent Sermon By Rev. J. W. Gorrell on the Origin And Significance of the Great National Holiday.

The Thanksgiving union services held yesterday morning at the First M. E. church were very impressive, and a large audience, in which all the city churches were represented, thronged the church to hear an eloquent sermon by Rev. J. W. Gorrell.

Rev. M. B. Pratt, pastor of the church, made fitting remarks about the hospital work, and requested that the congregation give liberally to a collection for the work. The collection amounted to $46. A number of the local ministers were seated near the pulpit. They were Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church; Rev. Dr. David Jones, of the M. P. church; Rev. J. W. Gorrell, of the Christian church; Rev. Dr. Taggart, of the United Presbyterian church and Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt, of the First M. E. church.

Following the opening hymn, Rev. David Jones made a fervent prayer, after which the president's proclamation was read by Rev. J. G. Reinartz. The scriptural lesson was read by Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart, after which Rev. J. W. Gorrell preached a sermon appropriate to the day. He spoke in part as follows:

"In the early days of the Plymouth colony there had been much sickness, suffering and distress, and when this passed away the pious people of that colony set aside a day in which to thank Almighty God.

"During the civil war Abraham Lincoln, when the arms of the union prevailed, called the people together in order that they might thank God for their success.

"We are happy to meet in one house of worship today to render thanks and praise to Almighty God for His many blessings of the past year. We are thankful for our national peace and prosperity. We have abundant crops harvested for the winter,, and we are thankful that no scourge either national or local has visited our land to blight its happiness. We are also thankful for the moral and religious improvement of our people. The world is improving, growing better all the time. More people are followers of Christ than ever before.

"The purpose of existence is the bringing of our natures into perfect accord with the laws of nature and of God. An education is the harmonization of all our faculties. This is not accomplished without a contest or trial. This contest is going on in every community and every nation; right contending with wrong, passion and lust against reason.

"Let us thank God for our moral and spiritual development. Man is a unit. Make him so strong that he cannot be coerced, so moral that he will not wrong and his freedom is secure. Educate the man and you cannot enslave him. You cannot enslave an educated people. We have greater men today than ever lived in any age. Alexander seemed great because there were few great men.

"We are thankful for the advance made in education. Our nation went to the aid of oppressed Cuba. The nations of Europe said that it was a war of conquest, on the part of the United States. But not so, for Cuba is free—a gift from America. No nation ever accomplished such an unselfish deed. We are thankful that our nation and our flag is leading the nations of the world in freeing the oppressed."

PATRIOTIC SERMON

Thanksgiving Services at St. Stephen's Church of An Impressive Character.

Both services at St. Stephen's church yesterday were interesting and well attended. Holy communion was held in the chapel at 7:30, and was followed at 10 o'clock by a full choral service. Special music was a feature of this meeting, an anthem entitled "Summer Ended, Harvest Gone," being especially enjoyed.

Rev. Edwin Weary took for his text "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation." He touched upon the standing of nations, saying they were measured almost invariably from a worldly standpoint, thas is from a financial or industrial standpoint. The speaker mentioned that, without righteousness, no nation could long maintain its lofty standard. It had proven out in many instances which the rector cited where the people of nations long since bereft of their power had placed worldliness before unrighteousness. President Roosevelt was paid a high tribute, being characterized by the rector as a God fearing man who ruled his people in a righteous manner.

The address was closed by recalling the many blessings which the people had enjoyed during the past year, and for which they should be truly grateful.

Special Servises.

Special services in commemoration of the sixth anniversary of the erection of St. John's Evangelical church will be held next Sunday morning and evening.

MAN, CHAPERON AND MAID

C. Anna S. Richardson

(Copyright, 1902, by C. S. Richardson.)

"You are entirely too young and attractive to chaperon Ruth," observed Mrs Cuscadden surveying her companion with a most critical glance. "But she fairly has hysterics when I suggest her going home with me. And really the dear child has seen nothing of Paris, and she wants another week or so in London. If you could, my dear Leslie"—

Mrs. Leslie Burns instantly replied that she could and she would—with pleasure. So it happened that Mrs. Rogers Cuscadden sailed alone for New York to settle some vexed questions regarding the new house. Her parting warning to Mrs. Burns was:

"Now remember, Leslie, no international entanglements for Ruth. You know how Mr. Rogers feels on the subject. Besides I want to bring her out this season heart whole. A love affair is always a handicap for a debutante."

Never did chaperon use more graceful tact in executing her trust. Without making enemies she warded off the many admirers attracted to the vivacious young heiress until George Hackett appeared on the scene, dropping from some unheard of point in the orient. Well bred, well groomed, well tailored, breezy and alert, he was diplomacy proof.

Attaching himself to their party of two, he proved distressingly convenient and desirable. He knew his Paris by heart and steered his countrywomen from boredom with a skillful hand. Ruth boldly espoused his cause and informed Mrs. Burns that she was having a much jollier time since Mr. Hackett's arrival, whereupon Mrs. Burns read her charge the first long lecture of their companionship. Not that it would do any good, she argued, for how could any heart whole girl withstand George Hackett?

When the stay in Paris drew to a close, Mrs. Burns heard with dismay that Mr. Hackett was accompanying them as far as London. And London was but Paris repeated. Mr. Hackett knew just what points of interest Ruth would enjoy and what she should avoid. He was more useful than Baedeker and infinitely better company.

But when the day for sailing from Southampton was set and Mrs. Burns learned that the ubiquitous Mr. Hackett had taken passage on the same boat despair filled her soul. To the experienced chaperon no episode is more heavily charged with danger than an ocean voyage. At first she had been as rude as her gentle nature would permit, but the more chilly her reception the more assiduously would he devote himself to Ruth. If she occasionally relented and treated him with gracious tolerance, Mr. Hackett showed eager appreciation of her favor and waxed brilliant.

She was thinking it all over tonight as she sat alone on the deck. In less than twenty-four hours, the captain had said, they would be in New York harbor. Then must come the accounting to Mrs. Cuscadden. No doubt at this very moment, under the cover of coon songs in the saloon, Mr. Hackett was whispering into the ears of Ruth those tender words which he should not be permitted to whisper.

The traitorous chaperon felt a sudden twitching at her heartstrings. Should she defy fate in the form of Mrs. Cuscadden? For herself it would mean but a broken friendship; for George Hackett it meant happiness for life. Strangely enough she did not seem to consider Ruth's happiness. She was thinking only of her girlhood, when Hackett's friendship had been such a very dear thing; when she would have given him—promised him—anything he might ask, but he had not asked.

The coon singer had finished, and the softer strains of a popular waltz floated out on the night air. A great wave of tenderness swept over Leslie Burns. Why should she stand between the man she had loved and the happiness he now craved?

Alas for the confiding, complacent Mrs. Cuscadden and her maternal plans!

Mrs. Burns drew her cape more closely and shivered slightly. A shadow fell across the bar of light streaming from the gangway. A voice clear, but not loud, broke the silence brooding on the deck.

"May I have my cigar out here with you, Mrs. Burns?" Then as he dropped into the chair at her side: "What a bore one's traveling companions become directly land is sighted! I don't blame you for getting off to yourself."

"Oh, it wasn't that exactly," murmured Mrs. Burns. Then, with the air of trying to fill in an awkward pause, she added: "But there is a subtle joy in feeling that tomorrow night we shall see the New York harbor lights gleaming. There's no place in the world just like New York to us."

"Shall you stop in town?" queried Hackett.

"Just a day or so. I've a week promised to Mrs. Davenport at Tuxedo."

"Glad to hear that. I shall be in Tuxedo next week. Harry's taken a box down there for the rest of the season."

"But the Cuscaddens will be at the hot springs until their new place is finished." The remark sounded strangely flat to Mrs. Burns, and instantly she wished she had not given vent to her thought. Again she covered an awkward pause. "Dear me, I wonder where Ruth is this very minute."

"When I saw her last, dancing with young Ransome. A harmless youth, I assure you," he added whimsically as Mrs. Burns made a motion to rise. "Don't go, please, until— I have something I must tell you before we land."

It was coming. The guilty chaperon closed her eyes figuratively and prepared to take the plunge. She would pledge her aid and give it.

"Leslie"—

She started. Five years had passed since she had heard that name from his lips. Vaguely she wished he had commenced some other way.

"Do you remember when father sent me abroad? I was fresh from college, not much more than a boy. I knew little of life—women least of all. My experiences abroad with fellows I liked first bewildered and then fascinated me, and when father wrote I might make another year of it I was wild with delight.

"But you remember I wrote to you regularly. I supposed you understood. When I read of your coming out, I was tremendously proud. I think I ordered lilies of the valley for you by cable. I remember, too, thinking that when you'd had a season of that sort of thing and I'd finished my jaunt we'd settle down and be—very happy. I never dreamed that you were waiting for me to say so. I thought so clever a girl as you could read between the lines of my letters, and somehow I wanted to hear a certain little word from your own lips."

The woman at his side started to speak, but he waved her aside. The crimson glow of his cigar had turned to gray ashes, but he still clutched it between his fingers.

"The letter announcing your engagement reached me in Madrid. I've never been in the God forsaken hole since. When I reached America, you and your husband had gone abroad. For a year I tried life on the street, but I could not stand for it. Then I tried shooting lions in Africa and tigers in India. That went better than fleecing lambs in Wall street. I was visiting with a mighty good fellow on Curzon's staff when I heard—quite by accident—that you were—free. Two days later I turned my face westward. I did not intend to stop in Paris—but you were there. I thought—great heavens, how I hoped—you'd be glad to see me, but you were not. And, Leslie," his tone was actually commanding, "I want to know why."

The woman had been listening with bowed head, but with a strangely happy light gleaming in her eyes. Hesitatingly, incoherently, she explained her conduct in Paris, in London and aboard ship. Before she finished Hackett, possessing himself of both her hands, exclaimed:

"And you really thought it was that child! Oh, Leslie, Leslie, couldn't you read the truth in my eyes?"

Mrs. Burns suddenly recalled her duties as chaperon. She withdrew her hands from his masterful grasp.

"How could I look you in the eye when I knew I was unfaithful to the trust imposed on me by Mrs. Cuscadden?"

The old piquant humor rang in her voice. She had risen. From the saloon came the tintinnabulation of light music. The deck was free from promenaders. They were alone for the first time in five years.

* * * * * * * *

"Oh, what will Mrs. Cuscadden say?" Hackett bent over her to gather up her wraps.

"I really don't see that she has anything to do with out little affair, provided you return her daughter heart whole and free from international entanglements," he answered joyously.

A shadow fell across the bar of light, then another, and the figure of a girl was silhouetted against the brilliant interior of the ship.

"Mrs. Burns, where are you? We're to have a good old fashioned Virginia reel to celebrate our last night on board. Do hurry up! We have a partner waiting for you!"

Then as Hackett's dark figure suddenly loomed up behind Mrs. Burns he glanced mischievously at Ruth and exclaimed, with a happy ring of ownership in his voice:

"Won't I do for her partner? I rather think this dance is mine!"

EASILY BEAT ROCHESTER

The West End Rovers Played a Superb Game, Hardy Again Proving the Star.

All the Rovers Put Up a First-Class Article of Football—Visitors Unable to Keep Their End—Other Football Games.

The West End Rovers maintained their reputations as mud horses yesterday by easily defeating the Rochester team at West End park. The gridiron was even worse than last Saturday and to make it more uncomfortable for the players and spectators, a heavy snow fell during most of the game. Hardy was again the bright and particular star. His work at fullback won for him the admiration and plaudits of even the opposing players, who finally found out that he was never down until there was weight enough on top to prevent him moving. He was as hard to hold as an eel and as strong as a lion. McDevitt also played a pretty game, and J. Hester was there with the goods. In fact all the Rovers put up a first-class article of foot ball.

The Rovers won the toss and Captain McAvoy decided to defend the west goal. List kicked off for Rochester to Jones, who returned the ball five yards. Hardy bucked cented for five yards. F. Coleman made five yards around the left end. Jones made five yards through center on a tackle-back formation. On the next play Robbins fumbled and J. Coleman fell on the ball. Hardy fumbled, but J. Hester secured the ball. It was almost impossible to hold the pigskin, owing to the slime that coated it. Rochester's ball on downs. They failed to make the necessary gain and it was the Rovers' ball again. Hardy hurdled the line for 20 yards and went through center for five more on the next play. The next two downs netted three yards. J. Coleman made three yards around the left end. Hardy and McDevitt bucked center on the next two downs for three yards each. The Rovers were hitting the Rochester line at will. Hardy on a tackles-back made six yards through center and the ball was on Rochester's five-yard line. Rochester braced up and held for one down. Hardy hit center for three years. Hardy was boosted through center for a touchdown. He failed to kick goal. List kicked off to Stillwell, who returned the ball 10 yards. Hardy gained four yards on two tackles-back formations. The ball was fumbled on the next play, but was recovered by Robbins, who gained three yeards. McDevitt made five yards through center. J. Coleman was held for no gain and Malone, who tackled him, was hurt and took the time limit. McDevitt made a pretty gain of 10 yards. Hardy made three yards through center. Arb went around the left end for three yards. Jones made five more through center. F. Coleman was injured and went out of the game. Stillwell went to left and Frazer went in as right tackle. Arb lost three yards in a play around the left end. Hardy made five yards around the right end. Rochesters' ball on downs. The Rovers held them on the next two downs and they punted for 15 yards. The punt was fumbled and Rochester secured the ball again. List made three yards through center. The half ended with this play with the ball in the center of the field. Score, Rovers 5, Rochester 0.

McAvoy succeeded Robbins at quarter and F. Coleman resumed his place at left end in the second half. McAvoy kicked off to Crane on Rochesters' 30-yard line. He fumbled and Arb fell on the ball. Rochester held them on two downs and the ball was fumbled on the third, List securing it. List made eight yards through center Rochester's most creditable play of the game. Rochester was held for downs. The Rovers' fumbled on the next two plays, but McAvoy and Amos recovered the ball. J. Hester made five through center. Hardy made eight yards on the next three downs. J. Hester made five through center. Jones made three through center and the ball was on Rochesters' 10-yard line. On a wedge play Hardy went through center for another touchdown. He was tackled, but dragged two of the Rochester men over the line. J. Hester kicked goal.

Black kicked to Hardy, who fumbled. Jones secured the ball and made 10 yards. Hardy hit center for three yards and on the next two downs made 13 yards. The Rovers worked a scroll formation for a gain of 15 yards. Stillwell carrying the ball. They were held for no gain on a similar play. Hardy hurdled the line for five yards. Hardy went around the left end for five yards and McDevitt made eight yards through center. Stillwell gained three yards on another scroll formation. Hardy made an end run for five yards and the ball was on Rochesters' three-yard line. Hardy placed the ball one foot from the goal line on the next touchdown. Hardy went through center for the third touchdown J. Hester failed to kick goal, the ball hitting the cross bar. Score, Rovers 16, Rochester 0.

HOME TEAM WON

Basket Ball Victory Rested With the Y. M. C. A. in Last Evening's Contest.

A big crowd witnessed a good game of basketball at the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A., last evening when the first team of the local association played the first team of the Y. M. C. A., of New Brighton. The visitors were heavier than the local boys but their knowledge of the game much below par. In the first half both teams played evenly, the score at the beginning of the second being 9 to 9. But before the second was fairly started the h ome team made a great spurt and soon had the score and game well in their hands. The final score was 27 to 13. The lineups were as follows:

New Brighton—J. Kelly, r. f.; Bessan, Holland, l. f.; Mitchell, c.; Mallony, r. c.; Bane, l. g.

East Liverpool—F. Allison, r. f.; Bloor, l. f.; Powell, c.; T. Watkins, r. c.; F. Chadwick, l. g.

RESULT A TIE

Large Crowd Witnessed the East Liverpool-Swissvale Association Game.

A large crowd was in attendance at the association foot ball game yesterday afternoon between the Rovers of this city and the Swissvale team.

The game was one of the best ever seen in this city, and though both clubs played a strong article of ball, the best they could do was to tie—2 to 2. From beginning to end the contest was exciting and hard fought.

Hall, for the Rovers, played the game of his life, and at many points was loudly cheered. His playing was extraordinary, while that of Gillespie and Clark, for Swissvile, fell little short of equaling it. The Rovers' goals were scored by Davis and Scarrett, while H. Foster and Clark had the honor of sending the ball across the goal for the Swissvale team.

Much more interest was shown in the contest than is manifested ordinarily, since the entnusiasts argued the result of this game would go a long way toward determining the championship of the two states. As the game resulted in a tie another game will be played the latter part of this month between these same teams. The game will probably be played at Swissvale's grounds. The teams lined up in the following order:

H. Foster, lineman for Rovers and Clark for Swissvale. Dick Phillips acted as referee. The Rovers have arranged for a game at Rock Springs park December 6 with the Crabtree, Pa., club, and next Saturday will play a practice game with the Laughlin No. 2 team at the park.

NEITHER SIDE SCORED

Stubbornly Fought Game Between Local And Steubenville High School Teams.

The most exciting game of foot ball ever witnessed in Steubenville was that between the East Liverpool high school rugby team and the club representing the Steubenville high school. The game was played on the Pleasant Heights grounds yesterday afternoon and was witnessed by a very large crowd. Neither team was able to score, and the game was hard fought from beginning to end.

Lewis, the colored fullback for Steubenville, played a brilliant game, distinguishing himself in many ways, while Mountford, right half for East Liverpool, made several phenomenal gains for his team. The return game will be played in two weeks at West End park.

OAKLAND A. C. BEATEN

In a Contest at Sebring Which Was Played Under Great Difficulty.

The Oakland A. C. returned from Sebring last night, where they were defeated in a hotly contested game with the Rugby team of that town yesterday afternoon. The score was 11 to 0, but it is said the result would have been far different had the Oakland lineup been of the usual strength. Morrow, one of the best men in the team, was off and there were several others who were either incapacitated or clear out of the game.

The contest was played under great difficulties on account of the bad condition of the ground, but nearly the whole town was out to witness the game, which was interesting in spite of the uneven score.

Tigers Defeated.

Victors Did Not Appear.

The members of the C. F. Armour football team were surprised and disgusted when they appeared upon the Rock Springs grounds at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and found that not a single man who went to make up the line for the Victor A. C. had put in an appearance. They waited in vain until 11.30 and then came to this side of the river carrying their fiercest looks, and vowing never again to make an agreement with so unreliable an aggregation. The management of the C. F. Armour's assert the only reason for the failure of their opponents to put in an appearance lies in the fact that the Victors were fearful they would be ignominiously defeated.

Won Three Turkeys.

Earl Clark secured the two turkeys offered as a prize at the Pleasure Palace, making a score of 19 out of a possible 25. Mr. Clark also secured the turkey at the Imperial bowling alley, breaking the alley record of 255 to 257.

Score 10 to 5.

Two football teams named Thompson's hill and Thompson's lane played yesterday afternoon, the game being won by the latter club by a score of 10 to 5.

Northsiders Beaten.

The Hill Top Rovers defeated the Northside rugby team yesterday afternoon by a score of 21 to 15.

Willie Slater's Handball Playing—Cornell and Henley Regatta.

The handball season is now at its height and players of the game will be interested in learning something about a lad in Brooklyn, Willie Slater, who who is picked by experts to be a coming champion in the professional world. He is now amateur champion of Brooklyn.

Willie Slater is only sixteen years old, but at handball he hasn't a peer in America among the amateurs.

He lives in Degraw street, Brooklyn, with his parents and inherited his taste and aptitude for the game from his father. The latter is an expert player himself and has been for years a patron of Phil Casey's famous handball court on Degraw street, not far from his home.

Willie used to go to Casey's with his father and watch him tackle the veterans until by and by he took a hand in the game himself. Attracted by the lad's ability and unusual aptitude, Casey taught him all the tricks of the game until the pupil excelled his master, and Casey is now ready to match him against any player of his age in America for any amount.

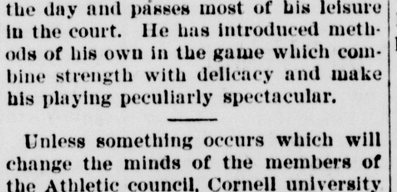

Young Slater stands 5 feet 8 inches, but is slimly, almost delicately, built, weighing only 115 pounds. He is a modest, unassuming young fellow who attends steadily to his work during the day and passes most of his leisure in the court. He has introduced methods of his own in the game which combine strength with delicacy and make his playing peculiarly spectacular.

Unless something occurs which will change the minds of the members of the Athletic council, Cornell university will next summer send a crew to participate in the Henley regatta on the Thames river. At a meeting of the council recently held at Ithaca, N. Y., the project of sending a crew abroad was presented and received a favorable vote.

Since the sweeping victory of the Cornell crews on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., last June the sentiment among all Cornell admirers has been strongly in favor of sending a crew to Henley. So much pressure was brought to bear that the Athletic council took a vote to get the sentiment of the members. The exact wording of the resolution on which the vote was taken is refused for publication.

Considerable opposition to the plan was shown by several of the faculty members, but the undergraduate sentiment was strongly in favor and finally prevailed.

Details are yet to be arranged. It is likely, however, that J. P. Frenzel, Jr., whose election as captain of the crew for 1903 was ratified, will be captain also of the Henley crew.

Many horsemen will remember the stallion Alvin, that looked more like a heavy harness horse, yet trotted to a record of 2:11 and was exported to Russia. A son of his recently won the big Futurity stake for trotters in Russia, the value of which was $12,000 and the time made 2:25¾, which ties the Russian record for five-year-olds. Another son of Alvin by the name of Armand was second in this stake.

Gambetta Wilkes, 2:19¾, has over 100 standard performers to his credit, but Alice Carr, 2:09¼, is his first and only 2:10 trotter.

The Windsor race track in Canada is now out of the northern racing circuit. The lessees, Sam Wagner, R. C. Chambers and J. Walker, found it impossible to make a pecuniary success of a meeting there under the prevailing conditions, and decided to give up their holdings.

The first call of Highland park on dates was one thing which tended to the failure of the track at the little Canadian city.

The lessees of the track have their eyes on another track, and it is very likely that Grosse Point, Mich., will be the future headquarters of the Windsor Jockey club.

A NEGRO KILLED BY STREET CAR

William Scott, While Lying on the Track in Chester, Was Run Over.

When He Left This City And Is Thought to Have Fallen And Stunned Himself — Testimony Brought Out at the Inquest.

Mangled and crushed so terribly that recognition of him was almost impossible the dead body of William Scott, a negro, aged 40, was taken from the street car track of the Rock Springs line, near Dunn's corner on Carolina avenue Wednesday night, a few minutes past 10 o'clock.

From testimony offered by witnesses before the coroner's jury yesterday afternoon the unfortunate man met his death through the effects of an overindulgence in intoxicating liquors. He had for several months been in the employ of Contractor Coates on street railway work, and only a few days ago the man received his pay and came over to this city Wednesday night and began drinking. At about 9:45 he was helped on a Southside car. At Dunn's corner he got off the car and was seen by several in company with another man, who was carrying a basket on his arm. Those who saw him in company with the stranger remember of noticing Scott's drunken condition. Apparently he was not seen after that until taken from the track dead.

Car No. 15, in charge of Conductor Hogue and Motorman Theodore Williams, killed the man. Williams did not see him lying on the track and did not know ...at his car had struck him until he felt an unusual motion. Turning off the power he alighted and saw the form between the wheels of the first truck. Word was sent to the car barn and jack screws and other appliances brought to raise the car. The body was taken to the barn. Between 12 and 1 o'clock it was removed to the undertaking establishment of Burns & McQuilkin and yesterday afternoon was again taken to the West Virginia side, where in Coroner Johnston's office before a jury composed of Attorney George D. Ingram, Alex Hineman, J. S. D. Mercer, John Bulman, Ephraim Johnston and George Arner an inquest was held.

The following witnesses were examined by the coroner: J. G. McGuire, James A. Flood, James McKinnon, Frank Hogue, Theo Williams and Alex Alexander. It is the general supposition that Scott in his stupefied condition in trying to cross the track fell and struck his head against a rail. When the body was examined it was found that he had three gashes in his head, any one of which might have proved fatal, and his right arm was almost severed. His right leg was broken in several places and indications were that he had been badly injured internally. Upon his clothes were found about $5 in money, but no other valuables.

Many people in this city and Chester knew the man. He made many acquaintances. It will be remembered that he is one of the gang that was arrested a few weeks since for a misdemeanor on a street car which was crossing the bridge. Contractor Coates states that he was an excellent workman, and the verdict of all is that he was his own worst enemy.

It is not known definitely what disposition will be made of the remains, but they will lie at the undertaker's until tomorrow at least, awaiting word from relatives or friends, and if none put in an appearance it is likely that burial will be made in Chester.

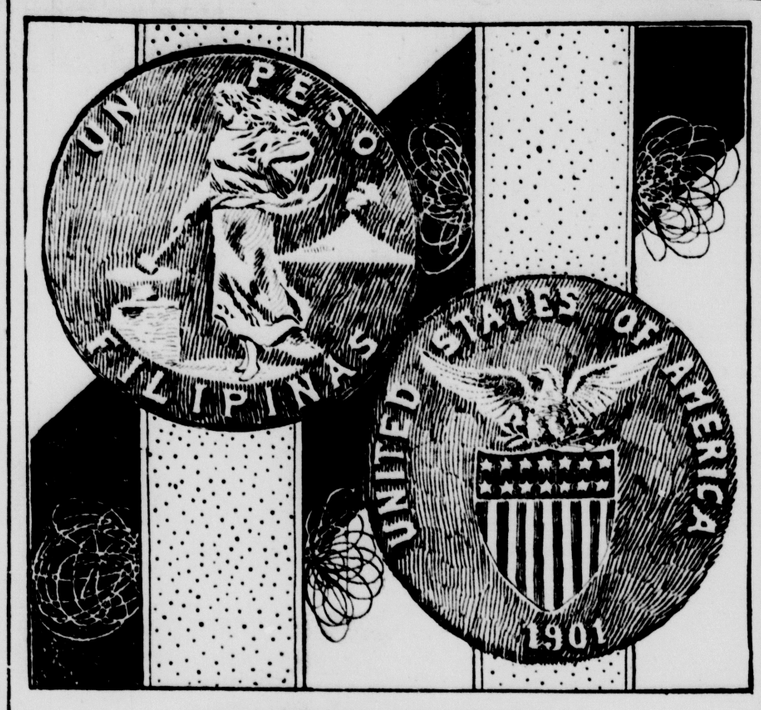

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL

May Lead to Organizing a Church at McKinley Chapel, Pleasant Heights.

With the service of last night the evangelical meetings which have been in progress at the McKinley avenue union chapel, closed. The revival has been remarkably successful, about twenty-five persons having professed conversion.

Rev. A. A. Steele, who has had charge of the meetings, has endeared himself to the people of that community, and a move is now on foot to form a regular church organization. Those who attend this chapel are members of the several churches throughout the city, and if the church is organized, Rev. Mr. Steele will be asked to take charge.

NEW COINS FOR THE FILIPINOS.
A Filipino artist named Figarus designed the new coins which are to be minted in Manila for the use of the Philippine archipelago. On the reverse side of the peso is a beautiful American shield bearing the stars and stripes, with an American eagle perched above.

MUSICIANS' UNION

COLORED PEOPLE OF THIS CITY HAVE FORMED ONE.

A Charter Secured, And the Organization Starts With 21 Members.

Twenty-one colored musicians of this city have secured a charter from the American Federation of Musicians, and all its members, including orchestras, mandolin clubs, and a brass band will now be entitled to recognition from unionists throughout this section.

The new union is designated as local No. 253, (colored,) and is the second of the same character in existance here, the other having a very large membership and being composed of white players.

Several months ago a colored band sought patronage on several occasions, and upon being refused on account of their not being members of the union, they at once made application for affiliation with the union here. This was refused, and steps were at once taken to procure a charter of their own. The effort was successful and the charter has arrived. The scale of prices adopted is the same which has prevailed here for some time. However, this will likely be changed between now and the first of the year, as a committee is now at work upon a new one to govern the white organization, and will, it is said, become operative January 1.

COLD WATER THROWN

By Congressman Burton on the Project for Early Improvement of the Ohio.

Washington, November 28.—"While I believe that the Ohio river should have a navigable channel of nine feet from Pittsburg to Cairo," said Representative Burton, of Ohio, chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors, "I do not believe that the United States government will undertake such a project within the next few years. To provide such a channel as far as Cincinnati would mean an outlay to the government of not less than $40,000,000 and to carry on the work to Cairo would necessitate an additional expenditure of $60,000,000.

"Besides if we were to provide such a large sum of money for the Ohio river, other river interests, such as the Mississippi, Tennessee and Cumberland, would expect similar treatment at the hands of congress. If a river and harbor bill made provision for such a large amount as would be needed for the Ohio river, Uncle Sam's treasury would receive a very severe draining and there is no telling what limit would be reached when the other projects throughout the country were provided for.

"For these reasons I do not see how anything can be undertaken for some time to come looking to a nine-foot channel in the Ohio river from Pittsburg to Cairo, although such a work would undoubtedly prove of the greatest benefit to the commerce of the river."

STEAM FERRY BOAT RUNS NO LONGER

The Emily Not Allowed to Ply Between Congo and Wellsville.

Circuit Court Reverses the Hancock County Court And Declares the Operation of the Steamboat By Capt. Goucher to Be Illegal.

As a result of the decision of the county court of Hancock county in the case of Johnston against Goucher by which Goucher was given permission to operate a steam ferry between Wellsville and Congo being reversed by the circuit court, the well equipped and up-to-date boat, Emily, is no longer plying between the two points, and in its stead a miserable little flat is carrying the people and teams to and fro.

The circuit court in handing down its decision declared the operation of the steam ferry by Captain Goucher illegal, and among many other provisions ordered the owners of the craft to pay Johnston wharfage and damage from the time that the boat was started in its trade last spring.

Attorney Ingram, who has been working arduously for months on the case in behalf of Johnston, was much elated yesterday over the decision in his client's favor and stated that there will be more doing before the matter is dropped. He said that steps would immediately be taken toward entering a damage suit against Captain Goucher, and felt that as the court had ordered Goucher to pay damages that no difficulty will be confronted in acquiring any reasonable sum asked.

Although not definitely known, it is said that Captain Goucher intends to appeal the case. He has had in his employ Attorneys P. M. Smith and Charles Boyd, of Wellsville; Donehoo and Marshall, of New Cumberland, and several others.

The case originated with Goucher using the landing on the West Virginia shore without applying to Johnston, who alleges that it is his property, for the privilege. Johnston claimed that Goucher had no legal right to make use of the landing and charged trespassing. On the other hand Goucher took the stand that the landing is the property of the railroad and decided to fight any objection that might be raised.

To the peopls of Wellsville and even East Liverpool, as well as those living in Congo and back several miles in Hancock county, a ferry boat such as the Emily was not only a great convenience, but also a benefit from a pecuniary standpoint and the decision of the circuit court met with general disapproval. The flat now in use cannot transport the trade to satisfaction and in numerous ways all surrounding localities will be affected.

Flowing 60 Barrels an Hour.

Butler, Pa., Nov. 28.—The Middletown Fourth Sand oil field yesterday developed the best well which has as yet been struck here. It is owned by the Devonion Oil company, which controls all the territory in the immediate vicinity, and is flowing at the rate of 60 barrels an hour. It is located on the A. W. Starr farm and is 800 feet west of the well brought in by the same company on the Starr farm about two months ago, which started off at 300 barrels a day.

Opening of Congress

Many Matters to Be Considered During the Short Session ∴ ∴ ∴

WHILE the opening of the second session of the Fifty-seventh congress on Dec. 1 will lack most of the spectacular interest that marks the assembling of a new congress, yet the convening of the nation's lawmakers is an event that attracts wide public attention, fraught as it is with import to the peoples who acknowledge the sway of Uncle Sam.

Where once our dominion was confined to the North American continent, it now extends beyond the seas, and to distant Asiatic isles as well as those near our Atlantic shores the results of the deliberations of the United States congress possess a deep significance.

With the opening of the coming session congress enters regularly upon its one hundred and sixteenth year. Many possibly believe that the date of its inception is from 1774, when was held in Philadelphia what is known as the "first American congress." This congress, however, must not be confused with the congress of 1787, held also in Philadelphia, for it is from the latter we date the birth of our continuous legislative life as a nation, although the first congress under the constitution was not organized until March, 1789.

The first Continental congress made the Declaration of Independence a possibility. The second sustained the principles of that declaration and brought order out of years of chaos and uncertainty. September, 1787, then, was the beginning of the congress of today, although it was not until some months later that this became by the signature of the various state representatives an accomplished fact.

From a mere handful of men the house of representatives alone has grown to a membership of 357, and this has been further increased by the new apportionment, so that when a year from next December the Fifty-eighth congress assembles 386 representatives will answer to the roll call of the clerk of the house.

With the growth of the country in population, wealth and territory the work to be done by congress has enormously increased. This has been notably so in the last decade and especially in the last five years. The vast extension of our foreign interests, the enormous development of our foreign trade and the momentous political and economic complications which have arisen as a result of the war with Spain have introduced for the consideration of our legislators a wilderness of problems whose competent consideration demands the knowledge of an expert.

The greater part of the real work of congress is done in committees. In the senate fifty members are each on seven different committees and fourteen are on eight committees. The members of a committee are supposed to be specialists on particular subjects besides having a fairly comprehensive knowledge of any and all subjects which may come before the senate from all other committees. Senator Cullom is chairman of the committee on foreign relations. That would seem to be enough for the occupation of one man's time, even if he were wholly free from all questions of pensions, patronage and local interests. But it is not. He must serve on interstate commerce, appropriations, relations with Canada and relations with Cuba, and, when he has properly attended to all these, he can take a few hours to think about additional accommodations for the library of congress.

The short session of congress is always one of hurry. Beginning the first Monday in December, it ends by law on March 4. Out of this the holiday vacation is taken, so but two and a half months are left for work.

The appropriation bills must of necessity be passed, for without money even Uncle Sam cannot keep the wheels of government turning. Then there are new measures of great importance to be considered at the coming session. Perhaps the most important new matter will be the consideration of antitrust legislation. President Roosevelt is expected to make strong recommendations to this effect. It is thought not unlikely that an amendment of the Sherman antitrust law on the lines suggested by Attorney General Knox may receive the approval of congress.

The judiciary committees will have charge of trust legislation. Senator Hoar is chairman of the senate committee. The chairmanship of the house judiciary committee is vacant by reason of Representative Ray's appointment to the federal bench in New York. His mantle will undoubtedly fall to Representative Jenkins of Wisconsin.

The measure to protect the president has already passed both houses, but so far apart in its provisions that it must again be dealt with before it can be agreed on. The contest over Cuban reciprocity which generated so much warmth during the first session will again come up. There is doubt of the fight being renewed in the ways and means committees. The prospects are that the matter will be considered in the form of a treaty, in which event it will be discussed behind closed doors.

One of the most interesting measures before this session is the ship subsidy bill. It is predicted that a strong effort will be made to get it through the house, it having already passed the senate.

These are but a few of the matters that will keep our lawmakers busy during the scant three months of the short session. The men on whom the heaviest work will devolve, however, are the chairmen of the appropriations committees of both houses, who will have charge of the big supply bills—Messrs. Allison in the senate and Cannon in the house.

Other chairmen of senate committees who will have charge of appropriations are Proctor for agriculture, Stewart for Indians, Hawley for the military, Hale for naval affairs, Gallinger for pensions and Mason for postoffices.

Many of those who will take part in the deliberations of the coming session will not return to our national legislative halls as members of the Fifty-eighth congress. Some will never go back, while others by a turn of the political wheel may again be chosen to represent a constituency at Washington. The most notable of those who will be missed from the next house are Eugene F. Loud, who for twelve years has represented the Fifth California district, and Speaker David B. Henderson of Iowa. On March 4 next Mr. Henderson will have completed his twentieth year in congress and his second term as speaker. He retires voluntarily.

But while men come and go congress will continue uninterrupted on its way, guiding and assisting Uncle Sam on his pathway of destiny.

Revolutionary Disturbances.

San Domingo, Republic of Santo Dominga, Nov. 28.—The political situation in Santo Domingo has been complicated by revolutionary disturbances which have broken out in the north of the republic. The government has taken severe measures to suppress the movement. Many arrests have already been made. General Wes Gil and J. D. Bichardo, a former minister, are prisoners here. Quiet prevails in this city, but business is stagnant. Minister Powell had another interview Wednesday with the Dominican minister of foreign affairs, arranging the claims of the improvement company, and insisted on a settlement without any further delay.

General Nord Massing Army.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 28.—Letters received here from Haiti say there is still considerable excitement in that republic, especially at Gonavies, where General Alexis Nord, the Haitian war minister, is massing a large army with the intention of declaring himself president. It is added that he already has 10,000 men under his command and expects to advance on Port-au-Prince within a fortnight.

Campaign Against Ladrones.

Manila, Nov. 28.—The constabulary are carrying out an aggressive campaign against the Ladrones and fanatics in the western part of the island of Leyte and in the island of Biliran. Inspector Crockett, with a force of constabulary, engaged the Ladrones six times near the village of Ormoc on the south coast of Leyte, and killed 39 of them. Corporal Montague, at the head of another detachment of constabulary, inflicted a defeat on a band of Ladrones near Talibaug, on Marian island, killing 13 and capturing 36 of them. The constabulary, on its side, has suffered no casualties.

Killed by Trolley Cars.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 28.—Oscar F. Raynor, of Westamption, L. I., aged 19 years, a student at the Lawrenceville, N. J., preparatory school, was killed in this city last night by being caught between two trolley cars, one of which he was attempting to board. Raynor was returning to Lawrenceville from Camden, where he had spent the day at the home of a fellow student.

Aged Justice Suicides.

Lorain, O., Nov. 28.—Squire Gilmore, for 39 consecutive years justice of the peace of this township, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself with a revolver. He was 70 years of age. He had been confined to his bed for six weeks and despaired of ever becoming well.

Raided Counterfeiting Den.

Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 28.—Secret Service Agent Shaw raided a counterfeiting plant on Monte Sano yesterday and arrested M. V. Evans, an alleged counterfeiter. Many bogus dimes, half dollars and dollars were confiscated. They are made so well that only experts can determine their character. The full outfit of counterfeiting tools was found.

NO REVISION OF TARIFF.

Nor Is There Likely to Be Any Extra Session of Congress.

Washington, Nov. 28.—There will be no tariff revision before the next presidential election. There will be no extra session of congress.

Leaders of the Republican party have conceded to the president legislation to better regulate trusts for the purpose of evading a reopening of the tariff question "in the time of the country's greatest prosperity."

Every member of congress who has seen the president this week has attempted to impress upon him the necessity of leaving the tariff alone for the present. He has listened to their views with interest, and following, he considers, a party mandate, will not go beyond a recommendation for a tariff revision.

Two Linemen Badly Injured.

New Castle, Pa., Nov. 28.—Linemen Harry Hutchinson and Harry Agan employed by the New Castle Traction company, were badly injured yesterday in a runaway caused by a live wire. The North Highland avenue trolley broke and they were sent to repair it. A part of the live trolley dropped on the team hitched to the repair wagon. The horses ran, upsetting the tower wagon and throwing the linemen out. Hutchinson's back was badly injured, the spine being affected, and Agan had his ankle broken.

Union Service.

Springfield, O., Nov. 28.—An unusual service was held yesterday in which the members of the First Congragational church joined Ohev Seducah congregation, the fashionable Jewish church of the city. The union service was the result of a destructive fire, by which the congregational church was burned. Among all the offers of places in which to worship until a building could be erected, that of the Hebrew church, being most satisfactory, was accepted. Both congregations read responsively from the Hebrew prayer book and sang from the Congregational hymnal.

Unusual Decision.

Ottumwa, Ia., Nov. 28.—For the first time since the Dred-Scott decision, it is said, a United States circuit court has refused to follow a decision of a state supreme court. The case is that of the Water Supply company, of Ottumwa, against the city of Ottumwa. The plaintiffs sought to prevent the building of a municipal water plant and carried the case to the United States circuit court at St. Louis. That tribunal decides that Ottumwa has reached the legal limit of indebtedness, notwithstanding the fact that the state supreme court of Iowa decided that a levy for this purpose would not be a part of the constitutional indebtedness of the city.

Burglars' Bold Attempt.

Dayton, Pa., Nov. 28.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the First National bank here last night. Reid Marshall, director of the bank, discovered the robbers at work and fired five charges at them from a double-barreled shotgun. The robbers escaped, but left a trail of blood behind them.

Repaired and Proceeded.

New York, Nov. 28.—The Allan State Line steamer Sardinian, which sailed yesterday for Glasgow, was obliged to return and anchor off Tompkinsville, S. I., owing to her machinery being deranged. She repaired and proceeded today.

OUR NATIVE TREES

... By ...

THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Ph. D.,

Professor of Botany, Iowa State University.

VIII.—Forestry and Reforestation.

THE value of the forest in itself and in its relation to the welfare of humanity in general has doubtless long attracted the attention of thoughtful men. Records of the fact are not wanting even in the ancient classics. It is even claimed for the old time Jews that they had forest regulations. In western Europe, however, for a long time men and trees seem to have stood in the position of natural rivals. In times of peace as the population waxed the forest retreated. When by decimation and continuous war the people perished, the forests resumed their earlier sway and covered the abandoned fields and homes of men. Indeed, as affording opportunity for the chase forests were by the rulers of the earth sometimes more highly esteemed than peoples and towns. All earlier government regulations preserved or established forests simply as a covert for the wild beasts. For whatever of native forests exists in England and western Europe generally we are doubtless indebted to the hunting instinct strongly developed in the hearts of the old time kings and princes. The Norman kings of England, as every schoolboy knows, were notorious for activity in this sport. Sherwood forest is probably part of the prehistoric woods of Britain preserved for purposes of the chase through all the centuries. New forest was new by order of William the Norman. A cultivated country became a royal hunting ground and, in fact, remained so down to the year 1857. The very royalty of the woods, however, operated at length to their disadvantage. They shared the fortunes of monarchy and flourished or decayed with the strength or feebleness of succeeding kings. A powerful monarch protected his property; a weaker sovereign lost it. Thus the celebrated ordinance of 1689, elaborated by Colbert and Louis XIV., was expected to correct abuses that during the supremacy of weaker sovereigns had almost ruined the royal domain. Of course, the overthrow of monarchy under these conditions jeopardized the very existence of the forest. Accordingly we are not surprised that the Puritan revolution in England left a greatly reduced wooded area in that country, and across the channel the notorious French revolution vented its rage especially on the royal forests, on groves, on parks of castles, chateaux, wherever a privileged class had up to that time been the conservators of large estates and widespreading wooded regions.

However, all this is happily now long past. All men are wiser. Not only are forests now preserved and cared for in nearly all the principal countries of Europe, but their value is rightly esteemed by everybody. Whether the property of king or people, no one nowadays would think of their destruction or obliteration.

Forests in Europe, as of yore, are largely the property of the government, republic, kingdom or empire, but they are no longer regarded as instruments of oppression. France has now one of the most complete systems of forest management in the world and has in later years accomplished wonders in restoring her provinces to the fortunate condition of earlier times. Since the establishment at Naples of a school of forestry in 1827 the application of genuine scientific treatment in the whole forest problem has been in France more varied and extensive than anything else in the world. Germany, as we shall see, has a much larger organization, but the problem in the fatherland was much less complex. In general we may say that in France the whole forest question is in review. For instance, France has undertaken the reforestation of her mountains. The movement began in 1862 by the passage of laws making large appropriations for this purpose. In the accomplishment of the work something like $10,000,000 has since been expended, and the task is only about half completed. Eight million acres of tillable land were threatened with destruction, and to avert the impending calamity it was necessary to plant with trees more than 800,000 acres of mountain side. In Gascony a hundred years ago the whole region between the Gironde and the Adore was swept by the west wind coming in from the Atlantic. Vast sand dunes extended for miles and miles along the western coast of France and were slowly burying the tillable and habitable land moving inward at about the rate of sixteen feet per year. Those dunes have been covered with a forest of pines and are today the seat of an industry, a forest industry, giving employment to thousands of people. One cannot but admire the energy with which such adverse conditions are overcome. The Frenchman is staggered by no difficulty. Nothing is impracticable with him. If by the blunders of the past the mountains are coming down upon him, he forthwith sets out to rehabilitate the mountains and bind the sources of the river; if the sands tossed up by the waves threaten him with entombment he plants the dunes with appropriate vegetation and makes of them not a windbreak only of interior fields, but a breakwater to the encroachments of the ocean. Does the mistral plague his southern provinces, vex his orchards and blight his olive yards, he plants forests across the path of the north wind and so restores the old time conditions of moisture and climate. If in all these matters men of the next century are wiser and more fortunate than we, it will in a large measure be owing to the farreaching experimentations now in progress on the mountains and in the river valleys of France.

In Germany systematic investigation of some of these problems began a little earlier than in France, and to Germany, as it seems, belongs the credit of establishing the first schools of arboriculture in the world. Several such schools were set up in the Harz mountains in 1772. Today a chair of forestry is found in almost every university in the German empire, and more than 4,500 men are engaged in the administration of the German forests. There were a few years since twenty German periodicals devoted to forestry interests only. In addition to all this, there are separate schools for forestry where nothing else is attempted but the preparation of candidates for administrative work among the woods and trees. About ten years of such preparatory service are required, five in study, five in practice work.

German foresters of course have their own problems. Some are of great moment, but the author knows of none at present as farreaching as are some of those cited in France. The Germans had more to start with. Today it is the chief duty of the German forest administration to maintain the forests as they now stand. Nevertheless it is the ultimate policy of the German government to bring under other forms of culture all lands susceptible of such treatment, not reducing the wooded area indeed, but gradually shifting it so that eventually only such lands will be occupied with trees as are practically valuable for no other crop. And yet the extent of the forest is not to be diminished. Of course in such management there will always be respect to climatic and erosional possibilities. Every forest in Germany is accurately mapped. In the working plans of those in charge of any wood every tree is noted and recorded. Think of 7,000,000 acres of woodland cared for with exactitude such as that! Small wonder that the forests of Germany are a source of constant and considerable revenue to the imperial government. In 1895 the cost of administration in the German forest is stated at $1.32 per acre, the income at $2.63. On 7,000,000 acres this will be quite a considerable item in the kaiser's budget.

No American who has not witnessed it can form any conception of what it is to see a forest in order. To walk in the shadow of great trees by self appointed paths, to see beeches and oaks and firs and pines luxuriating at their best and yet all perfect, each supporting but none destroying the other, none fallen, none distorted or dying and, best of all, none consumed with fire, is an experience like to that of an artist in a splendid painted hall. The writer once saw an oak two or three feet in diameter felled in the forest by the Rhine. The tree was taken down piecemeal. Not a sapling was injured in its fall. There was no stump. The sawyers cut a little below the surface of the ground. From the scene of action a temporary iron tramway was laid to the regular avenue of exit, and so the logs were safely and quickly moved out of sight. When all was done, there was left on the ground not a chip, not so much as a twig. The stump itself, if such it may be called, was buried in the soil and so left to decay.

The German method of treatment is different from that practiced in some other countries—England, for instance. In England the natural forest is all cut at once, the grounds then reset or replanted with seed. In Germany the object seems to be to keep the forest as such always in practically the same condition. The removal and constant renewal of native trees are scarcely at all noticeable.

The woods are mixed in character, and replanting goes on all the time, chiefly from nurseries.

In Austria the forestry methods are largely those of Germany; in Switzerland they are those of France. Forest denudation has already in many places almost ruined the Swiss mountains and has covered the fertile valleys with glacial debris. The French method of experiment is exactly in line with the Swiss necessity. Italy is attempting something of the same sort. Her mountains and streams everywhere show the results of thousands of years of mismanagement. Her forestry school is at Milton's Vallombrosa, a locality in beauty fortunately still worthy of the poet's praise. But the progress of economic reform in Italy is still discouragingly slow.

The illustrations we have cited have brought to us some conception of modern forestry, may even enable us perchance to frame a definition of the word. Forestry is really a branch of agriculture, field culture in the broader acceptation of the term. Yet forestry is something more than a single crop of aboreous plants. Forestry, as we understand it, is a science which concerns itself with world culture, an art which teaches the proper use of the earth as an abode for civilized and enlightened men. The forester is something more than woodman, and forestry is something more than the care of the woods. Forestry is applied knowledge. It is the practical application of all that we know of botany, geology, meteorology. Besides this, it is a branch of economics and concerns what we call social science. It includes all these things. No greater problem today exists in either philanthropy or science.

TRIFLING WITH YOUR HEALTH

Is like Playing with a loaded Gun. If you have Kidney Trouble attend to it at once.

It is easy to tell whether your Kidneys or bladder are diseased. Take a bottle or glass tumbler and fill it with urine. If there is a sediment—a powder-like substance—after standing a day and night, if it is pale or discolored, ropy or stringy, there is something wrong with the Kidneys. Other sure signs of disease are a desire to urinate often, pain in the back, or if your urine stains linen.

There is no question that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best and surest medicine in the world for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Chronic Constipation, and the sicknesses peculiar to women. It quickly relieves and cures inability to hold urine and the necessity of getting up a number of times during the night, and puts an end to the scalding pain when passing urine.

The Rev. Henry P. Miller, pastor Baptist Church, Spartenburg, S. C., writes:

"For years I suffered with Kidney, liver and heart troubles, swimming in the head, dull headache and numbness of the limbs. Physicians prescribed for me and I took different medicines, but none of them did me any good. But Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cured me in about two weeks."

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose.

CUBA STATES TERMS.

If Treaty Concedes 25 Per Cent Tariff Cut Palma Will Sign It.

Havana, Nov. 28.—If the Cuban reciprocity treaty, as now proposed concedes a 25 per cent reduction in tariff duties, there is a strong probability of its acceptance by President Palma and the Cuban senate. Secretary of State Saldo and Secretary of the Treasury Montes, the commission on the part of the Cuban government to negotiate the treaty, submitted five objections. Three of these are conceded by the United States. The fourth relates to Porto Rican coffee and, it is thought, can be conceded by the United States without difficulty.

This leaves only the question of the amount of the reduction in the United States tariff. If the proposed 20 per cent is increased to 25 per cent President Palma likely will send the treaty to the senate for ratification.

A Timely Suggestion.

"Now that winter with its bad weather is with us I would advise every family to provide themselves against sudden attacks of coughs and colds by keeping at hand a good cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which is the best among the many preparations for these ailments that I have on my shelves." says Mr. L. C. Neaville, the well known and popular druggist of Pittsboro, Ind. "I recommend this remedy and guarantee it to be without an equal for coughs and colds, also as a preventitive and cure for croup." EXPLAINS POSITION.

The President Makes Clear His Attitude on Appointments of Colored Men.

ABILITY, NOT COLOR, CONSIDERED

Says the Door of Hope and Opportunity Shall Not Be Shut Upon Any Worthy Man Purely Upon the Grounds of Race or Color.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The president has sent the following communication to a citizen of Charleston, S. C.:

White House,
Washington, Nov. 26, 1902.

My Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of Nov. 10 and of one from Mr. ———, under date of Nov. 11, in reference to the appointment of Dr. Crum as collector of the port of Charleston. In your letter you make certain specific charges against Dr. Crum, tending to show his unfitness in several respects for the office sought. These charges are entitled to the utmost consideration from me and I shall go over them carefully before taking any action. After making these charges you add as a further reason for opposition to him that he is a colored man, and after reciting the misdeeds that followed carpet-bag rule and negro domination in South Carolina, you say that "We have sworn never again to submit to the rule of the African, and such an appointment as that of Dr. Crum to any such office forces us to protest unanimously against this insult to the white blood," and you add that you understood me to say that I would never force a negro on such a community as yours. Mr. ——— puts the objection of color first, saying:

Concerned and Pained.

"First, he is a colored man, and that of itself ought to bar him from the office." In view of these last statements I think I ought to make clear to you why I am concerned and pained by your making them and what my attitude is as regards all such appointments: How any one could have gained the idea that I had said I would not appoint reputable and upright colored men to office when objection was made wholly to them on account of their color, I confess I am wholly unable to understand. At the time of my visit to Charleston last spring I had made and since that time I have made a number of such appointments from several states in which there is a considerable colored population. For example, I made one such appointment in Mississippi and another in Alabama, shortly before my visit to Charleston. I had at that time appointed two colored men as judicial magistrates in the District of Columbia. I have recently announced another such appointment for New Orleans and have just made one from Pennsylvania. The great majority of my appointments in every state have been of white men. North and south alike it has been my sedulous endeavor to appoint only men of high character and good capacity, whether white or black. But it has been my consistent policy in every state where their numbers warranted it to recognize colored men of good repute and standing in making appointments to office. These appointments of colored men have in no state made more than a small proportion of the total number of appointments. I am unable to see how I can legitimately be asked to make an exception for South Carolina. In South Carolina, to the four most important positions in the state, I have appointed three men and continued in office a fourth, all of them white men—three of them originally gold Democrats—two of them, as I am informed, the sons of Confederate soldiers. I have been informed by the citizens of Charleston whom I know that these four men represent a high grade of public service.

Will Not Appoint Unfit Men.

I do not intend to appoint any unfit man to office. So far as I legitimately can I shall always endeavor to pay regard to the wishes and feelings of the people of each locality, but I cannot consent to take the position that the door of hope—the door of opportunity—is to be shut upon any man, no matter how worthy, purely upon the grounds of race or color. Such an attitude would, according to my convictions, be fundamentally wrong. If, as you hold, the great bulk of the colored people are not yet fit in point of character and influence to hold such positions, it seems to me that it is worth while putting a premium upon the effort among them to achieve the character and standing which will fit them.

The question of "negro domination" does not enter into the matter at all. It might as well be answered that when I was governor of New York I sought to bring about negro domination in that state because I appointed two colored men of good character and standing to responsible positions—one of them to a position having a salary twice as large as that paid in the office now under consideration—one of them as a director of the Buffalo exposition. The question raised by you and Mr. ——— in the statements which I refer is simply whether it is to be declared that under no circumstances shall any man of color, no matter how upright and honest, no matter how good a citizen, no matter how fair in his dealings with all his fellows, be permitted to hold any office under our government. I certainly cannot assume such an attitude, and you must permit me to say that in my view it is an attitude no man should assume, whether he looks at it from the standpoint of the true interest of the white man of the south or of the colored men of the south, not to speak of any other section of the Union. It seems to me that it is a good thing from every standpoint to let the colored man know that if he shows in marked degree the qualities of good citizenship —the qualities which in a white man

Without any regard as to what my decision may be on the merits of this particular applicant for this particular place, I feel that I ought to let you know clearly my attitude on the far broader question raised by you and Mr. ———, an attitude from which I have not varied during my term of office.

THE BRAKE FAILED TO WORK.

Trolley Car Overturns and Kills a Boy and Injures a Score of Other Persons.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—One boy was instantly killed and a score of other persons were injured by a car of the Philadelphia and Lehigh Valley Traction company overturning as it was rounding a curve yesterday at Hatfield, about 27 miles north of this city. The dead boy was Wallace Crouthmel, of Hatfield, aged 14 years. The most seriously injured are Joseph Detweiler, aged 19 years, of Souderton, who is internally injured and may die, and John Esser, of Souderton, the motorman, who had three ribs broken.

There were 70 passengers on the car, among them the Perkasie high school foot ball eleven, which was on its way to play at Lansdale. In rounding a curve the brake failed to work and the car made the turn so swiftly that the body of the car was snapped from its trucks and fell on its side. Crouthummel, who was standing on the rear platform, was thrown heavily to the ground, breaking his neck and causing almost instant death. Excepting Detweiler and Esser, the other passengers escaped serious injury, although some of them were severely bruised. The members of the football team were not injured.

THE CUBAN RIOTS.

Arrest of Editor Ordered on Charges of Sedition.

Havana Nov. 28.—Two of the men who were injured Wednesday evening on a street car by shots fired from neighboring houses died yesterday. There have been no further disturbances. The mayor has ordered the police to arrest all the occupants of the houses from which the shots may have been fired at the car Wednesday.

The special judge in charge of the rioting cases has ordered the arrest of Arnauto Cervantes, the editor of the Reconcentrado, on charges of sedition.

Endeavors are being made to settle the differences between the cigar makers and their employers. It was rumored last night that another general strike will be declared should these endeavors fail, though it is stated that not all the unions would join in the movement.

WORK OF LA SOUFRIERE.

A Raging, Steaming Torrent Flowed from Volcano.

Kingston, St. Vincent, Nov. 28.—Wednesday's eruption of La Soufriere occurred at the head of the dry river, Rabacca, where huge quantities of volcanic deposits had blocked the water course since the eruptions last May in spite of the subsequent heavy rainfall. After the eruption a raging, steaming torrent flowed from the base of La Soufriere and swept down the Rabacca, completing the destruction of the sugar works there. Sand at the same time fell on Georgetown and other places.

Two Italians Shot.

Monessen, Pa., Nov. 28.—Fifteen Italians were celebrating Thanksgiving at Webster, east of here, yesterday, by drinking. After being ejected from a hotel one of them pulled a 38 caliber revolver and began firing. Five shots were fired, two of which took effect among the Italians, one of whom was mortally wounded by being shot through the stomach. Another was shot through the shoulder.

What to do Until the Doctor Arrives.

"One of my children was taken with cramp colic and suffered severely," says S. B. Elzee, of Monett, Mo. "I telephoned for a doctor, then gave a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and a few minutes later a second dose. Before the doctor came the child was relieved." 19TH YEAR. NO. 281. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1902—TWELVE PAGES. TWO CENTS.

A NEW POTTERY PLANT TO BE BUILT AT CAMERON

Two East Liverpool Men Are Officers of the Company, Which Is Capitalized at $100,000.

S. E. STRICKLIN WILL SUPERVISE CONSTRUCTION

Active operations upon the construction of the new pottery to be built at Cameron, W. Va., will be commenced next week. Little has been known in this city of the project until today, when an interview was secured from S. E. Stricklin, secretary of the new company.

The concern was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia, and the officers are: President, M. L. Benedum; vice president, Alfred Hard; secretary, S. E. Stricklin; treasurer, A. E. Fox, the latter two of this city. The town of Cameron is 19 miles south of Wheeling, and affords special inducements to an enterprise of this character. S. E. Stricklin was the prime mover in projecting the scheme, and to his efforts is due the fact that the plans have now progressed to the point where work will be commenced at once.

Mr. Stricklin states the pottery will have a four-kiln capacity to begin with and the structure will be so arranged that it can be enlarged at any time to a six-kiln plant, which move the company intends to make within a year. The building will be 400x80, the glost ware rooms and shipping departments three stories high, while the clay shops will be but two. The concern will manufacture semi-porcelain of a high class, and it is now expected that all work will be completed and the plant placed in full operation by June 1, 1903.

The company expects to install in connection with its equipment an electric lighting plant. Every manufacturing concern and business house, together with whatever lights are necessary for the illumination of the town will be supplied by the Cameron China company. The bulk of the stock is owned by Cameron people, and the concern is capitalized at $100,000.

Mr. Stricklin will have full and complete charge of the erection and equipment of the plant, which is a guarantee that the task will be performed in an efficient and business-like manner. One of the first matters which will be taken up by Mr. Stricklin is the sinking of gas and water wells, with which the company expect to supply their own fuel and water.

A switch from the B. & O. main line has already been begun, and will be in readiness to deposit the building materials and machinery upon the ground without delay.

The affairs of the Royal China company, of which Mr. Stricklin has been at the head in this city for several months, will be wound up as soon as possible and the concern dissolved. This will enable the gentleman to devote his entire time to the interests of the new Cameron enterprise.

ITALIAN SHOT BY ACCIDENT

Flobert Rifle Used and the Shooter Says He Didn't Know 'Twas Loaded.

UGLY WOUND IN THE HIP

Caused By the Bullet As the Man Whom It Struck Was Walking Along the Railroad Track—Owner of the Gun Fined.

"I didn't know the gun was loaded," was the laconic reply of Edward Fleming when asked this morning by the mayor how he had come to shoot Dominick John, an Italian, yesterday morning on the railroad track near the old glass house.

The Italian was walking up the track and Fleming in fun pointed a flobert rifle which had been handed him by a boy and pulled the trigger immediately following a report sounded and the foreigner gave a shrill cry of pain. He was removed to his home in Jethro Hollow by the patrol wagon and Dr. Hobbs was summoned. The physician probed for the bullet, which struck the man in the right hip, but was unable to locate it.

Chief Thompson was notified of the shooting last evening and this morning, accompanied by Officer Dawson, made a thorough investigation of the case. The result was that Fleming was arrested and taken before the mayor and a charge of shooting within the city limits was placed against him. To the charge he pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs.

The mayor thinks the shooting purely accidental, and states that Dr Hobbs has given the assurance that the wounded man will soon recover. Fleming promised to go and provide for the Italian through his sickness, and seemed very sorry that he had caused the accident.

HON. W. T. COPE A POPULAR MAN

LEAVES A LARGE ESTATE

Formerly One of Columbiana County's Most Prominent Men—Ohio Representatives at St. Louis Exposition. Royer Act Cases.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, November 28.—Hon. William T. Cope, ex-state treasurer, died at his residence in this city Wednesday night. He was formerly one of the best known men in Columbiana county. He was born near Salineville and spent the greater part of his life in that town. He engaged in the banking business and general mercantile business in Salineville until 1885, when he was elected to represent Columbiana county in the house of representatives. He served two terms. Afterward he went to Cleveland, where he engaged in the coal business. He was state treasurer from 1892 to 1896. Mr. Cope served in the civil war, ranking as captain. His business career was marked by success and he leaves a large estate. He was looked upon as the city's most stalwart business men, and his death will be mourned by many. He was a member of the Olivet Presbyterian church, of this city. The funeral will be held Saturday morning from the family home at 222 King avenue. Interment will be at Green Lawn cemetery, this city.

Governor Nash has announced the appointment of the commission which will represent Ohio at the St. Louis exposition. Its personnel follows: W. F. Burdell, Columbus; L. E. Holden, Cleveland; Edward Hagenbuck, Urbana; Newell K. Kennon, St. Clairsville; M. K. Gantz, Troy; David H. Moore, Athens. Burdell has been treasurer of the Republican state committee for several terms and is a close friend of the governor; Holden is the editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; Hagenbuck is a member of the house of representatives; Kennan is a lawyer and manufacturer and a son of the late Judge Kennon, of St. Clairsville, who was famous as a jurist; Gantz is an ex-congressman; Moore is a member of the senate and is chairman of the finance committee of that body. The commission has authority to spend $75,000; $35,000 is for a building. Stacy B. Rankin, of South Charlestown, is executive commissioner of the commission.

Attorney General Sheets has been informed that rehearings would be asked for in the cases recently dismissed under the Royer act by the supreme court. The attorneys in these cases contend that the court erred in declaring the retrograde feature to the law to be unconstitutional and cite in support of this a rule established by the court in the case of Curry against Homer, in 1898. The attorneys are to combine and a hard fought legal battle may be looked for.

MISSING STRANGERS MAY HAVE DROWNED

Their Companion Positive That Two Men Were Upset From a Skiff Into the Waters of the Ohio.

NO TRACE OF THEM HAS YET BEEN DISCOVERED

If the story related at police headquarters last evening by J. S. Miller, of California Hollow, who by trade is a roller, but who for several years has engaged quite extensively in the junk business, is true the Ohio river has been made the grave of two more unfortunates. Miller was very positive in his statements, and although he was drunk while unfolding the story and also at the time when he alleges that the drowning occurred, many are inclined to believe him, owing to the peculiar circumstances surrounding.

Elmer Lewis, a roller of Monaca, is one of the missing, while the name of the other is not known to Miller. His home, however, is on Penn avenue, Pittsburg, and he was about 25 years of age, with smooth face and light complexion. No traces of the missing men could be found yesterday or today, notwithstanding a careful search was made of haunts where they would likely be. Distressing cries were reported heard at the time they were reported drowned.

In the presence of a News Review reporter Miller told the following:

"I came down from Monaca Wednesday evening with Duff Call, of this city. We had been up there buying and selling junk. When we got off the train we met Elmer Lewis, of Monaca, and the other men of Pittsburg, and all of us started to get drunk. And if there was ever a gang got drunk we did. The two men from out of town asked me to go down to the river and go over to Chester with them in a skiff. They wanted to see Manager Banfield, of the tin mill, and if possible get a job.

"I consented to go with them and all of us staggered down the hill. I got in the back end of the boat and was so drunk I immediately fell asleep. Until I awoke floundering in the water between the second and third piers of the bridge I was dead to the world. I commenced swimming with all my might and it was so dark that I could see none of my companions. I heard one of them say: 'Oh, for God's sake, some one save me!' All of them, I suppose, went to the bottom then. I pulled off my overcoat and after a desperate struggle swam to shore."

At about 11:30 o'clock Miller was heard by Captain Gus Martindill while he was attempting to climb up on the wharfboat, but before the captain could get down to him he had disappeared, and he states that he went straight home. He left his overcoat on the wharfboat and last evening went with Officer McDermott after it. He said that when he took the overcoat off it contained $63.65, but when

George P. McGillivray Faces the Charges Made by His Wife.

MAKING OF COUNTERFEITS

Witness Testifies That She Often Saw Him Making Bogus Nickels And Describes the Process—Crowd At the Hearing.

George P. McGillivray, charged with non-support and making counterfeit money, was arraigned before 'Squire H. P. McCarron this afternoon in the council chamber at the city hall shortly after 2 o'clock.

Attorney George D. Davidson represented the defendant in the case and Attorney Richard G. Thompson, the state.

The court room was well filled with curious spectators and friends of both defendant and Mrs. McGillivray, who filed the charges against her husband.

Mrs. Lydia McGillivray was the first witness for the state called to testify upon the charge of counterfeiting. She said: "I saw him make the moulds and saw him make the nickels. He took a good sound nickel and made the impression. He then melted lead and poured it in the moulds. They came out good nickels. He used different nickels. He said the reason was that he did not want them to all have the same date. He would pour something on them as they would not look like new. He made them in the presence of my sister. He would take them out and come back with good money. I don't know how many he made because I didn's count them."

Cross examined: "I don't know the first date he made them, but it was near the latter part of August. The first night he went out he came back with $1.75 in good money. He told me he was violating the law and he made threats what he would do to me if I told. The mould was a little white one. When he would mould so many it would wear and he would make another one. He showed me many of the nickels."

A PAROLE SOUGHT

BY FRIENDS OF WINNET, NOW IN THE REFORMATORY.

Application Will Be Considered at a Board Meeting in January.

Information from Pittsburg states that application will be made to the parole board of the Ohio state reformatory at Mansfield on January 23, 1903, to parole Robert Winnett, formerly of Duquesne, now confined in that institution on the charge of being an accessory to the death of Ada Jane Moore, who was also a resident of Duquesne.

Winnett was jointly indicted with Dr. W. L. Thompson, of East Liverpool, on the charge and entered a plea of guilty. Winnett has now served the time allotted under which his application will be considered by the board. It is thought that the application will be granted, as it is understood to have the endorsement of the prosecuting attorney and the trial judge. He will be represented before the board by Attorney J. R. McQuade, of Pittsburg.

A JOYOUS TIME FOR ODD FELLOWS

Their Entertainment and Reception Attracted a Crowd of 500 Persons.

Veterans of the Order Gave Interesting Speeches—There Was Music, Feasting And a Superb Program In All Respects.

The Odd Fellows' social and entertainment on Wednesday evening was one of the largest attended and most successful ever attempted by the order. Besides the 60 visitors who came on a special train from New Cumberland there were visitors from Smith's Ferry, Wellsville, Chester and Sebring. Seats were at a premium, but the 500 people present were admirably handled and all well provided for.

The program was in keeping with the balance of the entertainment and was well managed. Besides impromptu addresses by Armour S. Cooper, Supt. Lindsay, Mr. Polland and Hon. J. A. MacKenzie, prosecuting attorney of Hancock county, short addresses were delivered by Attorney Lones and Mr. Lawson, of Wellsville, the latter one of the oldest Odd Fellows in the state, being 54 years a member; Elijah W. Hill and Christian Metsch, of the local order. The latter was initiated into that body in this city 35 years ago when the order was in its infancy.

Miss Mearl Reark and Charles Usler and wife gave most excellent music on the piano and the songs by Miss Anna Dunn and recitations by little Elizabeth E. Clark were much appreciated. Dr. J. Howard Davis kept the audience in a continual roar each time he appeared. Others also helped to make the entertainment one of the best.

Choice refreshments were passed around. After luncheon about an hour was spent in a regular "old time mix-up," where nothing but good fellowship existed. Too much praise cannot be given the general committee for its entertainment, one that every Odd Fellow of the local lodge should be proud.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

ARTISTIC POTTERY.

If we were to reckon up the establishments in which artistic pottery is made in the United States we should find as many as ten enterprises. This does not include painters of pottery or porcelain which has been bought ready-made and fired, says an exchange. A great deal of that sort of work is done; persons who are skillful in the art of painting of flowers and in the intervention of decorative patterns will buy bowls and vases of French porcelain and paint upon these, as upon panel or paper, with pleasing results; but at present we are not considering these in connection with the making of decorative pottery. The other potter is he who makes his vessel complete, with a view to the subsequent decoration, and decorates it afterwards, with a view to its make; holding both processes in his own hands. The complex character of the paste used by some potters, and the tendency in all cases away from the simpler work of old times with natural clay, used nearly as originally found, has caused in America, as in Europe, and, perhaps, in the east, an inclination to find hard pottery, and the reverse. Thus there are among the wares to be named here some which are certainly porcelaineous, and these remind us of the cheaper Chinese wares, "Canton" and "Nanking," those which have been exported for many decades from China to the western lands, and which are certainly of the nature of porcelain, however non-translucent they are and however coarse and commonplace in their make and decoration. Pieces of American make, of very refined treatment, considered works of art, have somewhat the same character of a very hard ware fired at high temperature and capable of enduring almost any extent of table service, while yet they are not certain porcelain in the usual sense of the term.

EXHIBITS WANTED.

United States Consul Frank W. Jackson, of Patras, Greece, in the advance sheets of consular reports for November 5, announces the postponement to April 7, 1903, of the opening of the International Exposition of Industry, Commerce-Art and Hygiene, to be held at Athens, and urges a display of American products, specifically farming and mechanical implements, typewriters, letter and printing presses, engines, currant cleaning machinery, lighting apparatus, lamps, dynamos and electrical appliances, stating that an "American exhibit might induce a like favor for the Louisiana Purchase Exhibition." The comprehensiveness and grandeur of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition tend to obscure recollection of similar enterprises, but is would seem that Consul Jackson's suggestion might be well taken under advisement.

NEW SALESMAN.

After weeks of the busiest time known in the history of the plant the Sevres China company is getting toward the bottom of its order files on decorated ware for the holiday trade. The end is just beginning to come into sight and there is much yet to be done. Manager Cross, of the decorating department, has completed a part of the samples for the spring trade. Frederick Kline, for five years a salesman with the Vodreys, will represent the Sevres next year in the territory east of Pittsburg. He has been at the pottery the past few days familiarizing himself with the lines and expressed himself as highly pleased with them.

GOES TO BARBERTON.

It is reported that Howard Shaffer, of the glost end at the Thompson, will sever his connection with that plant to accept a situation at Barberton. He will leave here for his new location in about 10 days and will move his family and household effects during the holidays.

AMONG THE POTTERS.

Frank Farris, of the glost end at Cartwright's, is reported among the sick.

James Bowles, a dipper at Cartwright's, has been laid up for the past few days with erysipelas.

Alfred Renisher, Bob Cooper, Ernie Wilson and Bob Kirkham, of the Sevres, spent Thanksgiving day hunting near Williamsport.

Charles Kennedy, of the decorating kiln crew at the Sevres, has returned from a brief visit to Pittsburg.

Lawrence Van Fossen has resigned at Harker's and has taken a situation in the glost kiln crew at the Sevres.

Ernest Coleman, of the glost end at the Sevres, has returned to work after being laid off for a week with a carbuncle on his neck.

SEIZED AT CUSTOM HOUSE.

A local dealer in decorating material has disappointed some of the decorators. He had two barrels of material shipped here from England. The goods were seized at the New York custom house on account of alleged undervaluation. The loss to him amounts to about $700.

Miss Sadie Wolf Met With a Mishap While Alighting From a Wagon.

While alighting from a wagon near her home on Lisbon street, Wednesday night, Miss Sadie Wolf fell and was badly injured. The wagon was broken and Miss Wolf, while not seriously hurt, was severely shaken up.

CROSS SUSTAINED

Charges Against a Well Known Painter Are Found to Be Baseless.

Charges which were made against E. M. Cross, a well known painter before his local No. 165, and which were sustained by it several weeks ago, have been dissolved by the highest authority in the union.

The trouble dates back for several years when Mr. Cross was accused by a local contractor of working under or for less than the scale of the journeymen painters called for. The matter was not taken up at that time nor for more than two years afterward. Meantime Mr. Cross held every responsible position within the gift of the organization, but when he concluded to become a contractor the trouble was revived. At the trial which followed he was convicted and the fact advertised both among the membership and Trades and Labor council. An appeal was taken by Cross, with the result that the following letter was received by him yesterday from W. C. Conick, grand secretary and treasurer of the union.

"As long as you pay union wages, employ union men, and are willing to sign the scale, members of the union must be permitted to work for you."

These matters will be reported to the union and Trades council at its next meeting.

ARTESIAN WELLS

To Be Utilized to Furnish Water Supply to the City of Salem.

Salem, November 28.—Devoid of any publicity whatever the Salem Water Works company has been quietly working for some time to secure an entirely new source of water supply for customers in Salem.

The water works are not at present paying expenses. A test well, drilled on the J. C. Whinery farm to a depth of 140 feet, flows 75,000 gallons every 24 hours, of soft, clear, crystal water. It is thought an abundant supply can be obtained from several similar artesian wells.

EAST END

DAY WAS QUIET

Union Services were well Attended But Balance of Day Was Given Over to Rest And Quiet.

Thanksgiving day was given over to quiet enjoyment and rest by most of the people of the East End. Nearly all the business houses were closed and generally things wore a Sunday aspect. The potteries were running, but with greatly reduced forces about half of the men taking the day.

Rev. D. W. McQuiston, of the Second U. P. church, delivered the union Thanksgiving sermon in the morning to a large congregation. His remarks were from the text "Whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, giving thanks to God, the Father, through Him." The sermon was an excellent one and was listened to attentively. The music was furnished by the choir from the Second Presbyterian church and a male quartet from the choir rendered several beautiful selections.

Rev. Mr. Sharp's Lecture.

There was a large attendance at the Second Presbyterian church last evening to hear the lecture of Rev. Alexander Sharp, of Mingo. The lecture was even better than had been anticipated. Rev. Mr. Sharp is an eloquent speaker and handled his subject matter in such a way as to be instructive and interesting without being tiresome. He talked of the characteristics, mode of life and religious beliefs of the people of the northern South American countries among whom he lived eight years as a missionary. The free will thank offering netted a neat sum.

WENT DOWN IN GALE.

The Steamer Sylvanus J. Macy Springs Leak Off Port Burwell, Ont.

ENTIRE CREW SUPPOSED LOST.

When Last Seen the Macy Was Laboring Heavily in the Sea and Making for Shelter—Carried a Crew of About Eighteen—Partial List.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—In a furious southwest gale on Lake Erie Sunday night the steamer Sylvanus J Macy sprung a leak off Port Burwell, Ont., and plunged to the bottom, probably carrying her entire crew with her. The barge Mabel Wilson, which was being towed by the Macy, broke away from the steamer in the darkness and succeeded in sailing up the lake to Amherstburg, where she arrived yesterday afternoon.

The first news of the disaster was reported by Captain J. J. Anderson of the steamer Albright, which passed up the river early yesterday morning She reported having passed through wreckage Wednesday three miles southwest of Longpoint, consisting of parts of the cabin, life preservers and doors of some vessel. The cabin was painted white, but there were no distinguishing marks to tell what vessel it was from. The arrival of the Wilson, however, leaves no doubt but that the wreckage is from the Macy, as the last seen of that steamer was in the vicinity.

Tow Line Thrown Off.

The Macy, with the Wilson in tow left Buffalo last Saturday with a cargo of coal. When half way up Lake Erie the gale was encountered and when abreast of Port Burwell the tow line of the barge was thrown off by the crew of the Macy, leaving the schooner to shift for herself. When last seen by the crew of the Wilson the Macy was laboring heavily in the sea and was evidently making for shelter. If the crew had time to leave their ship before the plunge to the bottom it is not believed the small boats could have lived long in the terrible sea running. That nothing has been heard of them has convinced the owners that all were lost.

Partial List of Crew.

The Macy was owned by P. J Ralph & Co., of Detroit, and was insured for $16,500. She was one of the older type of wooden steamers. She registered 752 tons. She was built in 1881.

The only names of the crew obtainable at the office of the owners of the Macy are as follows: M. W. Gotham, Richland City, Wis., captain; ——— Gotham, son of captain, mate; F Gregory, Detroit, first engineer; George Webb, second engineer; John Nugent, Algoma, wheelman.

As the personnel of the crew of the steamer changes at nearly every port visited a complete list is not available in the office. The crew of the Macy probably numbers 18, as that is the number necessary to man a ship of her size.

We told you to prepare yourself for that cold snap. Have you bought your overcoat yet? If not, see our big line of the best in town and save money.

TWELVE PAGES.

NOW THE TIME FOR ACTION.

Congressman Burton, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, in an interview elsewhere quoted, talks discouragingly of the outlook for the early undertaking by congress of the great and much needed work of making a nine-foot channel in the Ohio river from Pittsburg to Cairo. It is an unwelcome surprise to find any congressman from Ohio talking in this strain and the more unwelcome because of the position that Mr. Burton occupies at the head of the committee which has to deal with the matter. However, Mr. Burton says that he would be glad to see the work undertaken, but fears congress cannot be persuaded to undertake it. In our humble opinion, he had far better be engaged in trying to convert representatives who do not appreciate the magnitude and importance of the work than in trying to discourage those who are fully convinced of its importance and necessity. Besides, the arguments advanced by him as likely to influence congress to remain inactive are neither many nor strong. He states that the project would involve an outlay of $60,000,000, and if once begun the friends of other river interests, such as the Mississippi, the Tennessee and the Cumberland, would become clamorous for proportionately liberal appropriations, resulting in a severe drain on the United States treasury.

Now the appropriation of $60,000,000 for government work does not mean that such a sum must be withdrawn from the treasury at once. The most sanguine estimates are that it would take from five to seven years properly to improve the Ohio. Probably ten years would be nearer the mark. What is $6,000,000 a year for a work that will directly benefit 12,000,000 to 14,000,000 people and indirectly prove a godsend and blessing to all America?

As for the Mississippi, whatever improvements it may need, it will be able to float, below Cairo, all the boats that the Ohio can carry there. Improvement of the Ohio would add much to the prosperity of that great portion of the Mississippi valley by increased commerce and enlarged business opportunities. Mississippi river people should be as anxious as anybody for the improvement of the stream that will give the Father of Waters the greater portion of its commerce. As for the smaller streams, like the Cumberland and the Tennessee, they are the waterways of one or two states, and of a comparatively small number of people. Their turn for improvement may and doubtless will come, but it would be folly to delay work on the magnificent Ohio until they receive attention.

Mr. Burton does not see how anything more can be done for the Ohio for some time. But he has not explained why. The nation has never enjoyed a period of greater prosperity than it now has. It has a plethoric treasury and is in excellent shape for beginning the great work. If it awaits a more auspicious time it is likely to wait in vain. What other enlightened nation, with millions at its command for public improvements, if it possessed such a waterway, would have neglected it as the United States has neglected the Ohio? We must utilize our opportunities if we would maintain our commercial supremacy. The time is ripe for action, not for the delay which Mr. Burton encourages. The next speaker of the house will name new committees. If he is alive to the interests of the people of the great Middle West he will name as chairman of the rivers and harbors committee a man who will seek to benefit the commerce and industry of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary M. March.

Mrs. Mary McClelland March, of Calcutta, widow of the late Philip March, died on Wednesday after a lingering illness of several weeks. Mrs. March was born near Darlington, Pa., in 1812. When she was one year old, her parents moved to Calcutta, where she has since lived for the greater part of her life. She was possessed of a singularly happy, contented nature, which gained for her many friends, and was especially loved by the children and young people, many of whom visited her during her last illness. She had a wonderful memory, readily recalling old memories, as well as events of later years. Many interesting facts were supplied by her in the history of Long's Run church, for the recent centennial. She lived a quiet, consistent, Christian life, for seventy-five years. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Gaston and Mrs. Dr. J. Calvin. The funeral will occur from the home of Mrs. Gaston today.

Mrs. Louis Hickman.

Lisbon, November 28.—(Special)—The body of Mrs. Louis Hickman was brought to Leetonia this morning from the hospital, where she died Tuesday. Ehe had been an invalid for a number of years and was nearly blind. The husband was formerly a prominent business man of Leetonia, and with one son survives. She was about 45. Her New Hat.

She said her hat was quite a dream;
A poem, too, I think she called it.
To me it certainly did seem
As if some crazy hand had mauled it,

Had pinched it here and jammed it there
And twisted it in shapes fantastic,
For reasons, though, I did not care
To speak of it in terms sarcastic.

And, after all, I must admit,
It would have been hard to refute her.
The thing was daring—just a bit
Coquettish—and it seemed to suit her.

That is, when perched upon her head,
Below the brim her bright eyes dancing,
It was small wonder that I said
I found it ravishing, entrancing.

I did, too, but I saw it since—
Detached; the shape and color scheme it
Made all my sense æsthetic wince.
A dream? Well, I would hate to dream it!

The fact is, I believe no hat
Could ever dowdy seem or shady;
I like them all—provided that
They just top off that little lady.

Tons of Food For the Atlantic.

Commenting on the tremendous amount of food consumed on the average Atlantic liner nowadays, a writer in the Springfield Republican says: "At 8 comes the monumental breakfast; at 11 the deck steward fills up the comatose figures in the morgue with their beef tea from those thick, obese English cups; at 1 the magnanimous luncheon; at 5 the sleepers assaulted by the deck steward again; at 7 the awesome English dinner; at 9:30 a trifling lunch to ballast you for bed. Besides this barbaric mounds of sandwiches, olives, cheese, crackers, perpetually stare you in the face in the smoking room. Food, food, food; the sight and smell of it pursue the unwilling stomach in every corner of the place; food tasted, wasted, thrown away. There is one port hole on the steerage deck, from the galley apparently, which belches it forth in a continuous stream—half loves of bread, great remnants of meat; we have left a trail of it across the Atlantic. If some one would only estimate the tons of wasted food which are annually thrown into the Atlantic or could calculate how much cheaper these steamship companies could give us our travel if they substituted plain, self respecting fare for this gilded gluttony, it would certainly be interesting and worth while.

The Guillotine and Its Inventor.

One of the most widely disseminated of popular errors is that Dr. Guillotin invented the grim machine which still bears the name. The real inventor of this sinister contrivance was Dr. Louis, a well known medical man and permanent secretary of the Parisian School of Medicine, or Academie de Medicine.

Dr. Guillotin, who died in 1814, energetically but vainly protested against the use of his name in connection with this disagreeable subject—an evidence, if one were wanted, of the great difficulty there is of correcting a popular error. Needless to say that the legend that Dr. Guillotin was among the victims of his friend's ingenious and merciful instrument of destruction is wholly apocryphal. He died at a good old age and in his bed, surrounded by his children, who, however, obtained permission to change their name.

Outward Show In Italy.

All over Italy social life is characterized by a great love of outward show. Here is an anecdote which Mr. Luigi Villari relates in "Italian Life In Town and Country" to illustrate this national feeling:

An American gentleman who was spending the winter in Naples had taken a flat in a palazzo, the first floor of which was occupied by a noble family in somewhat reduced circumstances. He noticed to his surprise that every day he met a servant going up or down the stairs carrying a pair of carriage doors. At last the mystery was explained. The said noble family shared a carriage with some other people, but each had its own doors with the family coat of arms, to make their friends believe that they both had carriages.

Moqui Village Criers.

Among the picturesque features of life in the Moqui villages are the town criers, who take the place of the daily newspapers in civilized communities. There are two of these functionaries, one representing the "hostiles" and the other the "friendlies," the opposing political parties in the Tusayan villages. Twice a day these officials ascend to the housetops and, wrapped in their scarlet blankets, their figures outlined against the clear blue sky, call out in long drawn, resonant tones whatever announcement or record of town happenings may be in order.

WELLSVILLE

A Pretty Wedding at a Wellsville Home on Wednesday Evening.

A very pretty wedding occurred Wednesday evening in the West End at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hiner, on Eighteenth street, when Miss Emma Hiner, daughter of Mr. and L. Hiner, and Thomas J. Kinsey, a well known business man of this city, were united at 5 o'clock by Rev. C. L. V. McKee, of the Second Presbyterian church. A number of friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present.

Among those present from out of the city were Miss Edyth Edgar, George and Conley Patterson, of Augusta, O.; Mrs. L. Roling, Mrs. W. J. Hiner and son Gordon, Mrs. Frank Hiner, Mrs. Mary McIntyre and Charles Jennings, of Cleveland; Abraham Haines, of Minerva; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stevenson, of East Liverpool; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Score Was 5 to 0.

Five to nothing was the result of a short, but hotly contested foot ball game played yesterday between the Beaver Tigers, of Beaver, Pa., and the Bruno Athletic club foot ball team of Wellsville. The result was in the Brunos' favor. The Beaver boys did not arrive on the field until after the electric lights had been turned on and it was almost impossible to see the ball two or three yards away. A ten-minute half was played, however. After four quick rushes a touchdown was made by the Brunos, making the score 5 to 0. At this point the Beaver team refused to play longer in the darkness.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Arousing Great Interest at the Free Methodist Church in Chester.

Great interest is being manifested in the revival meetings in progress at the Chester Free Methodist church. Notwithstanding bad weather, large crowds attend each meeting and the interest is constantly growing.

Rev. Sarah Howard, the pastor, is being assisted by Miss R. E. Adair, an evangelist of note from Smithton, Pa., who is making much headway in the ranks of Christianity. Meetings are being held each evening beginning at 7:30, and tonight Miss Adair will preach upon a subject of universal interest.

Agreeably Entertained.

The Tuesday Night club of New Cumberland gave one of the finest social parties of the season last night at the opera house in that city. This club, which is composed entirely of young ladies, certainly proved its ability to entertain in fine style. Excellent music was furnished for dancing and choice refreshments were served. About 75 guests were present. Those from out-of-town present included C. M. Evans and L. Baxter, of Chester, and Charles Price, of East Liverpool.

Street Work at a Standstill.

Work on the streets is almost at a standstill. The weather has been unfavorable for the past few days. A number of the workmen have quit and gone home, declining to work in the cold. It is hoped by the citizens that Contractor Freshwater will spare no pains to get one side of the car tracks paved through the town before winter actually sets in.

Good Oil Well Struck.

The C. A. Smith well on the Alexander Cunningham farm was drilled in and immediately filled up 600 feet with oil. The owners will proceed to pump the well, which is thought to be good for 25 barrels.

Hurt in a Runaway.

Charles Cooper, of New Cumberland, was thrown from his wagon and dragged for a considerable distance, sustaining serious injuries about the head, rendering him unconscious.

THANKSGIVING DAY IN THE CHURCHES

Union Services at the First M. E. Church Drew a Large Congregation.

Netted $46—An Excellent Sermon By Rev. J. W. Gorrell on the Origin And Significance of the Great National Holiday.

The Thanksgiving union services held yesterday morning at the First M. E. church were very impressive, and a large audience, in which all the city churches were represented, thronged the church to hear an eloquent sermon by Rev. J. W. Gorrell.

Rev. M. B. Pratt, pastor of the church, made fitting remarks about the hospital work, and requested that the congregation give liberally to a collection for the work. The collection amounted to $46. A number of the local ministers were seated near the pulpit. They were Rev. J. G. Reinartz, of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church; Rev. Dr. David Jones, of the M. P. church; Rev. J. W. Gorrell, of the Christian church; Rev. Dr. Taggart, of the United Presbyterian church and Rev. Dr. M. B. Pratt, of the First M. E. church.

Following the opening hymn, Rev. David Jones made a fervent prayer, after which the president's proclamation was read by Rev. J. G. Reinartz. The scriptural lesson was read by Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart, after which Rev. J. W. Gorrell preached a sermon appropriate to the day. He spoke in part as follows:

"In the early days of the Plymouth colony there had been much sickness, suffering and distress, and when this passed away the pious people of that colony set aside a day in which to thank Almighty God.

"During the civil war Abraham Lincoln, when the arms of the union prevailed, called the people together in order that they might thank God for their success.

"We are happy to meet in one house of worship today to render thanks and praise to Almighty God for His many blessings of the past year. We are thankful for our national peace and prosperity. We have abundant crops harvested for the winter,, and we are thankful that no scourge either national or local has visited our land to blight its happiness. We are also thankful for the moral and religious improvement of our people. The world is improving, growing better all the time. More people are followers of Christ than ever before.

"The purpose of existence is the bringing of our natures into perfect accord with the laws of nature and of God. An education is the harmonization of all our faculties. This is not accomplished without a contest or trial. This contest is going on in every community and every nation; right contending with wrong, passion and lust against reason.

"Let us thank God for our moral and spiritual development. Man is a unit. Make him so strong that he cannot be coerced, so moral that he will not wrong and his freedom is secure. Educate the man and you cannot enslave him. You cannot enslave an educated people. We have greater men today than ever lived in any age. Alexander seemed great because there were few great men.

"We are thankful for the advance made in education. Our nation went to the aid of oppressed Cuba. The nations of Europe said that it was a war of conquest, on the part of the United States. But not so, for Cuba is free—a gift from America. No nation ever accomplished such an unselfish deed. We are thankful that our nation and our flag is leading the nations of the world in freeing the oppressed."

PATRIOTIC SERMON

Thanksgiving Services at St. Stephen's Church of An Impressive Character.

Both services at St. Stephen's church yesterday were interesting and well attended. Holy communion was held in the chapel at 7:30, and was followed at 10 o'clock by a full choral service. Special music was a feature of this meeting, an anthem entitled "Summer Ended, Harvest Gone," being especially enjoyed.

Rev. Edwin Weary took for his text "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation." He touched upon the standing of nations, saying they were measured almost invariably from a worldly standpoint, thas is from a financial or industrial standpoint. The speaker mentioned that, without righteousness, no nation could long maintain its lofty standard. It had proven out in many instances which the rector cited where the people of nations long since bereft of their power had placed worldliness before unrighteousness. President Roosevelt was paid a high tribute, being characterized by the rector as a God fearing man who ruled his people in a righteous manner.

The address was closed by recalling the many blessings which the people had enjoyed during the past year, and for which they should be truly grateful.

MAN, CHAPERON AND MAID

E. Anna S. Richardson

(Copyright, 1902, by E. S. Richardson)

"You are rather too young and attractive to chaperon Ruth," observed Mrs. Cuscadden surveying her companion with a keen, critical glance. "But she fairly has hysterics when I suggest her going home with me. And really the dear child has seen nothing of Paris, and she wants another week or so in London. If you could, my dear Leslie"—

Mrs. Leslie Burns instantly replied that she could and she would—with pleasure. So it happened that Mrs. Rogers Cuscadden sailed alone for New York to settle some vexed questions regarding the new house. Her parting warning to Mrs. Burns was:

"Now remember, Leslie, no international entanglements for Ruth. You know how Mr. Rogers feels on the subject. Besides I want to bring her out this season heart whole. A love affair is always a handicap for a debutante."

Never did chaperon use more graceful tact in executing her trust. Without making enemies she warded off the many admirers attracted to the vivacious young heiress until George Hackett appeared on the scene, dropping from some unheard of point in the orient. Well bred, well groomed, well tailored, breezy and alert, he was diplomacy proof.

Attaching himself to their party of two, he proved distressingly convenient and desirable. He knew his Paris by heart and steered his countrywomen from boredom with a skillful hand. Ruth boldly espoused his cause and informed Mrs. Burns that she was having a much jollier time since Mr. Hackett's arrival, whereupon Mrs. Burns read her charge the first long lecture of their companionship. Not that it would do any good, she argued, for how could any heart whole girl withstand George Hackett?

When the stay in Paris drew to a close, Mrs. Burns heard with dismay that Mr. Hackett was accompanying them as far as London. And London was but Paris repeated. Mr. Hackett knew just what points of interest Ruth would enjoy and what she should avoid. He was more useful than Baedeker and infinitely better company.

But when the day for sailing from Southampton was set and Mrs. Burns learned that the ubiquitous Mr. Hackett had taken passage on the same boat despair filled her soul. To the experienced chaperon no episode is more heavily charged with danger than an ocean voyage. At first she had been as rude as her gentle nature would permit, but the more chilly her reception the more assiduously would he devote himself to Ruth. If she occasionally relented and treated him with gracious tolerance, Mr. Hackett showed eager appreciation of her favor and waxed brilliant.

She was thinking it all over tonight as she sat alone on the deck. In less than twenty-four hours, the captain had said, they would be in New York harbor. Then must come the accounting to Mrs. Cuscadden. No doubt at this very moment, under the cover of coon songs in the saloon, Mr. Hackett was whispering into the ears of Ruth those tender words which he should not be permitted to whisper.

The traitorous chaperon felt a sudden twitching at her heartstrings. Should she defy fate in the form of Mrs. Cuscadden? For herself it would mean but a broken friendship; for George Hackett it meant happiness for life. Strangely enough she did not seem to consider Ruth's happiness. She was thinking only of her girlhood, when Hackett's friendship had been such a very dear thing; when she would have given him—promised him—anything he might ask, but he had not asked.

The coon singer had finished, and the softer strains of a popular waltz floated out on the night air. A great wave of tenderness swept over Leslie Burns. Why should she stand between the man she had loved and the happiness he now craved?

Alas for the confiding, complacent Mrs. Cuscadden and her maternal plans!

Mrs. Burns drew her cape more closely and shivered slightly. A shadow fell across the bar of light streaming from the gangway. A voice clear, but not loud, broke the silence brooding on the deck.

"May I have my cigar out here with you, Mrs. Burns?" Then as he dropped into the chair at her side: "What a bore one's traveling companions become directly land is sighted! I don't blame you for getting off to yourself."

"Oh, it wasn't that exactly," murmured Mrs. Burns. Then, with the air of trying to fill in an awkward pause, she added: "But there is a subtle joy in feeling that tomorrow night we shall see the New York harbor lights gleaming. There's no place in the world just like New York to us."

"Shall you stop in town?" queried Hackett.

"Just a day or so. I've a week promised to Mrs. Davenport at Tuxedo."

"Glad to hear that. I shall be in Tuxedo next week. Harry's taken a box down there for the rest of the season."

"But the Cuscaddens will be at the hot springs until their new place is finished." The remark sounded strangely flat to Mrs. Burns, and instantly she wished she had not given vent to her thought. Again she covered an awkward pause. "Dear me, I wonder where Ruth is this very minute."

"When I saw her last, dancing with young Ransome. A harmless youth, I assure you," he added whimsically as Mrs. Burns made a motion to rise. "Don't go, please, until— I have something I must tell you before we land."

It was coming. The guilty chaperon closed her eyes figuratively and prepared to take the plunge. She would pledge her aid and give it.

"Leslie"—

She started. Five years had passed since she had heard that name from his lips. Vaguely she wished he had commenced some other way.

"Do you remember when father sent me abroad? I was fresh from college, not much more than a boy. I knew little of life—women least of all. My experiences abroad with fellows I liked first bewildered and then fascinated me, and when father wrote I might make another year of it I was wild with delight.

"But you remember I wrote to you regularly. I supposed you understood. When I read of your coming out, I was tremendously proud. I think I ordered lilies of the valley for you by cable. I remember, too, thinking that when you'd had a season of that sort of thing and I'd finished my jaunt we'd settle down and be—very happy. I never dreamed that you were waiting for me to say so. I thought so clever a girl as you could read between the lines of my letters, and somehow I wanted to hear a certain little word from your own lips."

The woman at his side started to speak, but he waved her aside. The crimson glow of his cigar had turned to gray ashes, but he still clutched it between his fingers.

"The letter announcing your engagement reached me in Madrid. I've never been in the God forsaken hole since. When I reached America, you and your husband had gone abroad. For a year I tried life on the street, but I could not stand for it. Then I tried shooting lions in Africa and tigers in India. That went better than fleecing lambs in Wall street. I was visiting with a mighty good fellow on Curzon's staff when I heard—quite by accident—that you were—free. Two days later I turned my face westward. I did not intend to stop in Paris—but you were there. I thought—great heavens, how I hoped—you'd be glad to see me, but you were not. And, Leslie," his tone was actually commanding, "I want to know why."

The woman had been listening with bowed head, but with a strangely happy light gleaming in her eyes. Hesitatingly, incoherently, she explained her conduct in Paris, in London and aboard ship. Before she finished Hackett, possessing himself of both her hands, exclaimed:

"And you really thought it was that child! Oh, Leslie, Leslie, couldn't you read the truth in my eyes?"

Mrs. Burns suddenly recalled her duties as chaperon. She withdrew her hands from his masterful grasp.

"How could I look you in the eye when I knew I was unfaithful to the trust imposed on me by Mrs. Cuscadden?"

The old piquant humor rang in her voice. She had risen. From the saloon came the tintinnabulation of light music. The deck was free from promenaders. They were alone for the first time in five years.

* * * * * * * *

"Oh, what will Mrs. Cuscadden say?"

Hackett bent over her to gather up her wraps.

"I really don't see that she has anything to do with out little affair, provided you return her daughter heart whole and free from international entanglements," he answered joyously.

A shadow fell across the bar of light, then another, and the figure of a girl was silhouetted against the brilliant interior of the ship.

"Mrs. Burns, where are you? We're to have a good old fashioned Virginia reel to celebrate our last night on board. Do hurry up! We have a partner waiting for you!"

Then as Hackett's dark figure suddenly loomed up behind Mrs. Burns he glanced mischievously at Ruth and exclaimed, with a happy ring of ownership in his voice:

"Won't I do for her partner? I rather think this dance is mine!"

EASILY BEAT ROCHESTER

The West End Rovers Played a Superb Game, Hardy Again Proving the Star.

All the Rovers Put Up a First-Class Article of Football—Visitors Unable to Keep Their End—Other Football Games.

The West End Rovers maintained their reputations as mud horses yesterday by easily defeating the Rochester team at West End park. The gridiron was even worse than last Saturday and to make it more uncomfortable for the players and spectators, a heavy snow fell during most of the game. Hardy was again the bright and particular star. His work at fullback won for him the admiration and plaudits of even the opposing players, who finally found out that he was never down until there was weight enough on top to prevent him moving. He was as hard to hold as an eel and as strong as a lion. McDevitt also played a pretty game, and J. Hester was there with the goods. In fact all the Rovers put up a first-class article of foot ball.

The Rovers won the toss and Captain McAvoy decided to defend the west goal. List kicked off for Rochester to Jones, who returned the ball five yards. Hardy bucked cented for five yards. F. Coleman made five yards around the left end. Jones made five yards through center on a tackle-back formation. On the next play Robbins fumbled and J. Coleman fell on the ball. Hardy fumbled, but J. Hester secured the ball. It was almost impossible to hold the pigskin, owing to the slime that coated it. Rochester's ball on downs. They failed to make the necessary gain and it was the Rovers' ball again. Hardy hurdled the line for 20 yards and went through center for five more on the next play. The next two downs netted three yards. J. Coleman made three yards around the left end. Hardy and McDevitt bucked center on the next two downs for three yards each. The Rovers were hitting the Rochester line at will. Hardy on a tackles-back made six yards through center and the ball was on Rochester's five-yard line. Rochester braced up and held for one down. Hardy hit center for three years. Hardy was boosted through center for a touchdown. He failed to kick goal. List kicked off to Stillwell, who returned the ball 10 yards. HOME TEAM WON

Basket Ball Victory Rested With the Y. M. C. A. in Last Evening's Contest.

A big crowd witnessed a good game of basketball at the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A., last evening when the first team of the local association played the first team of the Y. M. C. A., of New Brighton. The visitors were heavier than the local boys but their knowledge of the game much below par. In the first half both teams played evenly, the score at the beginning of the second being 9 to 9. But before the second was fairly started the h ome team made a great spurt and soon had the score and game well in their hands. The final score was 27 to 13. The lineups were as follows:

New Brighton—J. Kelly, r. f.; Bessan, Holland, l. f.; Mitchell, c.; Mallony, r. c.; Bane, l. g.

East Liverpool—F. Allison, r. f.; Bloor, l. f.; Powell, c.; T. Watkins, r. c.; F. Chadwick, l. g.

RESULT A TIE

Large Crowd Witnessed the East Liverpool-Swissvale Association Game.

A large crowd was in attendance at the association foot ball game yesterday afternoon between the Rovers of this city and the Swissvale team.

The game was one of the best ever seen in this city, and though both clubs played a strong article of ball, the best they could do was to tie—2 to 2. From beginning to end the contest was exciting and hard fought.

Hall, for the Rovers, played the game of his life, and at many points was loudly cheered. His playing was extraordinary, while that of Gillespie and Clark, for Swissvile, fell little short of equaling it. The Rovers' goals were scored by Davis and Scarrett, while H. Foster and Clark had the honor of sending the ball across the goal for the Swissvale team.

Much more interest was shown in the contest than is manifested ordinarily, since the entnusiasts argued the result of this game would go a long way toward determining the championship of the two states. As the game resulted in a tie another game will be played the latter part of this month between these same teams. The game will probably be played at Swissvale's grounds. The teams lined up in the following order:

H. Foster, lineman for Rovers and Clark for Swissvale. Dick Phillips acted as referee. The Rovers have arranged for a game at Rock Springs park December 6 with the Crabtree, Pa., club, and next Saturday will play a practice game with the Laughlin No. 2 team at the park.

NEITHER SIDE SCORED

Stubbornly Fought Game Between Local And Steubenville High School Teams.

The most exciting game of foot ball ever witnessed in Steubenville was that between the East Liverpool high school rugby team and the club representing the Steubenville high school. The game was played on the Pleasant Heights grounds yesterday afternoon and was witnessed by a very large crowd. Neither team was able to score, and the game was hard fought from beginning to end.

Lewis, the colored fullback for Steubenville, played a brilliant game, distinguishing himself in many ways, while Mountford, right half for East Liverpool, made several phenomenal gains for his team. The return game will be played in two weeks at West End park.

OAKLAND A. C. BEATEN

In a Contest at Sebring Which Was Played Under Great Difficulty.

The Oakland A. C. returned from Sebring last night, where they were defeated in a hotly contested game with the Rugby team of that town yesterday afternoon. The score was 11 to 0, but it is said the result would have been far different had the Oakland lineup been of the usual strength. Morrow, one of the best men in the team, was off and there were several others who were either incapacitated or clear out of the game.

The contest was played under great difficulties on account of the bad condition of the ground, but nearly the whole town was out to witness the game, which was interesting in spite of the uneven score.

Tigers Defeated.

Victors Did Not Appear.

The members of the C. F. Armour football team were surprised and disgusted when they appeared upon the Rock Springs grounds at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and found that not a single man who went to make up the line for the Victor A. C. had put in an appearance. They waited in vain until 11.30 and then came to this side of the river carrying their fiercest looks, and vowing never again to make an agreement with so unreliable an aggregation. The management of the C. F. Armour's assert the only reason for the failure of their opponents to put in an appearance lies in the fact that the Victors were fearful they would be ignominiously defeated.

Won Three Turkeys.

Earl Clark secured the two turkeys offered as a prize at the Pleasure Palace, making a score of 19 out of a possible 25. Mr. Clark also secured the turkey at the Imperial bowling alley, breaking the alley record of 255 to 257.

Score 10 to 5.

Two football teams named Thompson's hill and Thompson's lane played yesterday afternoon, the game being won by the latter club by a score of 10 to 5.

Northsiders Beaten.

The Hill Top Rovers defeated the Northside rugby team yesterday afternoon by a score of 21 to 15.

Willie Slater's Handball Playing—Cornell and Henley Regatta.

The handball season is now at its height and players of the game will be interested in learning something about a lad in Brooklyn, Willie Slater, who who is picked by experts to be a coming champion in the professional world. He is now amateur champion of Brooklyn.

Willie Slater is only sixteen years old, but at handball he hasn't a peer in America among the amateurs.

He lives in Degraw street, Brooklyn, with his parents and inherited his taste and aptitude for the game from his father. The latter is an expert player himself and has been for years a patron of Phil Casey's famous handball court on Degraw street, not far from his home.

Willie used to go to Casey's with his father and watch him tackle the veterans until by and by he took a hand in the game himself. Attracted by the lad's ability and unusual aptitude, Casey taught him all the tricks of the game until the pupil excelled his master, and Casey is now ready to match him against any player of his age in America for any amount.

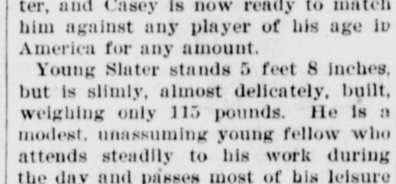

Young Slater stands 5 feet 8 inches, but is slimly, almost delicately, built, weighing only 115 pounds. He is a modest, unassuming young fellow who attends steadily to his work during the day and passes most of his leisure in the court. He has introduced methods of his own in the game which combine strength with delicacy and make his playing peculiarly spectacular.

Unless something occurs which will change the minds of the members of the Athletic council, Cornell university will next summer send a crew to participate in the Henley regatta on the Thames river. At a meeting of the council recently held at Ithaca, N. Y., the project of sending a crew abroad was presented and received a favorable vote.

Since the sweeping victory of the Cornell crews on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., last June the sentiment among all Cornell admirers has been strongly in favor of sending a crew to Henley. So much pressure was brought to bear that the Athletic council took a vote to get the sentiment of the members. The exact wording of the resolution on which the vote was taken is refused for publication.

Considerable opposition to the plan was shown by several of the faculty members, but the undergraduate sentiment was strongly in favor and finally prevailed.

Details are yet to be arranged. It is likely, however, that J. P. Frenzel, Jr., whose election as captain of the crew for 1903 was ratified, will be captain also of the Henley crew.

Many horsemen will remember the stallion Alvin, that looked more like a heavy harness horse, yet trotted to a record of 2:11 and was exported to Russia. A son of his recently won the big Futurity stake for trotters in Russia, the value of which was $12,000 and the time made 2:25¾, which ties the Russian record for five-year-olds. Another son of Alvin by the name of Armand was second in this stake.

Gambetta Wilkes, 2:19¾, has over 100 standard performers to his credit, but Alice Carr, 2:09¼, is his first and only 2:10 trotter.

The Windsor race track in Canada is now out of the northern racing circuit. The lessees, Sam Wagner, R. C. Chambers and J. Walker, found it impossible to make a pecuniary success of a meeting there under the prevailing conditions, and decided to give up their holdings.

The first call of Highland park on dates was one thing which tended to the failure of the track at the little Canadian city.

The lessees of the track have their eyes on another track, and it is very likely that Grosse Point, Mich., will be the future headquarters of the Windsor Jockey club.

A NEGRO KILLED BY STREET CAR

William Scott, While Lying on the Track in Chester, Was Run Over.

When He Left This City And Is Thought to Have Fallen And Stunned Himself — Testimony Brought Out at the Inquest.

Mangled and crushed so terribly that recognition of him was almost impossible the dead body of William Scott, a negro, aged 40, was taken from the street car track of the Rock Springs line, near Dunn's corner on Carolina avenue Wednesday night, a few minutes past 10 o'clock.

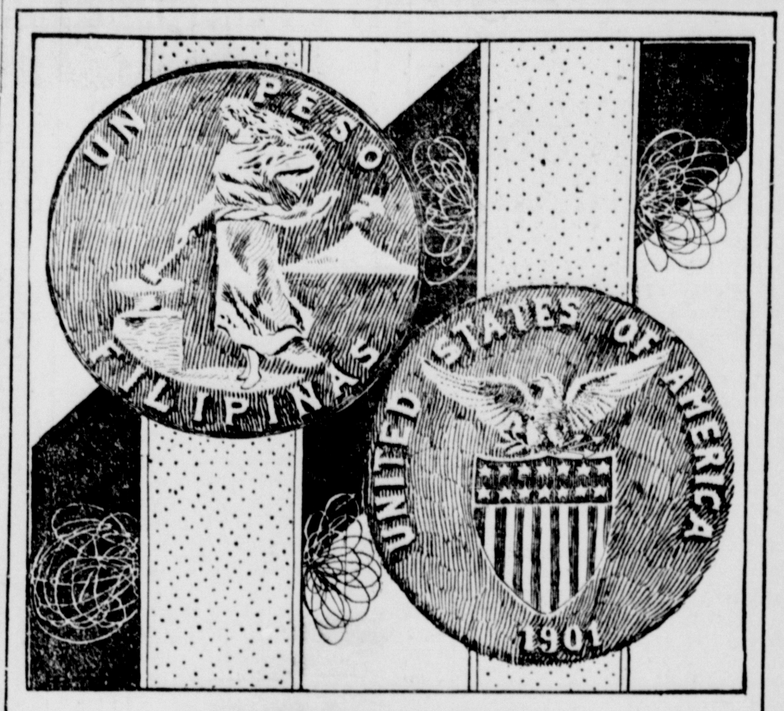

From testimony offered by witnesses before the coroner's jury yesterday afternoon the unfortunate man met his death through the effects of an overindulgence in intoxicating liquors. He had for several months been in the employ of Contractor Coates on street railway work, and only a few days ago the man received his pay and came over to this city Wednesday night and began drinking. At about 9:45 he was helped on a Southside car. At Dunn's corner he got off the car and was seen by several in company with another man, who was carrying a basket on his arm. Those who saw him in company with the stranger remember of noticing Scott's drunken condition. Apparently he was not seen after that until taken from the track dead.

Car No. 15, in charge of Conductor Hogue and Motorman Theodore Williams, killed the man. Williams did not see him lying on the track and did not know ...at his car had struck him until he felt an unusual motion. Turning off the power he alighted and saw the form between the wheels of the first truck. Word was sent to the car barn and jack screws and other appliances brought to raise the car. The body was taken to the barn. Between 12 and 1 o'clock it was removed to the undertaking establishment of Burns & McQuilkin and yesterday afternoon was again taken to the West Virginia side, where in Coroner Johnston's office before a jury composed of Attorney George D. Ingram, Alex Hineman, J. S. D. Mercer, John Bulman, Ephraim Johnston and George Arner an inquest was held.

The following witnesses were examined by the coroner: J. G. McGuire James A. Flood, James McKinnon Frank Hogue, Theo Williams and Alex Alexander. It is the general supposition that Scout in his stupefied condition in trying to cross the track fell and struck his head against a rail When the body was examined it was found that he had three gashes in his head, any one of which might have proved fatal, and his right arm was almost severed. His right leg was broken in several places and indications were that he had been badly injured internally. Upon his clothes were found about $5 in money, but no other valuables.

Many people in this city and Chester knew the man. He made many acquaintances. It will be remembered that he is one of the gang that was arrested a few weeks since for a misdemeanor on a street car which was crossing the bridge. Contractor Coates states that he was an excellent workman, and the verdict of all is that he was his own worst enemy.

It is not known definitely what disposition will be made of the remains, but they will lie at the undertaker's until tomorrow at least, awaiting word from relatives or friends, and if none put in an appearance it is likely that burial will be made in Chester.

NEW COINS FOR THE FILIPINOS.

A Filipino artist named Figarus designed the new coins which are to be minted in Manila for the use of the Philippine archipelago. On the reverse side of the peso is a beautiful American shield bearing the stars and stripes, with an American eagle perched above.

MUSICIANS' UNION

COLORED PEOPLE OF THIS CITY HAVE FORMED ONE.

A Charter Secured, And the Organization Starts With 21 Members.

Twenty-one colored musicians of this city have secured a charter from the American Federation of Musicians, and all its members, including orchestras, mandolin clubs, and a brass band will now be entitled to recognition from unionists throughout this section.

The new union is designated as local No. 253, (colored,) and is the second of the same character in existance here, the other having a very large membership and being composed of white players.

Several months ago a colored band sought patronage on several occasions, and upon being refused on account of their not being members of the union, they at once made application for affiliation with the union here. This was refused, and steps were at once taken to procure a charter of their own. The effort was successful and the charter has arrived. The scale of prices adopted is the same which has prevailed here for some time. However, this will likely be changed between now and the first of the year, as a committee is now at work upon a new one to govern the white organization, and will, it is said, become operative January 1.

Officers of the union are: President, W. P. Ormes; vice-president, George Johnson; second vice-president, P. S. Rhodes; secretary, A. L. Ormes; treasurer, O. S. Williams; member of executive committee, G. W. Ormes.

COLD WATER THROWN

By Congressman Burton on the Project for Early Improvement of the Ohio.

Washington, November 28.—"While I believe that the Ohio river should have a navigable channel of nine feet from Pittsburg to Cairo," said Representative Burton, of Ohio, chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors, "I do not believe that the United States government will undertake such a project within the next few years. To provide such a channel as far as Cincinnati would mean an outlay to the government of not less than $40,000,000 and to carry on the work to Cairo would necessitate an additional expenditure of $60,000,000.

"Besides if we were to provide such a large sum of money for the Ohio river, other river interests, such as the Mississippi, Tennessee and Cumberland, would expect similar treatment at the hands of congress. If a river and harbor bill made provision for such a large amount as would be needed for the Ohio river, Uncle Sam's treasury would receive a very severe draining and there is no telling what limit would be reached when the other projects throughout the country were provided for.

"For these reasons I do not see how anything can be undertaken for some time to come looking to a nine-foot channel in the Ohio river from Pittsburg to Cairo, although such a work would undoubtedly prove of the greatest benefit to the commerce of the river."

STEAM FERRY BOAT RUNS NO LONGER

Circuit Court Reverses the Hancock County Court And Declares the Operation of the Steamboat By Capt. Goucher to Be Illegal.

As a result of the decision of the county court of Hancock county in the case of Johnston against Goucher by which Goucher was given permission to operate a steam ferry between Wellsville and Congo being reversed by the circuit court, the well equipped and up-to-date boat, Emily, is no longer plying between the two points, and in its stead a miserable little flat is carrying the people and teams to and fro.

The circuit court in handing down its decision declared the operation of the steam ferry by Captain Goucher illegal, and among many other provisions ordered the owners of the craft to pay Johnston wharfage and damage from the time that the boat was started in its trade last spring.

Attorney Ingram, who has been working arduously for months on the case in behalf of Johnston, was much elated yesterday over the decision in his client's favor and stated that there will be more doing before the matter is dropped. He said that steps would immediately be taken toward entering a damage suit against Captain Goucher, and felt that as the court had ordered Goucher to pay damages that no difficulty will be confronted in acquiring any reasonable sum asked.

Although not definitely known, it is said that Captain Goucher intends to appeal the case. He has had in his employ Attorneys P. M. Smith and Charles Boyd, of Wellsville; Donehoo and Marshall, of New Cumberland, and several others.

The case originated with Goucher using the landing on the West Virginia shore without applying to Johnston, who alleges that it is his property, for the privilege. Johnston claimed that Goucher had no legal right to make use of the landing and charged trespassing. On the other hand Goucher took the stand that the landing is the property of the railroad and decided to fight any objection that might be raised.

To the people of Wellsville and even East Liverpool, as well as those living in Congo and back several miles in Hancock county, a ferry boat such as the Emily was not only a great convenience, but also a benefit from a pecuniary standpoint and the decision of the circuit court met with general disapproval. The flat now in use cannot transport the trade to satisfaction and in numerous ways all surrounding localities will be affected.

Flowing 60 Barrels an Hour.

Butler, Pa., Nov. 28.—The Middletown Fourth Sand oil field yesterday developed the best well which has as yet been struck here. It is owned by the Devonion Oil company, which controls all the territory in the immediate vicinity, and is flowing at the rate of 60 barrels an hour. It is located on the A. W. Starr farm and is 800 feet west of the well brought in by the same company on the Starr farm about two months ago, which started off at 300 barrels a day.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL

May Lead to Organizing a Church at McKinley Chapel, Pleasant Heights.

With the service of last night the evangelical meetings which have been in progress at the McKinley avenue ...ion chapel, closed. The revival has been remarkably successful, about twenty-five persons having professed conversion.

Rev. A. A. Steele, who has had charge of the meetings, has endeared himself to the people of that community, and a move is now on foot to form a regular church organization. Those who attend this chapel are members of the several churches throughout the city, and if the church is organized, Rev. Mr. Steele will be asked to take charge.

Opening of Congress

Many Matters to Be Considered During the Short Session ∴ ∴ ∴

WHILE the opening of the second session of the Fifty-seventh congress on Dec. 1 will lack most of the spectacular interest that marks the assembling of a new congress, yet the convening of the nation's lawmakers is an event that attracts wide public attention, fraught as it is with import to the peoples who acknowledge the sway of Uncle Sam.

Where once our dominion was confined to the North American continent, it now extends beyond the seas, and to distant Asiatic isles as well as those near our Atlantic shores the results of the deliberations of the United States congress possess a deep significance.

With the opening of the coming session congress enters regularly upon its one hundred and sixteenth year. Many possibly believe that the date of its inception is from 1774, when was held in Philadelphia what is known as the "first American congress." This congress, however, must not be confused with the congress of 1787, held also in Philadelphia, for it is from the latter we date the birth of our continuous legislative life as a nation, although the first congress under the constitution was not organized until March, 1789.

The first Continental congress made the Declaration of Independence a possibility. The second sustained the principles of that declaration and brought order out of years of chaos and uncertainty. September, 1787, then, was the beginning of the congress of today, although it was not until some months later that this became by the signature of the various state representatives an accomplished fact.

From a mere handful of men the house of representatives alone has grown to a membership of 357, and this has been further increased by the new apportionment, so that when a year from next December the Fifty-eighth congress assembles 386 representatives will answer to the roll call of the clerk of the house.

With the growth of the country in population, wealth and territory the work to be done by congress has enormously increased. This has been notably so in the last decade and especially in the last five years. The vast extension of our foreign interests, the enormous development of our foreign trade and the momentous political and economic complications which have arisen as a result of the war with Spain have introduced for the consideration of our legislators a wilderness of problems whose competent consideration demands the knowledge of an expert.

The greater part of the real work of congress is done in committees. In the senate fifty members are each on seven different committees and fourteen are on eight committees. The members of a committee are supposed to be specialists on particular subjects besides having a fairly comprehensive knowledge of any and all subjects which may come before the senate from all other committees. Senator Cullom is chairman of the committee on foreign relations. That would seem to be enough for the occupation of one man's time, even if he were wholly free from all questions of pensions, patronage and local interests. But it is not. He must serve on interstate commerce, appropriations, relations with Canada and relations with Cuba, and, when he has properly attended to all these, he can take a few hours to think about additional accommodations for the library of congress.

The short session of congress is always one of hurry. Beginning the first Monday in December, it ends by law on March 4. Out of this the holiday vacation is taken, so but two and a half months are left for work.

The appropriation bills must of necessity be passed, for without money even Uncle Sam cannot keep the wheels of government turning. Then there are new measures of great importance to be considered at the coming session. Perhaps the most important new matter will be the consideration of antitrust legislation. President Roosevelt is expected to make strong recommendations to this effect. It is thought not unlikely that an amendment of the Sherman antitrust law on the lines suggested by Attorney General Knox may receive the approval of congress.

The judiciary committees will have charge of trust legislation. Senator Hoar is chairman of the senate committee. The chairmanship of the house judiciary committee is vacant by reason of Representative Ray's appointment to the federal bench in New York. His mantle will undoubtedly fall to Representative Jenkins of Wisconsin.

The measure to protect the president has already passed both houses, but so far apart in its provisions that it must again be dealt with before it can be agreed on. The contest over Cuban reciprocity which generated so much warmth during the first session will again come up. There is doubt of the fight being renewed in the ways and means committees. The prospects are that the matter will be considered in the form of a treaty, in which event it will be discussed behind closed doors.

One of the most interesting measures before this session is the ship subsidy bill. It is predicted that a strong effort will be made to get it through the house, it having already passed the senate.

These are but a few of the matters that will keep our lawmakers busy during the scant three months of the short session. The men on whom the heaviest work will devolve, however, are the chairmen of the appropriations committees of both houses, who will have charge of the big supply bills—Messrs. Allison in the senate and Cannon in the house.

Other chairmen of senate committees who will have charge of appropriations are Proctor for agriculture, Stewart for Indians, Hawley for the military, Hale for naval affairs, Gallinger for pensions and Mason for postoffices.

Many of those who will take part in the deliberations of the coming session will not return to our national legislative halls as members of the Fifty-eighth congress. Some will never go back, while others by a turn of the political wheel may again be chosen to represent a constituency at Washington. The most notable of those who will be missed from the next house are Eugene F. Loud, who for twelve years has represented the Fifth California district, and Speaker David B. Henderson of Iowa. On March 4 next Mr. Henderson will have completed his twentieth year in congress and his second term as speaker. He retires voluntarily.

But while men come and go congress will continue uninterrupted on its way, guiding and assisting Uncle Sam on his pathway of destiny.

Revolutionary Disturbances.

San Domingo, Republic of Santo Dominga, Nov. 28.—The political situation in Santo Domingo has been complicated by revolutionary disturbances which have broken out in the north of the republic. The government has taken severe measures to suppress the movement. Many arrests have already been made. General Wes Gil and J. D. Bichardo, a former minister, are prisoners here. Quiet prevails in this city, but business is stagnant. Minister Powell had another interview Wednesday with the Dominican minister of foreign affairs, arranging the claims of the improvement company, and insisted on a settlement without any further delay.

General Nord Massing Army.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 28.—Letters received here from Haiti say there is still considerable excitement in that republic, especially at Gonavies, where General Alexis Nord, the Haitian war minister, is massing a large army with the intention of declaring himself president. It is added that he already has 10,000 men under his command and expects to advance on Port-au-Prince within a fortnight.

Campaign Against Ladrones.

Manila, Nov. 28.—The constabulary are carrying out an aggressive campaign against the Ladrones and fanatics in the western part of the island of Leyte and in the island of Biliran. Inspector Crockett, with a force of constabulary, engaged the Ladrones six times near the village of Ormoc on the south coast of Leyte, and killed 39 of them. Corporal Montague, at the head of another detachment of constabulary, inflicted a defeat on a band of Ladrones near Talibaug, on Marian island, killing 13 and capturing 36 of them. The constabulary, on its side, has suffered no casualties.

Killed by Trolley Cars.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 28.—Oscar F. Raynor, of Westamption, L. I., aged 19 years, a student at the Lawrenceville, N. J., preparatory school, was killed in this city last night by being caught between two trolley cars, one of which he was attempting to board. Raynor was returning to Lawrenceville from Camden, where he had spent the day at the home of a fellow student.

Aged Justice Suicides.

Lorain, O., Nov. 28.—Squire Gilmore, for 39 consecutive years justice of the peace of this township, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself with a revolver. He was 70 years of age. He had been confined to his bed for six weeks and despaired of ever becoming well.

Raided Counterfeiting Den.

Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 28.—Secret Service Agent Shaw raided a counterfeiting plant on Monte Sano yesterday and arrested M. V. Evans, an alleged counterfeiter. Many bogus dimes, half dollars and dollars were confiscated. They are made so well that only experts can determine their character. The full outfit of counterfeiting tools was found.

NO REVISION OF TARIFF.

Nor Is There Likely to Be Any Extra Session of Congress.

Washington, Nov. 28.—There will be no tariff revision before the next presidential election. There will be no extra session of congress.

Leaders of the Republican party have conceded to the president legislation to better regulate trusts for the purpose of evading a reopening of the tariff question "in the time of the country's greatest prosperity."

Every member of congress who has seen the president this week has attempted to impress upon him the necessity of leaving the tariff alone for the present. He has listened to their views with interest, and following, he considers, a party mandate, will not go beyond a recommendation for a tariff revision.

Two Linemen Badly Injured.

New Castle, Pa., Nov. 28.—Linemen Harry Hutchinson and Harry Agan employed by the New Castle Traction company, were badly injured yesterday in a runaway caused by a live wire. The North Highland avenue trolley broke and they were sent to repair it. A part of the live trolley dropped on the team hitched to the repair wagon. The horses ran, upsetting the tower wagon and throwing the linemen out. Hutchinson's back was badly injured, the spine being affected, and Agan had his ankle broken.

Union Service.

Springfield, O., Nov. 28.—An unusual service was held yesterday in which the members of the First Congragational church joined Ohev Seducah congregation, the fashionable Jewish church of the city. The union service was the result of a destructive fire, by which the congregational church was burned. Among all the offers of places in which to worship until a building could be erected, that of the Hebrew church, being most satisfactory, was accepted. Both congregations read responsively from the Hebrew prayer book and sang from the Congregational hymnal.

Unusual Decision.

Ottumwa, Ia., Nov. 28.—For the first time since the Dred-Scott decision, it is said, a United States circuit court has refused to follow a decision of a state supreme court. The case is that of the Water Supply company, of Ottumwa, against the city of Ottumwa. The plaintiffs sought to prevent the building of a municipal water plant and carried the case to the United States circuit court at St. Louis. That tribunal decides that Ottumwa has reached the legal limit of indebtedness, notwithstanding the fact that the state supreme court of Iowa decided that a levy for this purpose would not be a part of the constitutional indebtedness of the city.

Burglars' Bold Attempt.

Dayton, Pa., Nov. 28.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the First National bank here last night. Reid Marshall, director of the bank, discovered the robbers at work and fired five charges at them from a double-barreled shotgun. The robbers escaped, but left a trail of blood behind them.

Repaired and Proceeded.

New York, Nov. 28.—The Allan State Line steamer Sardinian, which sailed yesterday for Glasgow, was obliged to return and anchor off Tompkinsville, S. I., owing to her machinery being deranged. She repaired and proceeded today.

OUR NATIVE TREES

... By ...

THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Ph. D.,
Professor of Botany, Iowa State University.

VIII.—Forestry and Reforestation.

THE value of the forest in itself and in its relation to the welfare of humanity in general has doubtless long attracted the attention of thoughtful men. Records of the fact are not wanting even in the ancient classics. It is even claimed for the old time Jews that they had forest regulations. In western Europe, however, for a long time men and trees seem to have stood in the position of natural rivals. In times of peace as the population waxed the forest retreated. When by decimation and continuous war the people perished, the forests resumed their earlier sway and covered the abandoned fields and homes of men. Indeed, as affording opportunity for the chase forests were by the rulers of the earth sometimes more highly esteemed than peoples and towns. All earlier government regulations preserved or established forests simply as a covert for the wild beasts. For whatever of native forests exists in England and western Europe generally we are doubtless indebted to the hunting instinct strongly developed in the hearts of the old time kings and princes. The Norman kings of England, as every schoolboy knows, were notorious for activity in this sport. Sherwood forest is probably part of the prehistoric woods of Britain preserved for purposes of the chase through all the centuries. New forest was new by order of William the Norman. A cultivated country became a royal hunting ground and, in fact, remained so down to the year 1857. The very royalty of the woods, however, operated at length to their disadvantage. They shared the fortunes of monarchy and flourished or decayed with the strength or feebleness of succeeding kings. A powerful monarch protected his property; a weaker sovereign lost it. Thus the celebrated ordinance of 1689, elaborated by Colbert and Louis XIV., was expected to correct abuses that during the supremacy of weaker sovereigns had almost ruined the royal domain. Of course, the overthrow of monarchy under these conditions jeopardized the very existence of the forest. Accordingly we are not surprised that the Puritan revolution in England left a greatly reduced wooded area in that country, and across the channel the notorious French revolution vented its rage especially on the royal forests, on groves, on parks of castles, chateaux, wherever a privileged class had up to that time been the conservators of large estates and widespreading wooded regions.

However, all this is happily now long past. All men are wiser. Not only are forests now preserved and cared for in nearly all the principal countries of Europe, but their value is rightly esteemed by everybody. Whether the property of king or people, no one nowadays would think of their destruction or obliteration.

Forests in Europe, as of yore, are largely the property of the government, republic, kingdom or empire, but they are no longer regarded as instruments of oppression. France has now one of the most complete systems of forest management in the world and has in later years accomplished wonders in restoring her provinces to the fortunate condition of earlier times. Since the establishment at Naples of a school of forestry in 1827 the application of genuine scientific treatment in the whole forest problem has been in France more varied and extensive than anything else in the world. Germany, as we shall see, has a much larger organization, but the problem in the fatherland was much less complex. In general we may say that in France the whole forest question is in review. For instance, France has undertaken the reforestation of her mountains. The movement began in 1862 by the passage of laws making large appropriations for this purpose. In the accomplishment of the work something like $10,000,000 has since been expended, and the task is only about half completed. Eight million acres of tillable land were threatened with destruction, and to avert the impending calamity it was necessary to plant with trees more than 800,000 acres of mountain side. In Gascony a hundred years ago the whole region between the Gironde and the Adore was swept by the west wind coming in from the Atlantic. Vast sand dunes extended for miles and miles along the western coast of France and were slowly burying the tillable and habitable land moving inward at about the rate of sixteen feet per year. Those dunes have been covered with a forest of pines and are today the seat of an industry, a forest industry, giving employment to thousands of people. One cannot but admire the energy with which such adverse conditions are overcome. The Frenchman is staggered by no difficulty. Nothing is impracticable with him. If by the blunders of the past the mountains are coming down upon him, he forthwith sets out to rehabilitate the mountains and bind the sources of the river; if the sands tossed up by the waves threaten him with entombment he plants the dunes with appropriate vegetation and makes of them not a windbreak only of interior fields, but a breakwater to the encroachments of the ocean. Does the mistral plague his southern provinces, vex his orchards and blight his olive yards, he plants forests across the path of the north wind and so restores the old time conditions of moisture and climate. If in all these matters men of the next century are wiser and more fortunate than we, it will in a large measure be owing to the farreaching experimentations now in progress on the mountains and in the river valleys of France.

In Germany systematic investigation of some of these problems began a little earlier than in France, and to Germany, as it seems, belongs the credit of establishing the first schools of arboriculture in the world. Several such schools were set up in the Harz mountains in 1772. Today a chair of forestry is found in almost every university in the German empire, and more than 4,500 men are engaged in the administration of the German forests. There were a few years since twenty German periodicals devoted to forestry interests only. In addition to all this, there are separate schools for forestry where nothing else is attempted but the preparation of candidates for administrative work among the woods and trees. About ten years of such preparatory service are required, five in study, five in practice work.

German foresters of course have their own problems. Some are of great moment, but the author knows of none at present as farreaching as are some of those cited in France. The Germans had more to start with. Today it is the chief duty of the German forest administration to maintain the forests as they now stand. Nevertheless it is the ultimate policy of the German government to bring under other forms of culture all lands susceptible of such treatment, not reducing the wooded area indeed, but gradually shifting it so that eventually only such lands will be occupied with trees as are practically valuable for no other crop. And yet the extent of the forest is not to be diminished. Of course in such management there will always be respect to climatic and erosional possibilities. Every forest in Germany is accurately mapped. In the working plans of those in charge of any wood every tree is noted and recorded. Think of 7,000,000 acres of woodland cared for with exactitude such as that! Small wonder that the forests of Germany are a source of constant and considerable revenue to the imperial government. In 1895 the cost of administration in the German forest is stated at $1.32 per acre, the income at $2.63. On 7,000,000 acres this will be quite a considerable item in the kaiser's budget.

No American who has not witnessed it can form any conception of what it is to see a forest in order. To walk in the shadow of great trees by self appointed paths, to see beeches and oaks and firs and pines luxuriating at their best and yet all perfect, each supporting but none destroying the other, none fallen, none distorted or dying and, best of all, none consumed with fire, is an experience like to that of an artist in a splendid painted hall. The writer once saw an oak two or three feet in diameter felled in the forest by the Rhine. The tree was taken down piecemeal. Not a sapling was injured in its fall. There was no stump. The sawyers cut a little below the surface of the ground. From the scene of action a temporary iron tramway was laid to the regular avenue of exit, and so the logs were safely and quickly moved out of sight. When all was done, there was left on the ground not a chip, not so much as a twig. The stump itself, if such it may be called, was buried in the soil and so left to decay.

The German method of treatment is different from that practiced in some other countries—England, for instance. In England the natural forest is all cut at once, the grounds then reset or replanted with seed. In Germany the object seems to be to keep the forest as such always in practically the same condition. The removal and constant renewal of native trees are scarcely at all noticeable.

The woods are mixed in character, and replanting goes on all the time, chiefly from nurseries.

In Austria the forestry methods are largely those of Germany; in Switzerland they are those of France. Forest denudation has already in many places almost ruined the Swiss mountains and has covered the fertile valleys with glacial debris. The French method of experiment is exactly in line with the Swiss necessity. Italy is attempting something of the same sort. Her mountains and streams everywhere show the results of thousands of years of mismanagement. Her forestry school is at Milton's Vallombrosa, a locality in beauty fortunately still worthy of the poet's praise. But the progress of economic reform in Italy is still discouragingly slow.

The illustrations we have cited have brought to us some conception of modern forestry, may even enable us perchance to frame a definition of the word. Forestry is really a branch of agriculture, field culture in the broader acceptation of the term. Yet forestry is something more than a single crop of aboreous plants. Forestry, as we understand it, is a science which concerns itself with world culture, an art which teaches the proper use of the earth as an abode for civilized and enlightened men. The forester is something more than woodman, and forestry is something more than the care of the woods. Forestry is applied knowledge. It is the practical application of all that we know of botany, geology, meteorology. Besides this, it is a branch of economics and concerns what we call social science. It includes all these things. No greater problem today exists in either philanthropy or science.

TRIFLING WITH YOUR HEALTH

Is like Playing with a loaded Gun. If you have Kidney Trouble attend to it at once.

It is easy to tell whether your Kidneys or bladder are diseased. Take a bottle or glass tumbler and fill it with urine. If there is a sediment—a powder-like substance—after standing a day and night, if it is pale or discolored, ropy or stringy, there is something wrong with the Kidneys. Other sure signs of disease are a desire to urinate often, pain in the back, or if your urine stains linen.

There is no question that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best and surest medicine in the world for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Chronic Constipation, and the sicknesses peculiar to women. It quickly relieves and cures inability to hold urine and the necessity of getting up a number of times during the night, and puts an end to the scalding pain when passing urine.

The Rev. Henry P. Miller, pastor Baptist Church, Spartenburg, S. C., writes:

"For years I suffered with Kidney, liver and heart troubles, swimming in the head, dull headache and numbness of the limbs. Physicians prescribed for me and I took different medicines, but none of them did me any good. But Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cured me in about two weeks."

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose.

CUBA STATES TERMS.

If Treaty Concedes 25 Per Cent Tariff Cut Palma Will Sign It.

Havana, Nov. 28.—If the Cuban reciprocity treaty, as now proposed concedes a 25 per cent reduction in tariff duties, there is a strong probability of its acceptance by President Palma and the Cuban senate. Secretary of State Saldo and Secretary of the Treasury Montes, the commission on the part of the Cuban government to negotiate the treaty, submitted five objections. Three of these are conceded by the United States. The fourth relates to Porto Rican coffee and, it is thought, can be conceded by the United States without difficulty.

This leaves only the question of the amount of the reduction in the United States tariff. If the proposed 20 per cent is increased to 25 per cent President Palma likely will send the treaty to the senate for ratification.

A Timely Suggestion.

"Now that winter with its bad weather is with us I would advise every family to provide themselves against sudden attacks of coughs and colds by keeping at hand a good cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which is the best among the many preparations for these ailments that I have on my shelves." says Mr. L. C. Neaville, the well known and popular druggist of Pittsboro, Ind. "I recommend this remedy and guarantee it to be without an equal for coughs and colds, also as a preventitive and cure for croup." EXPLAINS POSITION.

The President Makes Clear His Attitude on Appointments of Colored Men.

ABILITY, NOT COLOR, CONSIDERED

Says the Door of Hope and Opportunity Shall Not Be Shut Upon Any Worthy Man Purely Upon the Grounds of Race or Color.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The president has sent the following communication to a citizen of Charleston, S. C.:

White House,
Washington, Nov. 26, 1902.

My Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of Nov. 10 and of one from Mr. ———, under date of Nov. 11, in reference to the appointment of Dr. Crum as collector of the port of Charleston. In your letter you make certain specific charges against Dr. Crum, tending to show his unfitness in several respects for the office sought. These charges are entitled to the utmost consideration from me and I shall go over them carefully before taking any action. After making these charges you add as a further reason for opposition to him that he is a colored man, and after reciting the misdeeds that followed carpet-bag rule and negro domination in South Carolina, you say that "We have sworn never again to submit to the rule of the African, and such an appointment as that of Dr. Crum to any such office forces us to protest unanimously against this insult to the white blood," and you add that you understood me to say that I would never force a negro on such a community as yours. Mr. ——— puts the objection of color first, saying:

Concerned and Pained.

"First, he is a colored man, and that of itself ought to bar him from the office." In view of these last statements I think I ought to make clear to you why I am concerned and pained by your making them and what my attitude is as regards all such appointments: How any one could have gained the idea that I had said I would not appoint reputable and upright colored men to office when objection was made wholly to them on account of their color, I confess I am wholly unable to understand. At the time of my visit to Charleston last spring I had made and since that time I have made a number of such appointments from several states in which there is a considerable colored population. For example, I made one such appointment in Mississippi and another in Alabama, shortly before my visit to Charleston. I had at that time appointed two colored men as judicial magistrates in the District of Columbia. I have recently announced another such appointment for New Orleans and have just made one from Pennsylvania. The great majority of my appointments in every state have been of white men. North and south alike it has been my sedulous endeavor to appoint only men of high character and good capacity, whether white or black. But it has been my consistent policy in every state where their numbers warranted it to recognize colored men of good repute and standing in making appointments to office. These appointments of colored men have in no state made more than a small proportion of the total number of appointments. I am unable to see how I can legitimately be asked to make an exception for South Carolina. In South Carolina, to the four most important positions in the state, I have appointed three men and continued in office a fourth, all of them white men—three of them originally gold Democrats—two of them, as I am informed, the sons of Confederate soldiers. I have been informed by the citizens of Charleston whom I have met that these four men represent a high grade of public service.

Will Not Appoint Unfit Men.

I do not intend to appoint any unfit man to office. So far as I legitimately can I shall always endeavor to pay regard to the wishes and feelings of the people of each locality, but I cannot consent to take the position that the door of hope—the door of opportunity—is to be shut upon any man, no matter how worthy, purely upon the grounds of race or color. Such an attitude would, according to my convictions, be fundamentally wrong. If, as you hold, the great bulk of the colored people are not yet fit in point of character and influence to hold such positions, it seems to me that it is worth while putting a premium upon the effort among them to achieve the character and standing which will fit them.

The question of "negro domination" does not enter into the matter at all. It might as well be answered that when I was governor of New York I sought to bring about negro domination in that state because I appointed two colored men of good character and standing to responsible positions—one of them to a position having a salary twice as large as that paid in the office now under consideration—one of them as a director of the Buffalo exposition. The question raised by you and Mr. ——— in the statements which I refer is simply whether it is to be declared that under no circumstances shall any man of color, no matter how upright and honest, no matter how good a citizen, no matter how fair in his dealings with all his fellows, be permitted to hold any office under our government. I certainly cannot assume such an attitude, and you must permit me to say that in my view it is an attitude no man should assume, whether he looks at it from the standpoint of the true interest of the white man of the south or of the colored men of the south, not to speak of any other section of the Union. It seems to me that it is a good thing from every standpoint to let the colored man know that if he shows in marked degree the qualities of good citizenship—the qualities which in a white man

Without any regard as to what my decision may be on the merits of this particular applicant for this particular place, I feel that I ought to let you know clearly my attitude on the far broader question raised by you and Mr. ———, an attitude from which I have not varied during my term of office.

Faithfully yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Trolley Car Overturns and Kills a Boy and Injures a Score of Other Persons.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—One boy was instantly killed and a score of other persons were injured by a car of the Philadelphia and Lehigh Valley Traction company overturning as it was rounding a curve yesterday at Hatfield, about 27 miles north of this city. The dead boy was Wallace Crouthummel, of Hatfield, aged 14 years. The most seriously injured are Joseph Detweiler, aged 19 years, of Souderton, who is internally injured and may die, and John Esser, of Souderton, the motorman, who had three ribs broken.

There were 70 passengers on the car, among them the Perkasie high school foot ball eleven, which was on its way to play at Lansdale. In rounding a curve the brake failed to work and the car made the turn so swiftly that the body of the car was snapped from its trucks and fell on its side. Crouthummel, who was standing on the rear platform, was thrown heavily to the ground, breaking his neck and causing almost instant death. Excepting Detweiler and Esser, the other passengers escaped serious injury, although some of them were severely bruised. The members of the football team were not injured.

THE CUBAN RIOTS.

Arrest of Editor Ordered on Charges of Sedition.

Havana, Nov. 28.—Two of the men who were injured Wednesday evening on a street car by shots fired from neighboring houses died yesterday. There have been no further disturbances. The mayor has ordered the police to arrest all the occupants of the houses from which the shots may have been fired at the car Wednesday.

The special judge in charge of the rioting cases has ordered the arrest of Arnauto Cervantes, the editor of the Reconcentrado, on charges of sedition.

Endeavors are being made to settle the differences between the cigar makers and their employers. It was rumored last night that another general strike will be declared should these endeavors fail, though it is stated that not all the unions would join in the movement.

WORK OF LA SOUFRIERE.

A Raging, Steaming Torrent Flowed from Volcano.

Kingston, St. Vincent, Nov. 28.—Wednesday's eruption of La Soufriere occurred at the head of the dry river, Rabacca, where huge quantities of volcanic deposits had blocked the water course since the eruptions last May in spite of the subsequent heavy rainfall. After the eruption a raging, steaming torrent flowed from the base of La Soufriere and swept down the Rabacca, completing the destruction of the sugar works there. Sand at the same time fell on Georgetown and other places.

Two Italians Shot.

Czar Expresses Utmost Admiration for America to Ambassador Tower.

AMBASSADOR WHITE HONORED.

Emperor William Presents Him With the Gold Medal of the Empire for Science and Art—Other Foreign News Notes of General Interest.

Paris, Nov. 28.—Ambassador Tower arrived here yesterday and exchanged courtesies with Ambassador Porter and others. He attended a Thanksgiving dinner given by General Winslow. Mr. Tower will remain here 10 days, going to Berlin early in December, when he will present his credentials to Emperor William as ambassador to Germany. Ambassador Tower has concluded a two weeks' journey in Russia. The Russian authorities furnished him with a sumptuous car and he was attended by Russian officials. When Mr. Tower presented his letters of recall to the czar his majesty referred with the utmost cordiality to his admiration of America and evinced deep interest in American institutions. He inquired particularly about the circumstances attending President Roosevelt's recent accident. The czar was highly gratified at Mr. Tower's assurance that the president's injury would have no lasting effects.

The ambassador referred to the cordiality of his reception at Lividia as another evidence of the sincere friendship entertained by Russia for the United States.

Decorated by Emperor.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Emperor William, in his farewell audience of Ambassador White yesterday, presented him with the gold medal of the empire for science and art, which is given once a year to a person, either a German or a foreigner, who, in the opinion of the government, is best entitled to it. Emperor William said that while it was a pleasure to make the presentation, he did so on the recommendation of Chancellor Von Buelow and Foreign Secretary Von Richthofen. His majesty added that as a personal remembrance he was having a porcelain vase made at the royal works here for Mr. White.
